JUDGE HOLDS CAPONE'S FATE

House Defeats Bonus Veto 328 to 79

EXPECT SENATE WILL OVERRIDE HOOVER TODAY

President's Protest Set Aside.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—President Hoover's veto of the veterans' bonus loan bill was overridden by the house today by a vote of 328 to 79. The senate is scheduled to take similar action tomorrow and the bill, which increases present maximum loans on bonus certificates held by world war veterans from 22½ to 50 per cent of their face value, will become law despite the President's objection.

[Acme-F.&A. Photo.]

The house made quick work of it. The President's veto message reached the house shortly before 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Its reading was completed within half an hour. Representative John Q. Tilson [Rep., Conn.] made a futile appeal for support in an effort to sustain the veto. Shouts for an immediate vote drowned out attempts of others to get recognition. The roll call was completed by 4 o'clock.

Senate Delays Vote Till Today.

The bill was sent at once to the senate, where the second deficiency bill was under consideration. Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] and Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] sought to prod the Republican leaders into immediate action on the veto, but the latter had agreed to put it off until tomorrow. The veto message finally was read to the senate at Senator Johnson's insistence and a unanimous consent agreement was entered into for its consideration, commencing at 11 o'clock tomorrow. Under the agreement, there will be no limitation of debate, but the matter will remain continuously before the senate until it is disposed of.

President Hoover in his veto message repeated the argument regarding the financial and economic aspects of the proposal which he had made known to congress during the original consideration of the bill. To this he added some estimates of the small number of veterans needing aid and a discussion of the legislation in principle.

The President said that the measure represents "a step toward government aid to those who can help themselves."

A decrease in the burden of taxes and unemployment is the need of the people today, asserted the President, who said that this legislation is a movement toward "higher tax levels and lessened employment."

Objects to It as Precedent.

The President said he regarded the bill as "unwise from the standpoint of the veterans themselves and unwise from the standpoint of the welfare of all the people." Of grave importance, he said, is "the whole tendency to open the federal treasury to a thousand purposes."

President Hoover received somewhat more support in the house than when the bill was originally passed. The vote on its original passage was 331 to 79. Today's vote of 328 to 79 represented a net switch of 40 Republicans who voted for the bill before to the negative side.

The affirmative total was ample for the two-thirds necessary for passage over the President's veto. On the basis of those voting, 272 affirmative votes would have been necessary to pass it over the veto.

The senate also is expected to furnish a two-thirds vote without difficulty, as the bill was passed there by a vote of 72 to 12.

The Republicans from the central states who were among the 79 voting to sustain the President's veto were Representatives Morton D. Hull, E. W. Sproul, and Carl R. Chindblom [Ill.]; Richard N. Elliott, A. H. Vestal, and Will R. Wood [Ind.]; Grant M. Hudson [Mich.], F. D. Letts, Cyrenus Cole, C. W. Ramseyer, and L. J. Dickinson [Ia.].

230 FOUND DEAD AFTER HURRICANE IN FIJI ISLANDS

SUVA, Fiji, Feb. 27.—(AP)—[Friday] Two hundred thirty persons were killed Saturday in the worst hurricane ever experienced in the Fiji islands. Most of the victims were Fijians and East Indians. One European was electrocuted.

Heavy floods devastated the districts of Signatoka, Ba, and Lautoka, cutting off all communication until today. One hundred died in Signatoka, eighty in Ba, and fifty in Lautoka. More were expected to die of exposure and cold before help arrived.

The hurricane lasted from 3:30 p. m. until 3 a. m. Stores and other buildings were smashed. The damage was done in a narrow radius sixty miles from Suva. The region was made inaccessible for days.

27 Dead in South Italy.

NAPLES, Italy, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Cyclonic storms which have battered southern Italy for almost a week had abated tonight, leaving in their wake about 27 persons drowned and several million dollars' damage. The storm wrought its worst damage on small vessels, seaports, and country districts. Lives were lost in widespread points such as Trapani, on the western tip of Sicily, Messina, Foggia, and Naples. As reports trickled in from outlying towns the death toll climbed steadily.

SPEAKS FOR FIRST TIME IN 4 YRS. AS SON KILLS SELF

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Catharine Zenito, 60, of Newark, who had been unable to speak since she suffered a paralytic stroke four years ago, exclaimed "My boy!" today when she heard a pistol shot that ended the life of her son, Joseph, 22, in an adjoining room. Brooding over an illness he believed serious, the youth committed suicide.

Mrs. Zenito, who was bedridden, must have had a premonition that something was going to happen, for nearly an hour before her son came home she motioned her daughter, Rose, 18, to her bedside and signaled her to bring her rosary. Joseph returned an hour later. He kissed his mother and went into the bathroom and shot himself through the head.

Rose and her sister ran into their mother's room just as she exclaimed "My boy!" Within the next few minutes Mrs. Zenito lapsed into a coma and physicians were unable to revive her tonight. They were doing everything possible to save her life and hoping that the restoration of speech was not temporary.

U. S. Will Sell 35 Million Bu. Wheat at Loss

BY PAUL POTTER.

For the first time in grain marketing annals, American wheat financed by federal funds to the extent of many millions of dollars is to be sold abroad at whatever it will bring and the loss charged to the federal farm board's stabilization efforts on behalf of the American farmer.

GEORGE S. MILNOR.
[Strauss Photo.]

This decision, forecast unofficially earlier in the week, was revealed yesterday in the form of an announcement by George S. Milnor, president of the Grain Stabilization corporation, operating under farm board supervision.

Milnor's statement, which caused a break of 2½ cents a bushel in July wheat contracts on the Chicago Board of Trade, said that not to exceed 35 million bushels of "choice milling wheat" now stored in American seaboard points would be sold for export.

Make Policy Known.

"There have been persistent rumors," said the statement, "both in this country and abroad regarding the probable selling policy on the wheat under the control of the federal farm board.

"The corporation has some stocks of choice milling quality wheat at the Atlantic seaboard, gulf, and in the Pacific northwest which on account of position cannot move into domestic markets advantageously for milling, drought relief, or feeding purposes.

"In order that such stocks may be disposed of in ample time to clear the port facilities for taking care of the new 1931 crop, it is deemed advisable that such wheat be sold in export markets during the next four months. The quantity available will not exceed 35 million bushels.

Offered at World Price.

Milnor declared that this wheat, which is estimated by grain merchants to be nearly one-fourth of the entire holdings of the farm board's subsidiary, "will not be offered at lower prices than those of other principal exporting countries, taking into account customary differentials for grades and quality."

"There is nothing in this export policy," he said, "that will interfere with or cause any change in the domestic policy on the 1930 crop."

Coming a week before the expected withdrawal of Alexander Legge as chairman of the farm board, the announced plan to export about one-eighth of all the visible wheat in the United States was accepted in Chicago grain circles as being the first step toward liquidation of the gigantic holdings of the governmental agency.

About Half of Purchase Price.

Dispatches from Liverpool indicated that hard winter wheat of highest grade would sell there at about 69 cents a bushel, which would represent about 54 cents in Chicago. This is about half the estimated average price of the federally financed wheat purchased over a period of a year and a half.

Exports of American wheat have been practically at a standstill for months, Board of Trade officials declared yesterday, due to the Chicago prices being supported by the farm board at levels from 18 to 23 cents a bushel over world prices. With wheat to be delivered in May selling at 87 cents in Chicago yesterday, and the July delivery wheat at 65 cents, the Liverpool market, reflecting current world prices, was one-fifth to one-third under the Chicago price.

DOCTOR TELLS HOW GIRL DIED AT GIN PARTY

Kirkland Fights to Bar Confession.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Testimony in the trial of Virgil Kirkland reached an emotional climax today with a medical expert on the witness stand all afternoon describing how Arlene Draves was ravished and killed.

MRS. BERNICE ELSER.

The expert's testimony reached only a limited audience, Judge Grant Crumpacker having excluded the 500 morbidly curious spectators who jammed the courtroom at the opening of the session.

Returning from the noon recess, Judge Crumpacker found the seats and aisles packed to the walls with elderly men and women jostling high school boys and girls for vantage points near the jury box and even on the steps of the judicial bench.

Heightens Curiosity of Crowd.

The morbidity of the crowd had been heightened by the testimony at the forenoon session. Sensational stories had been told under oath by Police Lieutenant Paul Thixton of Gary and by Mrs. Bernice Elser, companion of the girl at the Gary house party during which she was killed.

With the throng blocking every corridor and anteroom, it was impossible to bring the jury in at 1:30. Sheriff Burney Maxwell, glancing apprehensively over the pack of humanity, remarked:

"There might be a riot if I tried to clear the courthouse."

Declaring that the spectators had "interfered with the orderly administration of justice," the judge led the lawyers, court attachés and relatives of Arlene and Kirkland to a smaller courtroom by a rear corridor.

Court Opens Hour Late.

Kirkland was led in, followed by the jury. The session began at 2:30 p. m., an hour behind schedule, with the faces of some of the thwarted throng pressed against the glass doors from outside, while others stood about the courthouse rotunda, hoping to catch a word.

The expert witness, Dr. J. B. Burcham, took the stand. As coroner's physician of Lake county, Dr. Burcham performed an autopsy on Arlene's body two hours after she was pronounced dead and Prosecutor John Underwood was relying on him to prove the state's charge of murder.

"I was called to the Marshall & Dewey mortuary in Gary about 5 a. m. on Nov. 30," Dr. Burcham began, referring to his notes at hand.

Tells of Autopsy on Girl.

"On a slab in the basement I saw the warm body of a white girl about 18 years old, weighing 110 pounds, and 5 feet 3 inches tall. She had chestnut hair and a few wire pins still were fastened in the strands, which were running loose."

In precise medical language, the witness began enumerating the injuries he had found—a forehead bruise, a cerebral concussion, abrasions on the neck, bruises on the arms and legs and ruptures of internal tissues and membranes.

Seated in the front row among the spectators were Arlene's sisters, Carolyn and Elsie Draves, and Mrs. Lillian Clemens, eldest of the four, who had mothered Arlene since the girl was left a maternal orphan in childhood.

Sister Chokes Back Sobs.

As the testimony went on Mrs. Clemens began biting her lips and choking back her sobs. Her sisters fanned her with a newspaper and supported her head as she grew faint. Kirkland, sitting five paces ahead of them among his counsel, pursed his lips and looked idly at a stained glass window, in which an artisan had worked the emblem of the scales of justice in red glass.

"What, in your opinion, was the cause of death?" asked Mr. Under-

Philadelphia's Ritziest Club Raided for Rum

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Police raided the old, exclusive blue stocking Philadelphia club this afternoon and reported they had obtained 200 bottles of liquor. Early today the wealthy Manufacturers' club was similarly raided and 225 bottles of choice wines and other liquor were confiscated.

The Philadelphia club, organized in 1833, has had in its roster the names of many of the best families of Philadelphia and vicinity. Membership has always been difficult to obtain. The clubhouse, which for more than a generation has occupied an old fashioned building, stands at 13th and Walnut streets, one block from the Manufacturers' club, at Broad and Walnut streets.

Lemuel B. Schofield, director of public safety, who led the raid on the Manufacturers' club, denied all knowledge of the Philadelphia club search until he sent a detective to the place to investigate.

Not Especially Ordered.

The Philadelphia club raid was made by policemen from one of the central city police stations on general orders of the director last week to clean up the city, and, according to Schofield, the raid had not been specifically ordered by him.

James Taylor, assistant superintendent of police, said much of the 200 bottles of liquor seized in the Philadelphia club was apparently imported. Most of it was found in lockers and some in other parts of the clubhouse.

The raid was led by Detective Bronislaw Wieleba and was quietly conducted. Wieleba has been in the service only a short time. He conducted an investigation during the last twenty days after he said he had seen liquor being delivered at the club twice a day.

Prior to the Philadelphia club raid Director Schofield threatened to arrest certain members of the Manufacturers' club, which lists prominent and influential Philadelphians on its membership roll. Immediately after the Manufacturers' club raid Schofield wrote his resignation as a member of the organization.

One man, August Bolli, manager of the Manufacturers' club, was arrested at the time of the raid and was held in $1,000 bail for a further hearing two weeks hence.

Club Within a Club.

The raid was made on several rooms on the fifth floor which, club officials said, were occupied by the "Fifty club," an organization of members within the club.

Schofield said that after considerable maneuvering he and his police assistants obtained a key to room 505 and entered.

There were seven or eight tables in the room and in one corner a small bar.

"A small room adjoining this had evidently been used in the past as a bathroom," said the director. "On shelves above this platform were cocktail shakers, ice scoops, and other utensils evidently used in mixing drinks. Near by there was a closet, and in this were a refrigerator and five champagne coolers."

In an adjoining room were 100 steel lockers. "We opened the lockers," Schofield said, "and took out a total of 255 bottles of assorted wines, whisky, champagne, and old prewar brands."

Rents 31 Apartments Over the Week-end!

Signatures of 31 tenants were written on the dotted line last Saturday and Sunday for apartments advertised in the Chicago Tribune Want Ad Section by Glatt & Price, south side rental agents.

"Our entire rental force was kept busy over the week-end showing apartments," Mr. Leslie M. Price said.

"It has been many years since I have seen such activity on the part of people looking for apartments," Mr. Price continued. "This response more than convinces us that our Tribune advertising brings tenants in large numbers. By the end of this week, we expect another ten or twelve families, who saw our Saturday and Sunday Tribune advertising, to sign up with us."

CONTEMPT CASE DECISION MAY BE GIVEN TODAY

Gang Chief Fails to Take Stand.

A decision by Federal Judge Wilkerson determining whether Al Capone, public enemy No. 1, will go to prison for contempt of court is expected today at the conclusion of the gang leader's trial. The government's closing argument was begun yesterday afternoon by Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grossman and it was believed that the argument of other counsel would be finished this morning.

Capone had indicated that he thought he could assist his own defense by taking the stand, but when his attorneys closed the presentation of their evidence he had not been called as a witness. This was taken by court attachés as an indication that his lawyers sought to save him from the cross-examination that had weakened other defense witnesses.

Doctor Has Bad Day.

One of these was Dr. Kenneth Phillips, Capone's Florida physician, who put in a bad day under questioning by the prosecution about the affidavit on the gang chief's illness out of which the two year old case grew.

Judge Wilkerson assisted Prosecutor Grossman in a withering cross-examination of Dr. Phillips, which ended in the physician's admission that many of the statements in the affidavit were false. Capone, on the plea of illness, gained a stay from March 12 to March 20 on a subpoena to appear before a federal grand jury in Chicago in 1929.

On the other hand, Capone's nurses who attended him night and day during his attack of pneumonia in January, 1929, could not be swayed by cross-examination from their testimony that he was a sick man, and that he did not leave his Miami residence on the 17th, 18th, or 19th of January, when, according to the testimony of three policemen, he attended the Hialeah races.

The novelty of Capone's being in town and on trial had somewhat waned yesterday, the second day of the hearing, and fewer curiosity seekers flocked to the federal building. But the police motor escort was still in attendance, accompanying the respondent on his trips from the Lexington hotel to the federal building and back. The gangster used a high powered automobile for the first trip. With him rode Philip D'Andrea, well known hoodlum, who accompanied Capone on his airplane trip from Miami to Bimini when Capone was supposedly "confined in bed."

Capone was scheduled to be arraigned in Felony court before Judge Frank M. Padden yesterday on the vagrancy charge pending against him. His counsel, Attorney Michael Ahern, informed Judge Padden that the gangster was on trial in federal court.

"Well, he can't be in two places at once," said Judge Padden, and continued the case until March 4.

Nurse Tells of Illness.

Miss Nora Hawkins, now attached to the Dade county hospital at Miami, was the first nurse called on Capone's behalf by Attorney W. F. Waugh. She said she was a graduate of the Rhode Island hospital at Providence.

Q.—When did you first see Capone? A.—When I was called in to attend him by Dr. Phillips. To the best of my recollection it was in the second week of January.

Q.—How did you find him? A.—I found him very uncomfortable. He had a temperature of 104 and a high pulse rate. He was coughing hard enough to shake your head off. He also complained of pains in his chest.

Attended Him Seven Nights.

Q.—How long were you there? A.—Between seven and ten nights.

Q.—Did Capone at any time leave his bed while you were there? A.—Absolutely not.

Q.—So far as you know, was he out on the 17th, 18th, or 19th of January? A.—So far as I know, he was not. I was only there nights.

Q.—In your opinion, and taking his condition into consideration, would it have been possible for him to attend the horse races on the 17th, 18th, or 19th of January? A.—Absolutely not.

Miss Hawkins explained that she kept daily charts while attending her patient, but that she tore them up shortly afterwards when she went into institution work.

His Day Nurse Testifies.

Miss Ann Fagan, a red haired nurse who said she did her graduate work at the Virginia hospital, Richmond, and had six months experience at the Rockefeller institute, New York, attending returned soldiers suffering with respiratory diseases in 1918, was then called by Defense Attorney Benjamin P. Epstein.

Miss Fagan stated that she was called to attend Capone in the daytime, on Jan. 6, to the best of her recollection.

Q.—Where did you first see Capone? A.—I saw him then. He was in bed and had been for two days. He was complaining with pains in the chest, coughing incessantly, and had a temperature of about 104.

Q.—How long did you remain there as day nurse? A.—About two weeks or longer.

Q.—During that time did Capone ever leave the house? A.—No.

Q.—Was his condition such that it would have been possible for him to attend the races on the 17th, 18th, or 19th of January? A.—No, he had a high fever.

U. S. Cross-Examines Her.

Mr. Grossman cross-examined the witness at this point.

Q.—You talked with Mr. Waugh before leaving Florida to come here and testify, did you not? A.—Yes.

Q.—You talked with Mr. Clarke, the government investigator, didn't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—You didn't remember dates and didn't possess any definite recollection when you talked to Mr. Clarke, did you? A.—I don't have any definite recollection now.

Dr. Phillips, who testified for the defense on Wednesday, declared on cross-examination yesterday that he was 31 years old, a graduate of the University of Chicago and of Rush Medical college, receiving his diploma in 1926 and going to Miami shortly thereafter.

Q.—Then the statement in your affidavit that you had been "actively and continuously engaged in the practice of medicine and surgery for four years in Chicago" was not true, was it? A.—No, I only practiced here as an interne.

Q. [by the court]—How long were you an interne in Chicago? A.—One year.

Q. [by the court]—Did you have any other practice here? A.—No.

Q.—Did you know Capone in Chicago? A.—I had seen him several times.

Saw Capone at City Hall.

Q.—Professionally? A.—No, I think it was around the city hall that I saw him. I didn't have any personal acquaintance with him.

Q.—Did you treat any other members of Capone's family in Florida, or friends of his? A.—Yes, I treated his wife, his boy, Sonny, his sister-in-law, whose name I don't recall, and a worker at his boathouse.

Q.—Any others? A.—Yes, I treated his brother-in-law, Coughlin. I believe his name was, Dennis Coughlin.

Q.—What was your fee? A.—$2,000, but that took care of several consultants I called in; he was injured in an automobile accident. This fee was disputed and only half of it was paid, when we settled out of court.

Q.—How much was Capone's bill? A.—I don't recall; somewhere around $300 or $400.

Q.—You testified you were called to Capone's house on the 13th of January. How often did you visit him after that? A.—Three times a day the first week, twice a day the second week, and after that he began to improve, so I didn't see him every day.

Q.—Now, how long was he confined in bed, and by that I mean in bed, not going to the horse races? A.—Close on to three weeks or a little over.

Q.—That is after you came there? A.—No, that is from the time he was taken ill.

Q.—You don't know whether he was in bed before then, do you? A.—I am positive that he was from his condition.

Q.—How long was he confined to his house? A.—Under my instructions, three or four weeks after that.

Q.—After you got on the case, after Jan. 13? A.—Yes.

Judge Takes Up Questioning.

Q.—Let me be sure I understand you. You went there on the 13th. You say he was in bed three weeks? A.—Yes, or a little longer.

Q.—Three weeks or more. That would be up to Feb. 3. What is your professional opinion as to whether or not this man was in such physical condition that he could have taken an airplane trip, going 60 miles each way, on Feb. 2? [This testimony had been given by Capone's pilot.] A.—I think it was possible for him to do it, but it was very inadvisable.

Q.—How could he do that if he was in bed all the time? A.—He was not in bed, I don't suppose, up until that time.

Q.—Well, three weeks; I want to be fair about this. Now three weeks from Jan. 13 would be Feb. 4. Now you're obliged to correct your statement, aren't you, that he was sick in bed for three weeks if he took that trip on the 2d of February? A.—I have to make it approximately, because I really cannot remember exactly, but I think it was about that length of time.

Ride's Effect on Health.

Q.—All right, how about a man who has been threatened with pneumonia taking an airplane trip going 80 miles an hour, 60 miles in each direction? A.—Your honor, I think it all depends on two big factors, maybe more. In the first place, where he was sitting in the plane [an open craft] and whether he was exposed to the draft and wind. In the second place, it depends on the kind of day it was, whether it was stormy and damp, or warm and sunshiny like the days we have.

Q.—Are you sure that you did not exaggerate the serious of this man's condition? A.—Your honor, as sure as I am sitting here.

Attacks "In Bed" Statement.

Mr. Grossman resumed at this point, attacking the statement in Dr. Phillips' affidavit that Capone had been confined to his home for ten weeks and had only been out of bed ten days when the affidavit was sent to Chicago, under date of March 5.

Q.—Now by confined to bed, as you used that expression in this affidavit, you do not mean in bed do you? A.—No, I cannot say that I do.

Q.—And by confined to bed you might mean taking airplane trips? A.—I would hardly say that.

Q.—Steamer trips? A.—No, not that.

Another Doctor Testifies.

Dr. David V. Omens, Chicago family physician of the Capones and other members of their gang, testified for the defense that he went to Miami in response to a telegram from Dr. Phillips. He said he found Capone suffering from bronchial pneumonia, with a consolidated area in the left lung. He stayed there until Jan. 21, he said, living at the Palm Island estate, and declared that Capone at no time left the house.

Prosecutor Grossman cross-examined Dr. Omens.

Q.—You have attended several friends of Capone in Chicago, have you not? Didn't you attend Jack Guzik? A.—Yes.

Q.—And Marty Durkin? A.—Yes.

Doesn't Know Durkin.

Attorney Epstein objected to this question, but Judge Wilkerson indicated he did not consider the matter prejudicial by declaring that he did not know Durkin, who is now serving a 35 year prison term for murder and is awaiting trial in the federal court for the slaying of James Shanahan, federal investigator.

The telegram from Dr. Phillips to Dr. Omens was made the basis of an accusation by Prosecutor Grossman that Dr. Phillips "muscled" himself into the Capone case "for his big money."

The telegram, dated Jan. 14, said:

"Called in tonight as consultant. Restricted by ethics. Fellow here not high rate. Al suffering from general capillary bronchitis following pneumonia. Not serious, but needs change of treatment. Please advise them or me. [Signed] KENNETH PHILLIPS,

"Rush Medical Graduate."

According to testimony, this reference to "ethics" was based on a disagreement with a Dr. Light, Capone's first physician at Miami, as to the type of treatment that should be applied.

Begin Final Arguments.

Beginning his final argument to the court, Mr. Grossman declared that the telegram was worded with a hope of inducing Dr. Omens to recommend Dr. Phillips to the Capone family.

The prosecutor's argument was abruptly terminated when a discussion arose as to whether the continuance granted Capone on the affidavit was by consent of Assistant United States Attorney Daniel Anderson. Judge Wilkerson said he had not understood Anderson's testimony of the previous day, and asked for a transcript for the resumption of the trial this morning.

Mr. Grossman admitted that Anderson consented to the continuance, but declared that the consent was based on the affidavit, which said that the trip to Chicago would endanger Capone's life.

Capone Fails to Take Stand.

When the defense rested without putting Capone on the stand, the prosecution called Dr. Charles Spencer Williamson, professor of internal medicine at the University of Illinois, to rebut Dr. Phillips' testimony.

Q.—How long would it require a man, after suffering conditions such as you have heard here, to recover sufficiently to go out doors? A.—That depends upon when he became normal.

Q.—When Omens left, Jan. 28, by their own testimony, A.—The ordinary time would be about fifteen days.

Q.—In your opinion, would coming to Chicago in March have endangered Capone's health? A.—That's a matter of judgment. If he was out and around, he wouldn't have been any worse off in Chicago than down there.

DENIES LARGE SALES

A statement issued yesterday by Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, was called to the attention of Capone during a court recess. Col. Randolph charged that 25,000,000 pints of beer are sold daily in Chicago and that the profits therefrom to the Capone gang are $2,000,000 a week.

"Well, Col. Randolph ought to know, he's head of the Secret Six," said Capone. "But if he has that information, why doesn't he turn it over to the government?

"Of course that's absurd. Why, I don't believe there is that much beer in the United States."

Capone established himself for gallantry among young women yesterday. A girl reporter tip toed hesitatingly up to him as he sat in the gallery awaiting the opening of court.

Capone arose when the young woman introduced herself, and bowed low.

Calls Girl Reporter Beautiful.

"I wanted to ask you a question, but I am so flustered I can't remember what it was," she said. Capone smiled indulgently.

"O, I remember. I wanted to ask you what you think of the American girl."

"Why, I think you're beautiful," said Capone.

A secretary from the judge's chambers entered the court room with an announcement that "London is on the wire."

"I'm sorry, lady, but there's no body in London that would be calling me, not even King George," said Capone.

"Dorothy" gets 3000 Phone Calls a Day
THE Dorothy Davis Shopping Service, located on the Tenth Floor here at The Davis Store, is one of the busiest departments in this busy store.
One reason why it is so busy, we think, is because of our "Bottom Prices Guaranteed" policy. Vast numbers of thrifty shoppers know this policy. Their extremely large telephone patronage is proof positive they have confidence in this policy. They know it is unnecessary to shop elsewhere because Davis prices are as low or lower every day as any prices in the city.
Thousands who depend upon The Davis Company price policy for savings in money, also depend upon the Dorothy Davis Shopping Service for savings in time and effort. Indeed, the two are an unparalleled saving combination.
If you are at all interested in saving (and we believe that even the wealthiest families are) why not try this service? There is no extra charge for it. Simply call WABash 9800 and ask for the Dorothy Davis Shopping Service.

WOMAN WITNESS IN GOTHAM VICE QUIZ MURDERED

Volunteered Information; Found Strangled.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The body of Vivian Gordon, who had offered to tell the Appellate division vice inquiry about a "frameup by police officers and others," was found at the foot of an embankment of Mosholu avenue in Van Cortlandt park, the Bronx, early today. She had a police record which began in 1921 with her arrest on a vice charge under the name of Benita Bishoff.

In one of several diaries found in the woman's apartment in East 37th street the police found the line, "I fear but one man, and he is ——." On the basis of this a man whose identity was not divulged was arrested and held for questioning tonight. His questioners included Police Commissioner Mulrooney and District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin of the Bronx.

Frank Ryan, a taxicab driver, tonight told the police that at about 2:30 a. m. he had witnessed a struggle in another taxicab between a woman and two men. Ryan said he was parked at a cab stand in the Bronx, and that a woman screamed several times in a nearby vehicle.

Sees Men Strike Her.

He could see, said Ryan, that two men were striking her. He followed the taxicab over a long, circuitous route through the Bronx until it finally turned into Van Cortlandt park. There, he said, his machine developed engine trouble and he was forced to stop the chase. The point is about a mile and a half from where the body was found.

Miss Gordon had been strangled by a clothesline. It had been noosed with a slipknot, pulled tightly, with the knot at the back of her neck and the rope wound thrice around. The rope had apparently been used to drag her along the side of the street before she was tossed off the steep embankment. She had been dead about five hours before the body was found.

Miss Gordon is said to have formerly been the wife of a resident of Philadelphia. She is also said to have been the daughter of the late John Franklin, described as one time warden of the state prison at Joliet, Ill.

Born in Indiana.

She was born in Michigan City, Ind., in 1891. At an early age she went to the Roman Catholic convent of the Ladies of Loretto at Guelph, Ont., Canada.

Vice Squad Patrolman Andrew J. McLaughlin, the records revealed, had arrested the woman under the name of Bishoff in March of 1923. On March 31, having been found guilty on a charge of immorality, she was sent to the reformatory. An attempt to locate McLaughlin by police revealed that he had taken a five day leave of absence from his duties on the staff of Borough Inspector James S. Bolan and had sailed last Monday on the Cunard liner California for Bermuda.

McLaughlin is the partner of Richard B. Ganly, who is under suspension on charges of having "framed" Mrs. Nina Artaka, a teacher of dancing, in her studio two years ago. Ganly appeared at the public hearing before Justice Samuel Seabury in the Appellate division inquiry today and refused, on the ground of self-incrimination, to answer questions about his $2,500 bank account.

Threatenind Letter Found.

Detectives searched the slain woman's apartment and found many letters, including a threatenind letter written by a person whom the police and they knew and also three diaries covering all of the woman's activities for 1929, 1930, and 1931.

The threatenind letter, the existence of which was first denied by Commissioner Mulroone and later confirmed, was reported to have referred to the victim as "a dirty stool pigeon."

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

New York, Feb. 26.— [Special.] — Saw in the papers the other day that the boys who are investigating the New York police force are trying to discover what fifty-one of the finest do with all their money. Well, there are 18,000 police in New York and somebody has to go into speakeasies and buy drinks for the 17,949. That ain't being investigated. You can't let 51 policemen to do all the drinking even in a town this size.

RECEIVERSHIP IS SOUGHT FOR HAMMOND BANK

A receivership for the closed First Trust and Savings bank of Hammond will be asked today before Judge Clyde Cleveland of the Lake county Superior court in Hammond, it was announced by the directors last night.

At the same time County Prosecutor Robert Estill announced he would submit the affairs of the institution before the March grand jury next month.

Directors of the bank met yesterday, and through Carl Kaufmann, Hammond merchant and a director, declared that the officials were unwilling to accept responsibility for reorganization, preferring a receivership. Depositors probably will be paid in full, according to Kaufmann. The directors pointed out that the assets were $1,000,000 in excess of liabilities, due to the transfer of personal properties by Peter W. Meyn, president, and his son, Walter.

Efforts for a receivership probably will be opposed by a group of depositors, who favor a reorganization.

WOUNDED YOUTH AND PAL TO FACE HOLDUP CHARGES

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frank Kohler, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Charles Steranka, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Joseph Burke.

James Bennett, 19 years old, 7741 South Shore drive, stepson of Julius Friesser, chief taxidermist at the Field museum, and William Hjort, 17 years old, 2508 East 75th street, are to be arraigned in the Grand Crossing court today on the charge of robbing Joseph White, personal bodyguard of State's Attorney Swanson. White shot and wounded Hjort yesterday morning after he had been dragged into a vestibule at 72d street and Cornell avenue by the youthful bandits and robbed of $200.

The robbers escaped in an automobile. Several hours later Dr. Fred E. Sonnenfield, 1541 East 60th street, reported that he treated a youth suffering from four bullet wounds at the home of Mrs. Anna Dantolan, 750 East 103d place. Police arrested Mrs. Dantolan, her daughter, Mrs. May Palombo; Elizabeth and Toots Weiss, sisters, and Kitty Tuparo, who will also appear in court. The women named Bennett as a companion of Hjort. Both youths were found at Bennett's home. According to the police they have confessed fifty robberies.

"I can't believe it," Mrs. Friesser said. "James wanted to be a musician and was studying banjo and guitar. He lost his job in a music store a year ago. He was always in the house before 11 o'clock, though, and I gave him spending money. He's always been a good boy, and so has the Hjort boy. I don't believe they committed fifty robberies like the police say."

KILLS WIFE AND SELF.

Samuel White, colored, shot and killed his wife, Jennie, 24 years old, in their home at 2349 Maypole avenue yesterday and then committed suicide by shooting himself.

GRAND JURORS ARE INVITED TO POLICE TRIALS

Special Prosecutor Will Present Cases.

Members of the special grand jury investigating the police department were invited yesterday to be present next Thursday at the trial of fifteen policemen before the civil service commission. Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller suggested the presence of the grand jurors after he had expressed dissatisfaction because Acting Police Commissioner Alcock refused to suspend a number of the policemen pending trial.

Prosecutor Mueller said the grand jurors had expected coöperation from Alcock which they are not receiving. Mueller said there was no evidence against three of the policemen who were ordered to the trial board by Alcock.

Alcock and Mueller were not in agreement on the charges filed against Lieut. Daniel O'Hara of the Albany Park station and Policemen John J. Hogan and James J. Best of the Wabash avenue station and Mueller indicated he would not press the charges. Mueller informed State's Attorney Swanson he would act as prosecutor at the police trial board because of an agreement with Alcock, who, Mueller said, had "promised to suspend any one accused before the grand jury provided Mueller would bring the evidence to the civil service commission."

Disagree on Charges.

Alcock, however, did not suspend Policemen Ira L. O'Hara, Louis J. Starr, Joseph O'Brien, John J. Feery, Fred B. Kelly, Owen Small and Patrick J. Nolan after they had been accused of taking money from speakeasy owners in the Englewood district Mueller reported.

The suspensions of Capt. Joseph Palczynski and Sergt. Jack Herdegen, recommended by Mueller and the grand jury, were not lifted, Mueller said, and they are to be defendants before the trial board next Thursday. Palczynski was charged with responsibility for the changing of a rape to a disorderly conduct charge and Herdegen was accused of having paid $1,500 to be made a sergeant.

Suspend Policeman Curran.

Alcock yesterday suspended Policeman Eldridge Curran, relative of Supt. James Curran of the House of Correction, who is the Thompson leader in the 26th ward. Curran failed to appear at his assigned polling place.

The name of Sergt. William J. Begley was removed from the police roster yesterday by action of the civil service board. Begley was convicted of extortion and was fined $2,500 and ordered removed from the department by Judge Joseph Sabath. Begley was trapped by fellow policemen after taking $300 from Jean B. Hassewer, 5643 Lake Park avenue, who had been inveigled into a deal over a "money making machine." Hassewer was slain before the Begley trial.

Carries Body of Woman He Killed in Auto Four Days

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—William Frazer of Rahway, N. J., left Raleigh, N. C., for his home state tonight with Abe David, prosecutor of Union county, New Jersey, following his confession that he shot and killed Mrs. Phoebe Stader, wife of a fellow townsman, during an automobile ride a week ago Tuesday night and carried the body in his car four days. Frazer made no attempt to fight extradition, insisting that the shooting was accidental.

He was the calmest man in the room as he told the story. He said that he met Mrs. Stader in Walden, N. Y., and was driving "somewhere south of Suffern, N. Y., when a small rifle he was handling was accidentally discharged and sent a bullet into her head. He explained he always carried the rifle in the car "just for protection."

Body Rides in Car Four Days.

He said that he drove to his home in Rahway with the body propped up on the seat beside him, and awakened his wife early Wednesday morning. He said she advised him to give himself up to the police or end his own life, but he did neither. He said he transferred the body to a rear seat, parked his car and then went to his mother's home to sleep for several hours.

Then he gave a description of his drive through New Jersey, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and the District of Columbia with the body under a blanket in the tonneau. In Washington, he said, he parked the car and snatched a few hours' sleep. When he awakened on Friday morning he said he drove to Bowling Green, Va.

Strips Body, Burns Clothes.

He turned off the Washington-Richmond highway into a side road until he came to an isolated and densely wooded spot. With a pair of scissors he cut off the dead woman's garments, which he burned in a brush wood fire. With a pair of pliers he twisted a ring from Mrs. Stader's finger. All this, he explained, was done to make identification difficult.

Frazer then said he drove to Raleigh and took rooms in a boarding house, where he gave the name of "H. G. Devlin." He was arrested when he went to the Raleigh post-office for a letter addressed to him.

Throughout his narrative the prisoner insisted he had no reason for wishing the death of Mrs. Stader; that they had planned to marry some time in the future, if they could get divorces. Frazer has a wife and two children. He is 31 years old and, until he inherited $25,000 two years ago, worked in a New York restaurant. His wife says he spent his inheritance on Mrs. Stader.

Insists Killing Was Accident.

Insisting that he could prove that the killing was accidental, Frazer waived extradition and volunteered to attempt to show to Prosecutor David the exact spot where the shooting took place and where they were driving when Mrs. Stader died. This is necessary to fix jurisdiction.

A girl who had worked in a beauty parlor where Mrs. Stader was hairdresser told the Rahway police yesterday that although Frazer had lavished gifts on Mrs. Stader and "thrown" numerous roadhouse parties in her honor, she had tired of him. According to this girl's story, Frazer was "mad over Mrs. Stader" and feared that she might go back to her husband.

DINEHART, STAGE STAR, FACES JAIL OVER ALIMONY

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Allan Dinehart, star of the Broadway stage success, "That's Gratitude," was threatened again today with incarceration in the alimony jail.

His wife, Louise, obtained a Supreme court order requiring him to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for alleged failure to pay her $1,500 a month alimony and $10,000 counsel fees.

Dinehart was arrested last week on a Supreme court order, but was paroled until Saturday on the consent of his wife's lawyer. Mrs. Dinehart, who seeks a divorce, said she is so destitute she can't buy fuel.

WEALTHY WIDOW BEATEN IN HOME EXPECTED TO DIE

Haverhill, Mass., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Clara D. Ellis, 48, wealthy Haverhill widow, was reported near death in a hospital here tonight from injuries received during an attack on her this morning in her luxurious home.

She was found unconscious on her bed by her maid, Miss Agnes Reardon. There were two ugly wounds in her head. A bloodstained hammer was found behind the garage of her home.

Police said it was evident robbery was not the motive for the attack. The telephone wires had been cut inside the house and all doors and windows had been locked from the inside.

Kimball Clements, a brother of the injured woman and her only relative, said he knew of no motive for the assault.

Mrs. Ellis is the widow of John D. Ellis, who at the time of his death a year ago was one of Haverhill's leading shoe manufacturers. She is the daughter of the late Dr. George C. Clements, and was prominent in north shore social activities.

KNIGHT ARRESTED IN WASHINGTON ON WIFE'S WRIT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—United States marshals tonight detained under $100,000 bail Sir Charles L. Ross, Scottish baronet, on a writ to prevent his leaving the capital pending disposition of a maintenance suit instituted by Lady Patricia Ross.

Sir Charles, inventor of the Ross rifle used during the world war by the Canadian army, was taken into custody at a home he maintains here on fashionable Massachusetts avenue. Unable to produce the required bail, he was taken to the Willard hotel to spend the night under guard of deputies.

Washington authorities were informed the Ross marital difficulties have involved divorce proceedings which occupied for a time the British house of lords, American courts, and also the courts of Sonora, Mexico.

WEIL EXPLAINS AND EXPLAINS AND EXPLAINS

Talks Way Out in Indiana; Decatur Is Next.

For 24 hours "the Kid" had been in a technical conference with the sheriff and other officials at Hammond to explain charges made by a group of farmers near Dyer, Ind., that he and several associates had duped them in a faro game. Weil and his fellow suspects, Elmer Whitley, Art Bourbon, and Max Hoppe, all of Chicago, succeeded in convincing Sheriff Ed Wallace that the allegations were unfounded. Moreover, the duped agriculturists could not definitely identify them.

More Explaining to Do.

Then a courier arrived from Decatur, Ill. He carried a state warrant charging Weil with confidence game, the charge also involving Weil's old playmate, Fred Buckminster of the infirm legs. As a result Sheriff Wallace ordered Weil held for removal to Decatur and indicated that he would release Bourbon, Whitley, and Hoppe.

The Decatur charges landed Buckminster in the Macon county jail yesterday, after a brief stay in a police lockup in Chicago following his accidental arrest in the New City district Tuesday night when he failed to run fast enough. When Buckminster was taken to Decatur, ill and travel stained, Walter Danzeisen, part owner of a packing company there, identified him as one of two men who bilked him out of $2,500 last summer. He identified pictures of "Yellow Kid" Weil as the other.

His Story of Deal.

According to Danzeisen, Buckminster and Weil met him in Decatur, and, representing themselves as agents of certain foreign interests, made inquiries about his packing plant, which was closed. Before the negotiations for purchasing the concern could be consummated, Weil and Buckminster, he says, invited him to accompany them to St. Louis. En route, Danzeisen charges, Weil told of a fight for control of a gold mine, and "allowed" Danzeisen to purchase some of the stock. He bought $2,500 worth, and did not see the fleecers again, he said, until he glimpsed Buckminster yesterday.

Coincident with Weil's Hammond arrest two other complainants, Julius Juhr, owner of a business building in Highlands, Ind., and H. Scheeringa, a truck gardener of that community, appeared. Although they could not identify "the Kid" or Buckminster definitely, they were almost certain in their identification.

Juhr charged the two tried to purchase his property for $80,000, but he did not trust them. Scheeringa said the pair negotiated to purchase his tract, and that they asked him to produce $4,500 and accompany them to Peoria, for some "sure things" in the gambling line. He did, but his wife went along. They took only $3,500. At the last minute Mrs. Scheeringa, because of religious scruples, balked. Buckminster meanwhile, who had added $1,000 of his own to their $3,500, insisted on getting his $1,000 back. He extracted what they thought was $1,000, they said. When they returned to Highlands they found they had only $2,500.

HUNT GIRL FLYER

EDNA MAY COOPER.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Edna May Cooper, movie actress and joint holder, with Bobbie Trout, of the women's world endurance refueling flying record, was sought by Los Angeles police today on request of her mother, Mrs. Mary May Cooper. Mrs. Cooper said her daughter vanished last Tuesday. Her request for police assistance was concurred in by Miss Trout, aviatrix chum of the comely brunette actress. Mrs. Cooper said she feared her daughter had been kidnaped.

Capt. W. C. Allen of the police missing persons bureau, said he discovered that a check was missing from her check book and will endeavor to learn if any recent heavy withdrawals have been made from the actress' bank account.

KIDNAPERS GET 7 YEAR TERMS IN YOCUM CASE

Banker and Wife Testify at Hearing.

Cambridge, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Seven years in the state penitentiary was the sentence given each of the four men who kidnaped Earl Yocum, millionaire Galva banker, on the night of Oct. 25, by Judge L. E. Telleen in the Circuit court here today. The judge pronounced sentence after hearing testimony of Mr. and Mrs. Yocum and the four who pleaded guilty to the crime Monday, Orville and Harry Whiskers, Lloyd Winslow and Vernoh Ahlgren.

Before imposing sentence the judge outlined the events in the case and said that the penalty he fixed was lightened by the fact that the defendants always had conducted themselves as law abiding citizens until the kidnaping. Standing before the judge to receive sentence the defendants showed evidences of the strain of the day's proceedings which had been conducted before a courtroom crowded to the limit with spectators. When asked if they had anything further to say before he pronounced judgment all remained mute.

Orville Sentenced First.

Orville Whiskers was the first to hear the "seven years." He did not raise his head, which was bowed during the judge's talk. The judge then said, "I pronounce a like sentence on each of the other three."

The four were taken to jail immediately. Sheriff Fred Swanson will take the prisoners to Joliet as soon as commitment papers are made out.

Mrs. Earl Yocum was the first witness called by State's Attorney Carl Melin when the hearing opened. She testified concerning the events of the Saturday night when her husband disappeared. She told of receiving two letters, written by Mr. Yocum, asking that she secure the $50,000 ransom in $20 bills and place it according to directions enclosed.

On Constant Guard, She Says.

She also told how she wrote a note and enclosed it in a package containing a block of wood instead of the money, explaining that she could not raise the money. In conclusion, she said, "I feel that our liberty has been taken away from us by the deed. We have received a number of threatening letters since that time. We must be on constant guard. They should not go unpunished."

Mr. Yocum himself testified next.

"I was never mistreated," he said. "They acted like gentlemen at all times. Asked me what I wanted to eat and provided it if possible. They never threatened my life with the exception of the time they demanded that I write the first letter the Saturday night I was taken."

SENATE PASSES BILL CONTAINING FUNDS FOR CHICAGO POSTOFFICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The senate this afternoon passed the last appropriation measure, the second deficiency bill. When this measure and the navy department appropriation bill come from conference and are adopted, congress can pack up and go home, its business of doling out the government's money completed.

The deficiency bill, as always, became the catchall for last minute appropriations. Increased in the senate committee to an 85 million dollar measure, amendments were added to it today, so that it will go to conference carrying appropriations totaling more than 100 million dollars.

Included in the bill is an authorization permitting the construction of the new Chicago postoffice on the Harrison, Van Buren and Canal street site, and providing for the extension of Congress street through the site. Chicago also receives $510,000 for new construction at the Marine hospital and $1,150,000 for a new appraisers' stores building.

Oak Park receives $600,000, Cicero $165,000, and Wheaton $140,000, all for new postoffices.

Among other items in the bill are: $10,000,000 to begin modernization work on the battleships New Mexico, Mississippi and Idaho; $10,000,000 to begin construction of Cove Creek dam as part of the Muscle Shoals project; $5,000,000 for hospitalization of veterans; $1,000,000 to carry out the maternity act, and $1,500,000 for the federal employment service.

An amendment offered by Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] provides $25,000 for printing as a government document the evidence turned over to the senate by the Wickersham commission.

NAB ONE BANDIT; 2 ESCAPE AFTER BATTLING POSSE

Hastings, Neb., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Kansas authorities today were requested to search for two Hastings bank robbers who held a posse at bay and abducted two policemen after a gun battle in which a third robber and an officer were wounded. The bandits were seen last near Sylvan Grove, Kas.

The wounded robber, who gave his name as Robert Hendricks, 36, was caught this morning at Belvidere, Neb. He suffered a bullet wound in his liver in a gun battle last night when a posse attempted to enter a house here and arrest the three robbers who bound and gagged 13 persons and robbed the Hastings National Bank of $27,673 yesterday.

The two policemen were located early today. William Woods, who was forced to accompany Hendricks and the woman in their dash for freedom, was found bound to a fence post near Grafton, Neb., after Hendricks told where he had abandoned the policeman.

A few hours later Police Captain Frank Yettman was tied to a chair in a schoolhouse near Sylvan Grove by the other two robbers. He managed to free himself and walk to Sylvan Grove.

Hold Up Kansas City, Kas., Bank.

Kansas City, Kas., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Four bandits robbed the Security State bank of $11,000 here today in the presence of five employés and six customers, escaping in an automobile which they wrested from a passing woman motorists, when an axle on their own motor car was broken.

CONVENT ROCKED BY THREE BOMBS IN DEAD OF NIGHT

GORIZIA, Italy, Feb. 27.—(AP)—[Friday.]—The Capuchin convent of Santa Croce di Aldussina was thrown into consternation early this morning by the explosion of three bombs.

None of the brothers was injured by the explosives, one of which was placed in a hall leading to the cells and the other two in the garden.

Police said the bombs were of crude construction and some one had forced a window to enter and plant them.

Physician Is Killed in Serum Plant Explosion

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 26.—Dr. Charles T. Riordan, 37, was fatally injured in an explosion at the Diamond Serum company plant today. He died four hours after a gas sterilizer exploded as he attempted to light the burner.

Owner and Entertainer of Club Held to Jury

Pedro Masgoñan, owner of the Club Stamboul, 39 East Ontario street, and Lu Dmilla, an entertainer in the place, were held to the grand jury by United Sates Commissioner Walker yesterday on chares of violating the liquor law. Their bonds were fixed at $2,000 and $1,500 respectively. After prohibition agents raided the club last week it was learned that the property is owned by the Chicago Home Missionary and Church Extension association.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs and colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

KRAFT EXPLAINS GUARD PAY ROLL IN FRAUD TRIAL

Testimony Ends; Jury May Return Verdict Today.

Col. Charles J. Kraft probably will know by this evening if a federal jury considers him guilty of charges of embezzling $100,000 in government funds while he commanded the 202d coast artillery, Illinois National Guard.

All testimony in the case was completed yesterday before Federal Judge Lindley and final arguments will start at 1:30 o'clock this morning. The case may be given to the jury by noon.

The former regimental commander, whose indictment last year precipitated a guard scandal, occupied the witness stand most of yesterday trying to explain why battery mechanics at the Broadway armory were carried on the pay roll vouchers as receiving $150 per month, whereas they actually got only $125.

"Our regular mechanics lacked technical skill," Kraft explain, "and I was forced to hire a former Packard company mechanic whom I had to pay $225 a month. The maximum rate allowed by the government was $150, so I paid some of the men at the rate of only $125 and used the difference to make up the higher salary of the expert mechanic."

Kraft Explains Pay Roll.

One of the mechanics had testified that Kraft told him to tell a Washington inspector that he was being paid $150 monthly, whereas his salary was only $125. Kraft's explanation of this was that during the political campaign of 1926 attempts were made to replace the mechanics by political workers. He told his mechanics, he said, to tell questioners that they were federal and not state employés and that they were working for the government from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. each day.

On cross-examination by Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton, Kraft said that he did not establish the mechanics' ratings and admitted that their pay roll was sometimes $600 more than he actually paid them.

"But never at any time," said Kraft, "did I use any government funds for a private purpose."

He admitted that the month after the mechanics had been told to say they were getting $150 their salaries were raised to $135.

"Were you surprised," Leaton asked, "when you found your check from the government for pay rolls reading $2,000 instead of $1,400?" Kraft said no. Then this interchange:

Q.—Nothing ever surprises you? A.—Nothing.

Q.—Pretty calm, aren't you? A.—Quite.

Paid in Wages, He Says.

The $600 in extra money, Kraft said, was all paid eventually to the mechanics or caretakers at the armory.

An attempt was made by defense counsel toward the end of the case to show through Kraft that Mr Leaton held a commission in the regiment at one time and that his resignation was requested by Kraft. Judge Lindley promptly stopped this by ruling the questions "wholly immaterial and improper." Leaton said outside the courtroom that he was once a lieutenant in the regiment, but that his resignation had never been requested. He gradually ceased his activities, he said.

Howard P. Savage, former national commander of the American Legion, was one of Kraft's character witnesses. It was announced that Judge William E. Helander of the Municipal court, United States Marshal Laubenheimer, and Thomas J. Houston, former president of the civil service commission, would testify as character witnesses if called.

LOYAL FORCES SMASH REVOLT IN NORTH PERU

Rebels Flee Two Cities as Troops Arrive.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Rebellious troops spread the Peruvian revolt to the extreme north of the country yesterday, but were reported tonight to be breaking as loyal forces marched against them.

Lieut. Col. Santibanez today occupied Paita, port of Piura—which was seized by the rebels—with 300 men and prepared to march against Piura, reporting to the central government at the same time that the revolutionaries were withdrawing from the latter city. He also advised that the First and Seventh regiments, garrisoned at Paita, were found "in splendid condition and with good morale."

Meanwhile, the minister of the interior, Col. Antonio Beingolea, was proceeding up the coast with more soldiers aboard the steamship Urubamba, expecting to pick up reinforcements at Trujillo and Lambayeque tomorrow and proceed northward.

Naval Men Join Loyalists.

Other reports to the government of Provisional President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro told of demonstrations at Talara and Tarma. Naval veterans at Talara, in the Piura oil field region, denounced the insurgents and volunteered to join the loyal ranks, while at Tarma, which is not far from Lima, 200 men decided to enlist after a loyal demonstration.

The rebels, who seized the southern city of Arequipa last Friday, still hold it, but a loyal division will embark against them tomorrow and other government troops in the south have begun an advance.

The government also claims the adjacent departments of Moquegua and Apurimac are loyal and that loyal forces hold the port of Mollendo, key to Areequipa's sea trade.

The government announced tonight that a newspaper censorship would be established and kept in force while the country is in a state of siege.

"Kidnap" U. S. Aviator.

A government bulletin tonight said that three revolutionists in northern Peru had forced Elmer Fawcett, an American aviator, to fly them from Piura to Paita last night, but were captured by loyal forces at the latter city. The revolutionaries, Capt. Jaramillo and two corporals, seized a plane of the Fawcett commercial airlines, forcing the proprietor to pilot them. The Fawcett Aviation company operates several lines in Peru.

QUIZ FREED CONVICT, COMPANION OF GIRL WHO SUED GRIFFITH

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Earl Taylor, paroled convict, was questioned by the district attorney's office tonight, in connection with the prosecutor's investigation of the $601,000 damage suit filed against David Wark Griffith by Mrs. Fern Setril, blonde motion picture extra girl.

While Taylor was being questioned District Attorney Fitts asserted other investigators had been unable to locate the Setril girl, but that, when found, she would be questioned about her relations with Taylor.

Chief Investigator Blayney Matthews arranged to take statements from two Hollywood policemen, upon information that the Setril girl, about a year ago, had made charges similar to those against Griffith, which named a Hollywood film writer.

Search for Taylor was ordered by Fitts when informed Taylor and the Setril girl had recently approached various Los Angeles newspapers in an attempt to sell the "story" of Griffith's asserted attack upon her, which is the basis of her $601,000 civil suit.

Daisy De Boe Takes Bail Appeal to Higher Court

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Counsel for Daisy De Boe, attacking the refusal of Judge William Doran to free her on bail, carried the case to the Appellate court today in hope of obtaining her release pending decision on an appeal for a new trial of charges she stole $825 from Clara Bow, film actress. An original application for release of Miss De Boe on bail was filed in the Appellate court on grounds Judge Doran had overstepped his authority in refusing to free her and he had denied her a proper hearing.

QUIZ 2 LAWYERS, POLICEMAN ON BOND SALE DEAL

Two lawyers and a police detective were taken into custody and questioned last night at the state's attorney's office in connection with the attempted sale of $5,000 in bonds, alleged to have been stolen. Two other men are sought.

Those questioned were Attorney Julius Reznik of 77 West Washington street, who was recently barred from practicing in the Criminal courts because of a habeas corpus scandal; Attorney Stephen J. Sullivan of 33 South Clark street, and Policeman Frank Freemuth, 1426 North Mansfield avenue, assigned to the detective bureau. Freemuth was later released by Assistant State's Attorney Daniel A. Covelli.

According to Prosecutor Covelli, Freemuth attempted to dispose of the bonds to a loop brokerage house two weeks ago as the agent of Sullivan. A stop order delayed disposition, however. Meanwhile Covelli received information that a block of stolen bonds was being peddled. His informant was a lawyer. A trap was laid yesterday.

Freemuth called at the broker's office to complete the sale. He was told to invite Sullivan. Sullivan was asked to call Reznik. The three were seized.

The policeman declared he acted in good faith for Sullivan, and the latter asserted he had received the bonds from Reznik. Reznik refused to talk except to say he had given the papers to Sullivan. The bill of sale carries the name of Samuel J. Bemis of 644 Diversey parkway as owner, and H. Kay George, 3259 Lawrence avenue, as notary. Both are sought.

Realty Dealer Arrested on $75,000 Fraud Charge

Andrew A. Scowley, 47 years old, president of the United States Realty company, 105 West Madison street, was arrested in his office yesterday on a warrant charging confidence game of $75,000. The warrant was obtained in the Felony court by Mrs. Amy Priestly, of Kansas City, Mo. Reached at the Fort Dearborn hotel, she declined to comment on the case. Scowley, who lives in Niles Center, described her charges as "a lot of bunk."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute

FOR more than ninety-three active years the name KNOX has been the symbol for fine hats for men. The achievement of its ideals of perfect quality and its high stewardship of style authority has only been possible because hundreds of thousands of wearers have persistently demanded that their hats should be identified by the label of KNOX.

Onward through the changing years KNOX has kept fully abreast of the uninterrupted march of progress. When newer and better methods than the old fashioned hand processes became imperative for the consistent production of perfect quality in each and every hat without exception, it was KNOX who devised and brought to perfection the great mechanical hat felting machines.

In the field of technical research KNOX has never once ceased its vigil.

The millennium of perfection has been its aim. With great purchasing power in the vast raw material markets of the world, KNOX has repeatedly indicated its foresight and its ability to gather the finest of quality and to lead the way in manufacturing economies.

So this very day, when the echoing cry on all sides is for better and finer merchandise at less cost, KNOX is able to respond, "We are ready."

And now for the first time since before the war the price of an extra quality, fully silk lined KNOX Hat becomes seven dollars. This is a luxury that was previously obtainable only in higher priced hats. The benefit of such a substantial saving is heartily in line with the spirit of the times. Thus KNOX signals a passing milestone of progress and once more establishes a precedent.

50,000 WILL GET JOBS ON ILLINOIS ROADS THIS YEAR

Sheets Declares Project Is to Cost $45,000,000

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—State Highway Engineer Sheets in an address here this afternoon before the annual short course in highway engineering conducted by the University of Illinois, announced the Illinois 1931 road building program as the most extensive in the history of the state, involving an expenditure of $45,000,000 and employing 50,000 men.

The metropolitan area this year will receive road improvements to cost $13,000,000, he said, and all of the work will be under contract by May 1.

"With the state's highway revenue undisturbed," said Mr. Sheets, "we can complete the state bond issue system, with the improvements necessitated by the growth of traffic, within the next three and a half years. The cost, including ten million dollars for grade separations and fifteen million dollars for five hundred miles of widening will approximate one hundred ten million dollars.

Look Ten Years Ahead.

"Let's try to look ten years into the future. The weakest points in the state's highway system today are the extensions of these state roads through villages and cities. It is the duty of the state to build these extensions. We must think of double decked streets, extensive grade separation plans and widening for those parts of the state highway system where traffic demands these facilities.

"In the next ten years the state will collect 515 million dollars if the present sources of revenue are undisturbed. There are fixed charges—interest and retirement of the bond issues, policing, and maintenance—of 145 million dollars for the next decade. This leaves 368 million for new construction and betterments.

"The state is asking the present legislature to appropriate for a survey of the highway system, either by a commission or by the highway department, to locate the weak places in our system of roads and to determine what steps should be taken to correct these weaknesses.

3 Proposals in Legislature.

"Without a survey the need for all existing sources of revenue for the next three years is apparent—the completion of the system laid out under the bond issues with the village and city links in this system.

"There are three proposals before the present legislature to cut the state's highway revenue. One would half the motor registration fee, another would reduce the gasoline tax from three to two cents, and the third would redistribute the three cent gasoline tax so as to give one cent to the state, one to the counties, and one to municipalities.

"If the state's highway funds are reduced the completion of the bond issue system will be retarded proportionately. If the municipalities are given the one cent, there will not be the assurance that this money will be spent on the arterial streets used by state highway traffic."

Cleaveland on Program.

In this morning's session of the short course in highway engineering, Director Cleaveland of the state department of public works gave a talk on "a business man's view of the highway problem.

"The state is operating a great transportation system," he said. "The public has invested 293 million dollars in these roads. It is the duty of the state to deliver to the public the greatest possible return on this investment."

MRS. CATHERINE CHERRY.

In fiction it is customary for the young woman who has been an amnesia victim to regain her memory at the right moment and to resume her romance where it left off a few chapters back.

Yesterday a young woman told Policeman William P. Creagh in the city hall that she couldn't remember her name or her address. She was taken to the psychopathic hospital, where a figment of memory returned.

"I remember 1802 West Adams street," she said, "and Stanley."

Stanley Cherry from West Adams street went to the hospital.

"That's my wife, Catherine," he said.

"I fell down and bumped my head," she said. "That's all."

The examining physcian found a bump on her head. Everything was set for the usual finale of an amnesia drama. But Stanley shook his head and Catherine shook hers. They were estranged. He was going back to Adams street and she was going to her own home at 2417 North Albany avenue. It was a perfect amnesia romance except that there was no amnesia and romance was dead.

Port Arthur, Tex., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Liquor valued at $300,000 was seized by customs officers who raided the sailing ship Seahawk here tonight.

Custom deputies from Houston, Galveston, and other gulf ports had assembled here in preparation for the raid. The crew of the ship made no show of resistance, although the lugger was well equipped with firearms.

Three members of the crew were arrested and placed in the jail at Orange, near here, shortly after the ship moved into an obscure bayou near the Orange oil field. Then the work of unloading the cargo began.

Nine trucks were required to bring the contraband into Port Arthur. The Seahawk, sixty feet long and fifteen wide, later was towed into port. The craft is valued at $50,000.

Bomb Soft Drink Parlor in Stockyards District

Hundreds of residents in the stockyards district were roused early this morning by a bomb which was exploded in the rear of a soft drink parlor at 4177 South Halsted street. The damage was slight. The saloon is owned by R. J. Morris. A theory that the bombing was not intended to wreck the place but to reveal a concealed rear barroom was advanced by Sergt. Wilbur Franklin. The small bar, separate from the main bar, is hidden from outside view.

Mary Lewis, Opera Singer, Sued for $3,000 Legal Fees

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Mary Lewis, grand opera singer, who a few days ago brought suit against a film company for $22,500 for alleged breach of contract, was herself made defendant today in a claim for $3,050 for legal services. The plaintiff, Attorney Charles W. Cradick, charged the singer owed him the amount as the balance of a $4,250 fee for services in connection with a $75,000 property settlement with her husband, Michael Bohnen, opera singer.

2 Die in Chair at Sing Sing for Death of Holdup Victim

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 26.— (AP) — Anthony Vellucia, 40, and Anthony Lucianio, 36, both of Amsterdam, N. Y., were executed tonight at Sing Sing prison for the murder of Libero Barnell, an oil station attendant of Montgomery county. Barnell was killed during a holdup.

CARAWAY SEEKS FUNDS TO SIFT DAVIS CHARGES

Lobby Committee May Sit for Weeks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Added significance was given today to the investigation of allegations concerning Senator James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.], when Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], chairman of the senate lobby committee, which has the case under inquiry, introduced a resolution to extend his committee's life through the first session of the next congress.

Instead of a two or three day hearing, as was first announced, the investigation now promises to occupy several days, perhaps weeks. The committee, it is understood on good authority, has resolved to spare no effort to establish either the truth or the falsity of the charges that "an unnamed senator," who now appears to be Senator Davis, while secretary of labor received $100,000 from the head of a sugar company in return for his services in lobbying for a high tariff on sugar.

Puts n Blanket Denial.

At yesterday's initial hearing Senator Davis voluntarily appeared and put into the record a blanket denial which termed the whole story "a malicious lie."

The next meeting of the committee will take place on Monday. Among those who have been mentioned as prospective witnesses are: B. G. Dahlberg, former president of the Dahlberg corporation, holding company for the Celotex and Southern Sugar companies; S. E. Eveland, former vice president of the Dahlberg corporation, and George G. Johnson, former secretary to Dahlberg.

Asks $2,000 for Inquiry.

Senator Caraway's resolution today asked for an appropriation of $2,000 to meet the expense of the committee. An amendment to be offered tomorrow will ask that this sum be increased to $5,000. Without a grant of further time the committee would have come to an end on March 4.

SCHOOL CHIEFS AT CONVENTION PRAISE DRY LAW

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 26.—(AP)—School superintendents pronounced themselves dry today with cheers for a resolution approving the eighteenth amendment and efforts to shout down the only one of their number who raised his voice against it.

The controversy flared for a few minutes in the final day's session of the sixty-first annual convention of the department of superintendence of the National Education association, furnishing the only fireworks of its four day session. It was quickly disposed of after Dr. Daniel J. Kealey of Hoboken, N. J., had spoken against the dry resolution.

The New Jersey man did not ask adoption of his repeal resolution, but argued that educators should not concern themselves with prohibition, which he termed a "political issue."

Kealey also took exception to the statement in the resolution that the eighteenth amendment is the "most effective means yet devised to curtail the distribution and use of alcohol." He declared that there has been no curtailmnt and asserted that there are 16,000 speakeasies in Detroit.

DOCTOR TELLS HOW GIRL DIED AT GIN PARTY

Kirkland Fights to Bar Confession.

"Shock and hemorrhage, due to injuries of the head and body," he answered.

"Would the head injuries alone have been sufficient to cause death?" the prosecutor asked.

"No," was the answer. "I believe that, with the proper care, she might have recovered from the brain concussion."

On cross-examination Defense Attorney Richard Oldham, seeking to bring out the supposed inexperience of the physician, suffered a setback. On direct examination, Dr. Burcham had stated he was a practicing physician for three years.

"The performing of autopsies is a highly technical task, requiring much experience, is it not?" queried the lawyer.

The witness said it was.

"I have no record of that," said the doctor.

Q.—Had you ever performed one before this? A.—Yes, I have. I don't know exactly how many.

Q.—Would you say five? A.—Yes, and more. The number runs into the hundreds.

Lawyer Tries Another Line.

Attorney Oldham abruptly took another line of questioning. With the coaching of Dr. Orlando F. Scott of Chicago, retained by the defense as expert counsel, he plunged into an examination of Dr. Burcham's knowledge of chemistry and psychology, which was not concluded when court adjourned this evening.

Mrs. Elser, a tall young woman with blue eyes, and the wife of an Indiana university student, was the star witness of the forenoon. The defense waived cross-examining her.

"Did you know Arlene very well?" the prosecutor began. A.—She was my schoolmate.

Q.—Did you see her at a party on the night of Nov. 29? A.—My husband and I went to a party at David Thompson's house that night. We got there just before midnight. Arlene was there.

Q.—Did Arlene appear intoxicated? A.—She was perfectly sober. I had seen her dancing with Leon Stanford. I spent five or ten minutes with her in the bathroom.

Swears Arlene Was Not Ill.

The prosecutor drew from the witness testimony indicating that Arlene at that time was not suffering from any ailment that might have weakened her on that night.

Q.—When did Arlene leave the house? A.—About 11:45. She and Virgil Kirkland and Dave Thompson and Leon Stanford drove off to get sandwiches.

Q.—When did you next see her? A.—About 12:45. My husband and I were ready to go home. We had heard some whispering in the house about Arlene's absence. There was whispering about what was in the car outside.

Q.—Did you go out to the car? A.—I had heard Virgil Kirkland say: "Is she still in the car?" I went over and looked in. I saw a girl's body lying in the rear seat.

Q.—Was the body clothed? A.—I don't think so. I didn't look closely. I was frightened, so I called my husband and we left.

Objects to Confession.

Lieut. Thixton was called to lay the basis for introducing Kirkland's confession into evidence. Defense counsel interposed strenuous objection to admitting the confession, contending that portions of it dealt with the alleged crimes of others than Kirkland.

The judge said he would rule on the admissibility of the statement tomorrow morning. The confession, as certified by the police, follows:

Q.—What is your name? A.—Virgil Kirkland.

Q.—Tell us in your own words what you know of the death of Arlene Draves? A.—I went with Miss Draves and Shorty Thompson to Dave Thompson's for a party. When we arrived about 9 p. m., Thompson was alone with his wife. Shortly afterwards a lot of boys and girls arrived and they drank a lot and danced a lot.

Smacks Her on Face.

About midnight Miss Draves began staggering around from the booze, and I took her out to the piazza to give her air, and I smacked her on the side of the face to kind of bring her out of it.

Then Shorty Thompson, Miss Draves, Paul Barton and myself got into Burton's car and went to get frankfurters. When I came out Thompson was with Miss Draves. Then Paul Barton was with her. I was with Miss Draves when we were on the piazza before leaving for the dogs. Then we went back to the house and Stanford and Shirk went out to see her.

About 2:30 we left for home and when we went downtown we could not arouse Miss Draves, so we drove to Dr. Wharton's home and carried her in and the doctor said she was dead.

This statement was given to the police officers of my own free will without any abuse or promises of any kind, and in so doing know it will be used against me.

Ousted Mayor of Stickney Begins Dry Law Sentence

Anton Rench, who was ousted as mayor of the village of Stickney after a hearing before County Judge Jarecki several months ago, yesterday surrendered to federal authorities and began serving a term of one year in the Grundy county jail for violation of the Volstead act. It was proved that Rench and his wife, Irma, conducted a roadhouse in the suburb and Mrs. Rench was fined $500.

BRITAIN READY TO CALL NEW NAVAL PARLEY

All Depends on Dispute of France and Italy.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 26.—If the present efforts of Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, and A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, to secure the adhesion of France and Italy to the London naval agreement do not succeed, there may another naval conference at London.

It has been revealed that when Robert L. Craigie, chief of the American section of the foreign office, was sent to Paris to negotiate for France's adherence to the London pact decisions be carried with him proposals for a new naval conference. Paris turned them down flat, offering counter proposals. After considerable negotiations proposals for a reduction in France's naval claims emerged.

Mr. Craigie brought these back to London, but they were met by an admiralty objection that the French concession was not enough. The admiralty also turned down the French demand for an escalator clause to pass Italy should build more ships than France approved of. Under the circumstances the British representatives suddenly decided to go to Paris or Rome to try to straighten out the tangle.

British Call on Mussolini.

ROME, Feb. 26.—(AP)—British and Italian naval experts spent six hours today shuffling paper warships from one category in their search for a settlement satisfactory to Italy in the Franco-Italian naval differences.

In the meantime the British foreign minister, Arthur Henderson, and A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, who headed the British peacemaking mission, called on Premier Mussolini and discussed the pending settlement with him. It was understood that they acquainted him thoroughly with the terms of the provisional accord reached between France and England, of adhesion to which by Italy will bring the two continental powers into the treaty signed at London last year.

Work of the technicians will continue tomorrow, but this had been expected, and officials intimated that nothing discouraging had developed during the day. As a result hope that a full accord would be reached before the British mission leaves on Saturday became almost an expectation among the well informed.

Washington Kept Informed.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Secretary Stimson declined today to comment on advices which the state department has received from representatives in Europe on the Anglo-French naval negotiations looking toward Franco-Italian naval accord."

The secretary said the state department was being informed of the negotiations, but since the United States was not taking an active part it would not be proper for him to discuss the matter.

OFFICIAL DIES

[Moffett Photo.]

Emmons J. Alden, president of the board of trustees of the New England Congregational church, 869 North Dearborn street, for 35 years superintendent of streets of what is now the 42d ward, died yesterday in the Grant hospital after a long illness. He was 67 years old, a native of Sycamore, Ill., and lived at 1100 North Dearborn street.

Mr. Alden was for many years and at the time of his death president of the Municipal Employés' association, and a director of the credit union of the same organization. He was also secretary of the Ward Superintendents' association. Mr. Alden was some time ago president of the Alden Kindred of America. He was known as an authority on municipal affairs.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Mary Carlisle Alden; a brother, Dr. Carroll Storrs Alden, professor of English at the United States Naval academy, Annapolis, Md., and two sisters, Mary Priscilla and Helen Marie, both of Chicago. Funeral services will be held at the New England church at 2 p. m. Monday, with burial in Graceland cemetery.

VOTE 30 MILLION TO ELEVATE GUNS ON BATTLESHIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Modernization of the three weakest links in the American battleship fleet was assured today when the house approved the Britten bill authorizing $30,000,000 for elevating the 14 inch turret guns and increasing the armor protection on the second line battleships Idaho, New Mexico, and Mississippi.

In approving this measure by the vote of 296 to 68, the house followed the senate in placing its stamp of approval on the battleship as the backbone of modern navies. Pacifist and little navy adherents, who opposed the bill, based their attack largely on the theory that the airplane bomb and the speedy 10,000 cruiser had rendered the battleship obsolete.

Still Backbone of Fleet.

Action on the measure followed shortly after Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the house naval affairs committee had read messages from Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations and Admiral Joseph Reeves, stating that the recent naval maneuvers at the Panama canal had demonstrated that the battleship still remains the backbone of the fleet. The lesson of the maneuvers was, according to these officers, that aircraft not supported by battleships cannot stop the steady advance of a strong battleship force.

"Without battleship strength," concluded Admiral Pratt, "we are powerless to prevent a major hostile movement across the ocean which may at will of the enemy take upon itself the character of a raid or of an occupation of territory. The battleship still is the backbone of the fleet."

As the measure has been adopted by the senate it goes at once to the White House where approval is assured. Funds for beginning work at once on two of the battleships will be included in the second deficiency bill, senate and house leaders said, thus making it possible to begin work on these vessels within a few weeks. Backers of the bill said its passage would make it possible to retain 4,000 men on the navy yard payrolls.

Idaho Designed in 1913.

Designed in 1913-14, the Idaho, New Mexico, and Mississippi are outclassed in speed, protection, and shooting power by the capital ships of Great Britain and Japan. Their present range is fifteen miles, compared to twenty for British and Japanese vessels of this class. In addition they are highly vulnerable to attack either by submarine, airplane or battleships.

When modernized the vessels will have a longer radius of action and a range equal to that of all British capital ships with the possible exception of the Rodney and Nelson. The principal work proposed to be done is to install blisters and additional deck protection against attack by torpedo, bomb, and gun. New boilers and propelling machinery will be installed. The elevation of the turret guns will be increased from fifteen to thirty degrees. New main and secondary fire control systems will be installed so that the anti-aircraft battery can be aimed and fired automatically at aerial targets.

The new anti-aircraft guns will be five inches in caliber in place of three. Airplane catapaults and handling cranes will be installed. These vessels, costing $15,000,000 when built, will represent an investment of $25,000,000 when completed. From ten to fifteen years will be added to their lives, according to naval experts.

Chairman Britten and Representative Carl Vinson [Dem., Ga.] ranking minority member of the house naval committee, led the fight for battleship modernization. Their principal opposition came from Representatives Burton L. French [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the naval subcommittee on appropriations; Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] and a number of Wisconsin radical Republicans.

Idahoan Opens Attack.

Immediately after Chairman Britten had urged passage of the bill on the ground this step must be taken to give this country anything like battleship parity with Great Britain, Representative French opened the attack.

"Within the next five months we will carry twice as much new naval construction as any nation in the world and this in spite of the fact that the submarine and aircraft have practically put the battleship out of existence as a weapon of war or defense," Mr. French said.

Who Is U. S. Building Against?

"Who are we building against? We already have four times the navy of Italy. We have twice the tonnage of Japan.

"The answer must be we are building against Great Britain."

FOUND DEAD; BELIEVED SUICIDE.

Gus Erickson, 60 years old, a cabinet maker, was found dead yesterday in his room at 3139 South Canal street. Apparently he had killed himself with a razor while despondent over ill health, the police said.

SALESMAN ENDS ACID STOMACH

"I cannot help telling how good ACIDINE is," says J. F. McCarthy of Dorchester, Mass. "I had been troubled with an acid stomach for the last ten years and as I am a salesman, I think my condition used to hurt my production. Now after using two boxes of ACIDINE I feel O. K.

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase that in laboratory tests digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at Walgreen's. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Make refunds money if not delighted.

RUSSIA TO TRY 14 AS PLOTTERS OF ARMED REVOLT

MOSCOW, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Fourteen men are to go on trial March 1 before a special sitting of the soviet Supreme court on charges of counter-revolutionary activities. An indictment made public today details the charges against the defendants and the groups with which they are said to have been identified in sabotage against the five year plan and in assisting the "imperialist bourgeois European countries" to plan armed intervention in Russia.

Three organizations also are named, the "all union party," the "toiling peasants' party," and the Russian social Democrats. These groups are the minority, as opposed to the bolshevik majority.

Charge Foreign Financial Aid.

A preamble to the indictment outlines connections between this group and the defendants in the December trial of "industrial party" leaders.

The general secretary of the central council of trades unions will be chairman of this court and the formidable Krylenko will prosecute. One of the specific charges to be made, it is expected, is that the "all union party" received financial aid from German and French sources.

The Jewish Telegraphic agency says that six of the defendants are Jews.

Earlier today a brief announcement by the central executive committee of the communist party said that David Ryazanov, known as "one of the most distinguished theoreticians of communism," had been dropped as director of the Marx-Engels institute.

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—A delegation of 18 German industrial leaders departed for Moscow tonight for a 12 day industrial survey of soviet Russia. They will be guests of the supreme economic council. Executive officials of the following industrial organizations are included in the roster of the delegation:

The Krupp works, General Electric and Siemens-Schuckert, Borsig Locomotive works, Schichau shipyards, United Steel works, and Hirsch Copper corporation. The German dye and chemical trust is not represented. At the Berlin headquarters of the Federation of German Industries, it was stated the delegation would confine itself to an industrial survey, visiting Moscow, Leningrad, Nishninovogorod, and other important centers.

Appeals 5 Year Sentence for Shooting Lover's Wife

VERSAILLES, France, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Lady Owen, French born widow of a British baronet, today appealed from a five year sentence and conviction of attempted manslaughter handed down here Tuesday in a Paris court. She was convicted of having gravely wounded the wife of her lover, Dr. Gastaud, who, she said, had promised to secure a divorce and marry her.

ACT TO LINE UP THOMPSON FOES BEHIND CERMAK

Democrats Count on Independent, G. O. P. Aid

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A drive was launched by the Democrats yesterday to line up the independents and Republicans who supported Judge John H. Lyle and Ald. Arthur Albert in the G. O. P. primaries, behind A. J. Cermak, Democratic nominee for mayor.

Party chiefs announced at a meeting of the managing committee that precinct workers in the Lyle and Albert camps are offering their aid. Speakers declared that Mayor Thompson hit his "peak vote" in Tuesday's primaries and that the gauge of sentiment is in the vote of 296,000 for Thompson and of 585,000 against Thompsonism, in the vote polled by Cermak, Lyle, Albert, and Schmidt. The first activities of the Cermak forces will be directed towards the coalescing of groups which voted for a new deal in the city hall.

Sees Much Republican Support.

Mr. Cermak told the leaders that his desk is swamped with letters from Republicans and independents.

"We are going to receive plenty of Republican help during this campaign," said Mr. Cermak. "It will be open and avowed support. I can assure you the next few weeks will bring announcements which will be of surprise to many persons.

"As for the possibility of an independent candidacy, that is something which should not worry us. There are two views to take. One delegation that waited on me today was of the opinion that we would benefit by an independent entering the field. Others believe we would lose some votes.

"But in any event we have nothing to worry about. The candidate who is opposing me got his peak vote on primary day."

Precinct Captains Line Up.

Several of the ward committeemen said Lyle and Albert precinct captains are already out for Cermak.

"In my ward," said Ald. Sheldon Govier [9th], "seventeen Lyle captains have already lined up behind Mr. Cermak. We find in our canvass that the workers who supported both Judge Lyle and Ald. Albert show a desire to keep up activity fighting for a change at the city hall and that party lines are going to mean nothing in April at the election."

One hundred representatives of German societies attended a meeting of the German-American campaign committee in behalf of Cermak. Ernst Buehler was elected chairman; Frank T. Huening, secretary; Walter W. L. Meyer, treasurer, and Leopold Neumann, campaign manager. The campaign committee reported that many who supported Lyle, Albert, and Schmidt in the Republican primaries have declared their intention to join the German-American Cermak organization.

Col. A. A. Sprague will open the business men's headquarters for Cermak to day at the Hotel La Salle. Within a few days Cermak headquarters will also be opened in the Ashland block.

A Republican day meeting is to be held by the Cermak managers on Monday at the Steuben club. The speakers will be Judge Henry Horner and Francis X. Busch, former president of the Chicago Bar association and former corporation counsel in the Dever administration.

Complain of Irregularities.

A casual survey of Tuesday's vote has convinced the Democratic chiefs that the voting of "stingers" in the river wards rolled up the Thompson plurality. In the apartment hotels in the residential wards complaints have been made of votes by transients and of votes cast in the names of persons who had moved. A fraud department was set up yesterday at Democratic headquarters, and a force of 200 investigators will make a canvass with a view to pruning the polling lists of "deadheads" and "stingers" at revision time.

"From indications nearly 100,000 stingers, repeaters, and deadheads voted Tuesday," was the burden of ward reports at the managerial meeting.

There were no developments on whether Coroner Herman N. Bundesen will enter as an independent mayoralty candidate. He has declared that he will withdraw his name from the "citizens' nonpartisan" ticket filed by an organization which used his name without his knowledge or consent.

At the Democratic managerial meeting some leaders reported that the city hall is expressing a hope that an independent will run.

"City hall employés have come into my office today," said Albert J. Horan, bailiff of the Municipal court, "saying that some department heads in the hall are telling their employés to ask their relatives and friends to write letters to Mr. Bundesen urging him to run."

Walker Denies Message.

From New York Mayor James J. Walker telegraphed that Thompson had been the victim of a hoax on primary night, when he conversed over long distance with some one claiming to be Mayor Walker. Mr. Cermak received a wire from the mayor of New York saying:

"Did not send wire or phone to any one in Chicago election night. Am trying to learn something of New York politics and have no time to become involved in Chicago politics. Congratulations and best wishes for your success. JAMES J. WALKER."

The canvass of Tuesday's vote proceeded at such a pace yesterday that County Judge Jarecki issued orders that the teams should work a night shift in an effort to issue the proclamation of the vote on Saturday morning.

JUDGES ADOPT NEW SYSTEM IN CRIMINAL COURT

A new system of assigning criminal cases was adopted yesterday by the judges of the criminal court at their regular weekly meeting. In the future two of the judges—John Prystalski and Harry Fisher—will try only nonjury cases. This is expected to speed up trials and will leave the other seven judges free to devote their time exclusively to jury trials.

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty also reported to his associates that the county board has tentatively eliminated from its budget the appropriation for the office of public defender. The judges voted to protest to the board and ask for the reinstatement of the $26,000 appropriation.

"If the office of public defender is abolished by the county board it will be the biggest backward step taken in many years," said Judge McGoorty. "The public defender system has speeded up criminal procedure and has saved the county many times over the amount of money required to operate the office."

ANNOYS VOTERS, GETS 4 DAYS.

Frank Sider, alias Zachary, 22 years old, 2482 Blue Island avenue, was sentenced to four days in the county jail yesterday when he was arraigned before Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court on a charge of gun toting. Police testified they arrested him primary day annoying voters in front of 1830 West 17th street. Sider's revolver was unloaded. Sider testified he was intoxicated.

GIRL, 4, KILLED, MOTHER HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Florence Nowicki, 4 years old, was killed and her mother, Mrs. Lucille Nowicki, 19 years old, was critically injured early this morning when they were struck by an automobile in front of their home at 1417 Milwaukee avenue. Mrs. Nowicki and her daughter were returning to their home from a visit with friends when the car of Denis Ryll, 20 years old, 3915 North Kilbourn avenue, crashed into them.

This death and two others increased the 1931 motor toll for Cook county to 208. The other victims:

Mrs. Anna Pawley, 37 years old, 5618 North Kimball avenue. Died this morning in the Belmont hospital of injuries suffered early yesterday in a collision between a car driven by her husband, Robert, and one operated by Joseph Dahlstrom, 4423 Sheridan road, at Kimball avenue and Peterson road.

Mrs. Katherine Cunningham, 48 years old, 7258 South Artesian avenue. Killed when struck by the automobile of Donald Thomas, 2201 West 119th place, at Western avenue and 73d street.

Samuel Eisenberg, 41 years old, 3303 Palmer street, was seriously injured yesterday when his truck skidded on a narrow viaduct in the Waukegan road near Techny and plunged 40 feet down an embankment. He suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries. Four other accidents occurred on the narrow bridge during the day.

Here is Mrs. Borden, wearing the latest thing in Eskimo parkas—the beaded white reindeer-skin in which she stalked polar bear and arctic walrus up north of Siberia and Alaska. In her modern bungalow atop the Ambassador Hotel she's a slim little figure in Parisian frocks or smart English tweeds—with a face as soft and unweathered as though it never knew exploring hardships.

who enjoys adventuring with her husband, and who loves to share her experiences in gay after-dinner chats over fragrant cups of Manor House, or in lively stories from her own pen. Remember her popular book, "The Cruise of the Northern Light," describing that daring Borden Field Museum Arctic Expedition to the top of the map where never white woman had ventured before?

Everything that young Mrs. Borden does is a gay adventure... everything except the coffee with which she tops off each event. For, when it comes to coffee, she's all through adventuring—she serves only Manor House, the blend that is virtually standard among Chicago's society hostesses.

"Whether at the formal dinner or in the open air after a hunt," declares Mrs. Borden, "Manor House flavor is just right—fresh as an October dawn over a duck pond.

"This unusual combination of freshness with richness is why Manor House seems to me the perfect coffee for all occasions... after dinner, for breakfast, just before going to bed."

So many of these women who are internationally famed for their hospitality say that nothing is more important to the success of their dinners than the coffee. Since coffee has the power to perfect or mar the entire meal, they trust the final impression to no other but McLaughlin's Manor House.

An old Clock in the Manner of Chippendale

To some, the shaft of sunlight across the breakfast table, hunger at mid-day, the approach of the sandman, amply indicate the flight of time. To others, the tiny watch or the tall and cheerful counter of seconds is utterly essential. But, if one really loves clocks, from the tall fellows of 1700 to the Banjo affairs of 1800... and other lovely things of bygone days... one should read the Antiques and Interior Decorations Section of The Sun. HOOVER NAMES JOHN P. BARNES FEDERAL JUDGE

Czarnecki Is Reappointed Customs Collector.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—President Hoover sent to the senate today four nominations for Illinois federal positions. The President accepted recommendations agreed upon earlier in the day by Senators Charles S. Deneen and Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.]

ANTHONY CZARNECKI.

Under the agreement Senator Deneen, who is to retire from the senate next week, obtained two of the four places. Senator Glenn, who after March 4 will be the only Republican senator from Illinois, not only named the other two, but will be able to control later on appointments for half a dozen other positions, which have been a subject of controversy with Senator Deneen.

These Are Four Named.

The four appointments made today by the President were the following:

Frank P. Lemon, for United States district attorney in the southern or Springfield district, succeeding Walter M. Provine.

Arthur M. Burke of Champaign for United States marshal in the eastern district to succeed Arthur M. Clark.

Senator Deneen obtained the reappointment of Mr. Czarnecki and also was responsible for the selection of Mr. Lemon.

Glenn Chooses Barnes.

Senator Glenn chose Mr. Barnes, a former law partner, and also named Mr. Burke, who will supplant Mr. Clark, a Deneen appointee. Mr. Barnes is 50 years old and a graduate of Geneva college, Pa., and the University of Michigan. He has practiced in Chicago since 1907. From 1915 to 1919 he was associated with the law firm headed by Senator Deneen and in 1929 and 1921 and again from 1926 to 1929 was with the firm with which Senator Glenn has been connected. For the last year Mr. Barnes has practiced alone.

While Senator Glenn expects to control other Illinois appointments he agreed that Harold G. Baker, United States district attorney for the eastern district, should remain in his post until this summer or fall. Mr. Baker was backed by Senator Deneen for reappointment. Paul Jones of Danville, who is Senator Glenn's choice for the post, will be recommended by him for appointment at that time.

Delay Filling Page Vacancy.

It was stated that, although Senators Deneen and Glenn some time ago recommended the appointment of United States District Judge James H. Wilkerson of Chicago for the Page vacancy on the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, there is no likelihood that the President will make an appointment before next fall. The reason is understood to be that protests have been made to the department of justice by labor interests against a railway shopmen's injunction issued by Judge Wilkerson.

Senators Deneen and Glenn were unable to reach an agreement on the Chicago postmastership, the collectorship of internal revenue at Chicago, the appraiser of customs at Chicago, the second additional federal judgeship for the northern or Chicago district, and the new judgeship for the southern or Springfield district. It is anticipated that Senator Glenn will control these appointments after congress adjourns.

The term of Arthur Lueder, postmaster at Chicago, long since has expired. The collectorship of internal revenue has been vacant since Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackidge, a Deneen appointee, resigned. Senator Glenn's choice for this posittion is understood to be Clarence Buck, while Senator Deneen recommended Harry Hoff. William H. Cruden, a Deneen appointee, is the present appraiser of customs. Mr. Provine, although not desiring reappointment as district attorney in the Springfield district, has had Senator Deneen's backing for the new judgeship in that district.

Naval Academy Tests.

Senator Glenn announced today that at his request the civil service commission will hold an examination for appointment to the Naval academy at Annapolis on March 14 at the postoffices in Chicago, Springfield, Carbondaye, Decatur, Waukegan, East St. Louis, Carrollton, Kewanee, Rockford, Lincoln, Mount Vernon, Oregon, Paris, Peoria, Streator, Monmouth, Rock Island, and Harrisburg. The candidates receiving the highest grades will be nominated by Senator Glenn for the principal appointee and for three alternates.

That Nathan William MacChesney of Chicago will not be appointed minister to the Netherlands, as was reported recently, was indicated when President Hoover sent to the senate the nomination of L. S. Swanson of Minnesota for that post.

HOUSE CAUCUS OF G. O. P. AGAIN FOR LONGWORTH

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Speaker Nicholas Longworth was renominated unanimously tonight in a caucus of Republican members of the new congress. Representative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut was reelected majority leader and others on the slate of the Republican regulars also were named without opposition.

The threatened controversy over rules failed to develop. Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] and members of the Wisconsin and Minnesota delegations who have been most active in urging a liberalization of rules failed to attend. Members of the Kansas delegation who have been outspoken in denunciation of the Republican house leaders because of their refusal to put through an embargo on imports of crude oil also were conspicuous by their absence.

The house in the new congress will have 218 Republicans, 216 Democrats, and one Farmer-Labor member.

Others renominated included William Tyler Page as clerk of the house, Joseph Rodgers as sergeant at arms, and Bert Kennedy as doorkeeper. Representative A. H. Vestal [Rep., Ind.] was reelected as party whip. Representative W. C. Hawley [Ore.] was chairman of the caucus.

The Illinois delegation elected Representative W. P. Holaday as member of the committee on committees and Representative Carl R. Chindblom as member of the congressional campaign committee.

CAPTAIN C. J. HEATH, M.D.

Prescribed for Sick, Tired Out, Nervous, Sleepless Sufferers—Formula Safe for Smallest Child—Contains No Harmful Drugs.

Doctor Heath says: "I have spent many years in army and civilian work. Never before in this experience have I found a product which combines the non-injurious herbal qualities together with cod liver oil, yeast and the vegetable vitamins. I have seen thousands of sufferers loaded with the toxic poisons of constipation, hundreds of men and women along in life bowed down with the curse of rheumatism, young people with shattered nerves tossing in sleepless nights, and stomach, liver, and kidney sufferers wracked with pain unable to lead a normal, happy life.

"This new medicine, Vitaminized Vitalex, is so harmless that mothers throughout the country feed it to their children for its food value. Vitalex contains growth promoting vitamins. Notwithstanding this, Vitalex has the ability of driving out the most deep-seated toxic poison by its slow but thorough action, which removes the evil at its root. Then the above mentioned rehabilitatory vitamins and other ingredients revitalize the system and put the organs back into their normal functions.

PUT ETHICS ABOVE LAW IN SANITARY ATTORNEYS' CASE

Lawyers Must Testify at Disbarment Hearing.

Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, sitting as commissioner of the Illinois Supreme court, yesterday upheld the right of the Chicago Bar association to investigate the activities of 55 lawyers for the sanitary district during the régime of Timothy J. Crowe. The judge ruled that a lawyer's conduct should be governed by the rules of morality and that therefore the respondents should testify even though they are not required to do so by law.

The Bar association charged in the disciplinary proceedings that the lawyers accepted money from the district without rendering commensurate services. During the hearing, which is in its seventh week, many of the lawyers have testified that they were willing to work for their salaries but that the district failed to provide them with work.

The question has frequently been raised as to whether this constituted a violation of the lawyer's contract and whether a third party, in this case the Bar association, had a right to make any inquiries.

Claims Privilege of Counsel.

The judge made his ruling while hearing the argument of Attorney Justus Chancellor, who had refused to permit his clients, two of the respondents, to testify. He argued that the privilege of relations between attorney and client entitled the attorneys to remain silent on the nature of the services they gave to the district.

"In this case," the judge said, "the board of trustees of the sanitary district were the representatives of the taxpayers of the district. Where a lawyer's client is tens of thousands of people, and for months and months he has no work, it becomes his duty to investigate why there is no work, and if none is forthcoming, to throw up his job."

Attorney Chancellor argued that the trustees had full power to determine the duties and compensation of their employés and that it was up to them to see that the contract was performed.

Attacks "Third Party" Action.

"The trustees and the lawyers were both satisfied," Chancellor declared, "I don't see where it is the position of a third party to bring action in this case."

Judge Taylor replied that the Supreme court is superior to the constitution on some issues. "Laws and morals are no co-extensive," he said. "A lawyer's conduct is to be governed by laws of morality and not constitutionality."

Attorney Chancellor's clients will be called upon to testify when the hearing is resumed today. Only three of the 55 defendant attorneys remain to be questioned.

CRIPPLE ENDS OWN LIFE.

Alfred Burmeister, 30 years old, who had been a cripple for years, killed himself yesterday by slashing his wrist with a razor as he sat in a wheel chair at the home of his mother Mrs. Mary Burmeister, 3642 Janssen avenue.

GERMANY ACTS TO IMPORT MEAT TO FEED POOR

Would Let 50,000 Tons Enter Duty Free.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—The farmers of Germany received a shock today when the trade committee of the reichstag adopted a Socialist motion authorizing the importation of 50,000 tons of frozen meat yearly duty free to feed the poor and jobless. The committee's vote was 11 to 8.

This decision must be confirmed in plenary session of the reichstag to become a law. Cattle breeders secured prohibition of the import of frozen meats last October, but the refusal of the Nationalists to participate in the proceedings of the reichstag enabled the Socialists to secure the narrow majority on their motion.

Unions Object to Farm Aid.

The Socialists today voiced a protest to President von Hindenburg against the Bruening cabinet's farm relief program when a delegation of trades union leaders told the president that the program should be rejected because "the aid granted the farmers must not be allowed to damage industrial exports and living conditions of the broad masses of the population." The cabinet has provided for a $62,000,000 relief fund for farmers, to be spread over a period of five years.

Theodor Leipart, chairman of the General Association of German Trade Unions, pleaded passionately in behalf of the country's 5,000,000 jobless.

"The first task must be to get them their jobs back again," he said. "Measures so far taken have been insufficient. Others, such as wage reductions, are actually damaging. Stoppage of this wage cutting policy, which has increased the number of unemployed, is one of the first presuppositions for the recovery of industry and the calming of German workers."

Asks Cut in Working Hours.

Herr Leipert also emphasized that the promised price reductions had largely failed to materialize through an increase in home consumption, one of the most important steps toward stimulating occupation. Working hours should be curtailed to 40 hours weekly, which would enable jobs for a greater part of those now idle, he urged.

President von Hindenburg assured the delegation that their views would receive the most careful consideration, and promised that everything possible would be done "to lead our people out of their sore straits."

FINDS IRELAND GETTING FAT AS 'PRODIGAL SON'

Richer Years Ahead, Says President Cosgrave.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Feb. 26.—Before the establishment of the Irish Free State the most frequent argument against Irish freedom was that the Irish hadn't the ability to govern themselves and that in ten years an Irish state would become bankrupt and return to Britain hat in hand in a prodigal son act. The Irish Free State is now nine years old and has no desire to go back to the paternal mansion. Its own home is more luxurious and its outlook sounder.

WILLIAM T. COSGRAVE.

While Britain is groaning under a burden of unemployment, disappearing trade, and political unrest, Ireland has become one of the most prosperous and most stable states in Europe, or even in the world, according to observers. She has little unemployment, her national loans are at a premium, trade is improving, and the Irish farmer has less to grumble at than other farmers.

Agricultural Economy Advantage.

The reasons for all this were explained today by President William T. Cosgrave in an interview here. He was disposed to take less credit than many think he is entitled to for a competent and economical government. He attributes Ireland's prosperity more or less to natural advantages.

The great advantage, he insists, is her agricultural economy. Instead of growing grain to feed her people and her animals, as Eamon De Vglera and his Fianna Fail party urge, Ireland has concentrated on producing first grade cattle, swine, and sheep, and on butter and dairy products. For these she has an inexhaustible market at her doors in Britain and is now reaping the profit from a combination of high prices in this market and the world slump in grain.

"The Irish farmer," President Cosgrave said, "is in a particularly strong position. It is true that the prices of fat stock and dairy products have declined, but they are only down ten per cent, while the price of cereals, used for feeding both man and beast, are down fifteen to thirty per cent. The result is that the farmer has a wider spread between the price he pays for his raw materials and what he gets for his finished products.

Jobless Total Reduced.

"Our system of selective protection has added to the number of men and women employed in industry. In 1922 we had 240,000 persons registered as entitled to unemployment benefit. Today we have 280,000, which shows that Irish manufacturing industry is employing 40,000 more people than it was eight years ago.

"We have 85,000 officially unemployed, but about 6,000 of them are army and police pensioners."

IOWANS THINK CHICAGO OUGHT TO CLEAN HOUSE

University Inquiry Has Cross-Currents.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Can any good thing come out of Chicago?

The Iowa legislature seems to have strong doubts on this subject, for a spirited attack was made on the state university investigating committee today on the ground that they had hired a Chicago private detective to aid them in ferreting out conditions at Iowa City at a rate of $25 a day and expenses.

The recent Chicago election and the front page news about Al Capone have not served to calm the suspicions of the corn belt law makers. Their own troubles seem small in comparison. They read stories of millions squandered and then turn to worrying about whether some one at the university used a can of paint illegally.

Fair Bill Coming Up.

The clouds passed over today and judgment on the committee's wisdom in going to Chicago for help was postponed until after the ten days recess which begins tomorrow. A bill will come up later also for a $75,000 appropriation for the Chicago fair. There is some cloak room gossip to the effect that unless Chicago cleans house politically that this amount may not be appropriated.

The university investigation, which was devoted today to an inquiry as to the use of materials and labor paid for by the state on private projects of university favorites, is creating strong political undercurrents which will become more definitely fixed in a few weeks. Back of the inquiry is said to be a group of influential alumni who are dissatisfied with the administration of President Walter A. Jessup. The athletic slush fund scandal, and his part in it, furnished the lever for action. This is to be taken up soon by the committee, although it is a dead issue and its only effect can be the picture of it presents of the president.

Two New Probers.

Gov. Dan Turner, who sent a message to the legislature asking for this investigation, after Verne Marshall, Cedar Rapids newspaper publisher, had attacked the university administration in a series of sensational articles, is rapidly gaining full control of the board of education. He appointed two new members today, Frank Miles, Des Moines Democrat and editor of the Iowa Legionaire, and Max Hueschen, a Republican newspaper publisher.

The other two members are to be appointed.

PLAYER DETAILS FATAL QUARREL IN BRIDGE GAME

Opponents of Bennetts Witness at Trial.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Charles Hofman, a participant in the game, related at the murder trial of Mrs. Myrtle Bennett today how a contract bridge bid of four spades, doubled and lost, caused a quarrel which ended in the fatal shooting of John G. Bennett, in the couple's fashionable apartment here Sept. 29, 1929.

Hofman was the first witness called by Prosecutor James R. Page to offer testimony which Page told the jury would prove Mrs. Bennett deliberately shot her husband as he was leaving home angered by the card game controversy.

The witness, admittedly a friend of the weeping defendant, told his version of Bennett's death immediately after former Senator James A. Reed, defense attorney, declared to the jury that the shooting was wholly accidental.

Finds Bennett Wounded.

Hofman's story began with the card game and led up to a description of how he rushed into Bennett's den at the sound of shots to discover Mrs. Bennett kneeling beside her husband, who was dying from two bullet wounds.

The bridge game, interrupted by bickering between the Bennetts as they began to lose, ended when Bennett failed to make a four spade bid, Hofman testified. Hofman and his wife were the opponents.

Bennett answered his wife's accusation that he was a "bum bridge player" by grasping her arm and slapping her several times, the witness said. He testified Mrs. Bennett was in the throes of hysteria after she was struck.

Said He Was Leaving.

"Mrs. Bennett said, 'No one but a cur would strike his wife in the presence of company.' Then Bennett said he was going to leave. He was running back and forth gathering up his belongings," Hofman testified.

The witness said he and Mrs. Hofman attempted to patch up the quarrel, but were rebuffed by Bennett. Hofman related he stepped into the bathroom and saw Mrs. Bennett with a gun in her hand.

"'My God, Myrtle,' I said, 'what are you going to do?' I don't recall what she said. She dashed me aside and I heard two pistol shots. I was horrified."

SINGER ACCEPTS $5,000 AND DROPS HILLISON SUITS

Mrs. Mona Roth, former cabaret singer, 4627 Drexel avenue, yesterday accepted a settlement of $5,000 and dismissed her two suits against Moe Hillison, wealthy head of the Hillison & Etten Printing company. One of the suits, asking damages of $75,000 for false arrest, was on trial before Superior Judge Stanton. The other suit, for breach of promise, was pending.

During the two days in court Mrs. Roth charged that Hillison had her arrested on a charge of attempted extortion in an effort to intimidate her and prevent the filing of the $250,000 breach of promise action. In the latter suit she alleged that Hillison courted her for 12 years, paying her $500 a month for her support during that period. Mrs. Roth's attorney was Victor Frohlich.

TWO ARE HUNTED FOR KIDNAPING OF WEALTHY MAN

State's attorney's detectives yesterday were searching for Joe Fiore, alleged Capone henchman, and Ted Virgilio, who are believed to be two of the three men who on Tuesday evening kidnaped Harry Kaplan, wealthy retired cigar manufacturer, as he was returning to his home, 1659 South Harding avenue, and held him throughout the night for $10,000 ransom.

Assistant State's Attorney Nat Russell questioned Kaplan yesterday and showed him photographs of various criminals. The prosecutor later announced the search for Fiore.

Kaplan was unable to tell the prosecutor whether the kidnaping had any connection with the fact that he was scheduled to appear yesterday morning against two men and two women who are accused of robbing him of $795. This case is scheduled to come up for hearing this morning.

When LIFE - literally is in the balance

MORE than drugs are weighed in the pharmacist's balance. Sometimes they measure the difference between life and death. When your prescription is prepared there must be no deviation from your doctor's orders. When it is filled at Liggett's there is none. It is compounded exactly in accordance with your physician's instructions.

Here at Liggett's, accuracy and safety are guarded by every possible precaution. Prescriptions are compounded and rechecked only by licensed pharmacists. All drugs and pharmaceuticals are standard, fresh, and potent as they should be, and as the doctor expects them.

Right now our prescription business is the largest in our history. It is a splendid tribute by the physicians of the country to our rigid rules and ethical practice.

An Added Protection

In the Liggett stores, these precautionary measures for the public health are carried beyond the prescription department. At the fountain, all cold drinks are served in clean, crisp, individual Dixie Cups. It is a considerable extra expense to us, but it means added safety and cleanliness for you.

"Puretest" and "Rexall" Products

Our own factories supply us with the finest of standard remedies, toilet needs, rubber goods, etc. We especially recommend "Puretest" and "Rexall" products for their purity and quality.

Safety, Quality—and Value

All goods at Liggett's are priced as reasonably as is consistent with fair and just business conduct. There is no other drug business so competent to give you unquestioned safety with utmost value.

We consider no transaction complete unless you are entirely satisfied.

SELL N. Y. WORLD TO A SYNDICATE FOR $5,000,000

Pulitzers Set Aside Half Million for Employes.

New York, Feb. 27 [Friday].—(AP)—The New York World newspapers were sold to the Scripps-Howard syndicate early today for $5,000,000.

The contract was signed by the three Pulitzer brothers, publishers of the Morning World, the Evening World, and the Sunday World, and by Roy W. Howard, chairman of the board of Scripps-Howard. The purchase goes into effect with the first edition of the Evening World today.

The sale was made possible by the decision of Surrogate James Foley at midnight, ruling that the newspapers properly could be disposed of under the terms of the will of Joseph Pulitzer.

Roy W. Howard issued the following statement:

"The thought uppermost in the minds of our associates, Robert P. Scripps and myself is that the consolidation means not the death of the New York World but its rebirth."

Pulitzers Say Good-By.

The Pulitzer brothers issued this statement:

"The World, the Evening World, and the Sunday World have been sold to the Scripps-Howard interests, owners of the New York Telegram.

"The three papers will be merged with the New York Telegram under the title of the New York World-Telegram.

"It is the intention of the trustees of the newspaper trust to set aside from the proceeds of the sale the sum of $500,000 to be distributed among employés under the terms of a plan to be announced later.

"The trustees of the newspapers to whom Joseph Pulitzer intrusted the duties of carrying on the institution which he had founded made every possible effort to avoid a sale of the World newspapers, but economic conditions have proved inexorable.

45 Years a Newspaper.

"Had the World been nothing more than a commercial enterprise the sale might possibly have been undertaken years before. It has now become compulsory. But its publication continued year after year with heavy losses.

"For forty-five years it has done its duty as it saw its duty without fear or favor, without private propaganda or special privilege.

"To its army of readers the World under its present management says 'Good-by.' They have shown a great faith in the World prosperity and adversity.

"To ignore that faith by transferring it to other ownership would seem to be a poor return if any other choice were open.

Spirit of New Owners.

"The trustees cannot pretend that it is anything but a painful duty to pass the World newspapers into other hands. But there is a fortunate mitigation in the spirit of the new ownership which is thoroughly hospitable to the World's tradition.

"May it carry on that tradition with the fullest measure of public service and success."

The sale was consummated in the offices of the Pulitzers' attorney, John G. Jackson, in Wall street, following a conference at which the brothers and Mr. Howard were present. The contract, as drawn up several days ago, provides for a down payment of $500,000, another $500,000 within 90 days, $2,000,000 in notes, and the final $2,000,000 contingent upon the profits of the future.

PASTOR WILL CARRY CONTEMPT CASE FIGHT TO SUPREME COURT

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Passing of sentence on a Minneapolis Lutheran minister for refusing to divulge the substance of a "confessional" in a divorce hearing yesterday, was delayed today by District Judge Paul W. Guilford after hearing arguments behind closed doors.

The Rev. Emil Swenson, pastor of Bethlehem Evangelical Lutheran church, who was cited for contempt when he refused to testify to the conversation, made known his intention of carrying the matter to the state Supreme court.

Mr. Swenson refused to divulge a conversation with a defendant in a divorce action, maintaining it was a "confession."

Judge Guilford passed the case until tomorrow when further citations of previous cases will be heard. Paul J. Thompson, attorney for the Minneapolis Ministers' federation, which is apparently backing Mr. Swenson's stand, will look up the citations.

BILL TO REPEAL 'GAG' LAW WILL AWAIT DECISION

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Final action of the bill to repeal the Minnesota newspaper "gag" law is being held up in the state senate pending outcome of the appeal against the law before the Supreme court.

Senator George H. Lommen, author of the "gag" law in 1925, now fighting strongly for its repeal, revealed today that he had agreed to let the measure lie in committee in anticipation of a speedy decision by the United States court.

Lommen declared if the decision failed to materialize in a few days he would force the bill out of the legislative committee where it has reposed since the house of representatives passed it two weeks ago. He predicted that a strong fight would be made against the repeal measure and said that the outcome was still doubtful.

The appeal before the Supreme court is that of the Minneapolis Saturday Press, one of two publications suppressed under the statute, which was intended by its author to close newspapers consistently printing "malicious, defamatory, and scandalous" matter. Criticism of the measure is based on the contention that operation of the law, enforced by injunction, could be used to stop the operations of nearly any newspaper.

BOOTLEGGER IS SLAIN BY LONE GUNMAN IN GARY

Sam Rosso, 35 years old, reputed bootlegger, was shot and killed yesterday afternoon in front of the soft drink parlor of Joseph Sannicola, 1643 Jefferson street, Gary. The killer fired six bullets into the body of Rosso before the latter could draw the pistol he carried.

The only witness, Joseph Cost, 1500 Adams street, Gary, said the slayer escaped on foot. Sannicola, who said that he ran out to find Rosso dead after the shooting occurred, was held by the police. Rosso, who was formerly Sannicola's bartender, was arrested as a murder suspect about a year ago, but was freed.

Husband's Electrical Genius Curbed by Court

John A. Weber was enjoined yesterday from disturbing his wife, Mrs. Stella Weber, 5435 South California avenue. Mrs. Weber told Superior Judge Desort that her husband was an electrician and that he rigged up a device by which he could ring the three door bells and two telephones in her home at the same time. Mrs. Weber has a suit for separate maintenance pending.

HOUSEWIVES AID JOBLESS—LAUNCH SPRING CLEANING

Sally Gets Many Offers of Work in Homes.

Many housewives accepted Sally Joy Brown's suggestion yesterday to greet the spring weather by getting out the broom and mop and getting in calcimin-ers, plasterers, cleaning women and others to help give the house a spring cleaning.

Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE aids persons who are unemployed by turning over to the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, all jobs offered by readers of THE TRIBUNE.

In addition to many offers for calcimining, Mrs. A. C., in the 1500 block on Estes avenue, asked for a man to wash her walls and windows. Mrs. M. H., in the 1300 block on North Dearborn street, is to have some plastering done.

A. P., in the 2200 block on North Avers avenue, will have enough work to be done to keep a plasterer busy two or three days. J. Y., in the 4600 block on Malden street, wanted a woman to wash windows and woodwork.

A loop shop asked for a saleslady, indicating an upward trend in spring business for the store.

Among the letters from unemployed persons received by Sally yesterday were a letter from Mrs. A. W. B., who has to pay $12 a week to support three little daughters in a home; a letter from Mrs. W. S., pleading for a job for her husband, and one from a 17 year old boy, A. W.

Mrs. W. S. wrote in part: "I am asking for something for my husband. He is a very handy man, does good plastering work and nice cement work and can do carpenter work. In fact, he can do almost anything. We have two small children and owe five months' rent, owe my milkman $21.48 and light and gas bills, and I don't know what to do any more. My husband is an ex-service man. He was promised work by April but I don't know how we'll hold out until that time."

JAIL PRISONER IS CO-RESPONDENT IN DIVORCE CASE

Miles D. Packard of Detroit, at present in the county jail awaiting trial on a charge of forgery, became a figure yesterday in the Patchen divorce case. He was named co-respondent in a supplemental cross-bill for divorce filed by Gordon Patchen, a district manager for the Standard Oil company, against his estranged wife, Mrs. Barbara Patchen, 558 Provident street, Winnetka.

Patchen's new bill charges infidelity and amends his first cross-bill filed a year ago, in which he accused his wife of cruelty. Mrs. Patchen originally sued for separate maintenance. According to Attorney Lloyd Faxon, representing Patchen, Packard was arrested at the instigation of Mrs. Patchen when he forged her name to a check after a quarrel.

Foes Defeat MacDonald on Trades Dispute Bill

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Wrecking tactics of the combined Liberal and Conservative opposition inflicted a serious blow on the Labor government's trades disputes bill tonight, when a Liberal amendment practically making a general strike illegal was carried by 37 votes to 31 before the standing committee of the house of commons. Attorney General Sir William Jowitt, during the debate, declared that the amendment would make impossible any strike however honest it might be.

GOOD FELLOWS' FUND SOARS TO NEARLY $97,000

Yesterday brought the largest total of contributions this week to THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow fund and almost topped the $97,000 mark. Gifts and pledges amounted to $717.76.

One letter expressed gratitude "for distribution of my contribution to the Good Fellow fund," while another called attention to the fact that "our subscription exceeds by a few dollars the amount of pledge established for this case," and advised the excess to be distributed "as you deem best."

A total of 305 families are being supported during the midwinter months by the fund provided by Good Fellows. This aid is tiding these families over the slack in employment. All families supported have been investigated by the United Charities, Salvation Army, Central Charities bureau (Catholic), and the Jewish Social Service bureau.

Seven Youths in Cemetery Torture Put on Probation

After a closed session in chambers Judge Francis Allegretti of Boys' court yesterday released on six months probation seven youths who had been charged with kidnaping after they had assaulted George Witthrod, a salesman, and tied him to a cross in All Saints cemetery on the night of Feb. 3. Mitigating circumstances prompted the judge to change the charges to disorderly conduct and release the youths on probation with a fine of $100 each, he said. The seven youths must report to the court each week. The fines will be held in abeyance.

Of course you would like to secure all possible enjoyment from each cup of coffee.

But how can you know which brand to buy—which coffee delivers the finest flavor?

The experimenters make up their minds by the long and arduous route of trying all the coffees; the logicians, by reasoning that the blend chosen by the most people must have the finest flavor.

Both roads lead to Maxwell House!

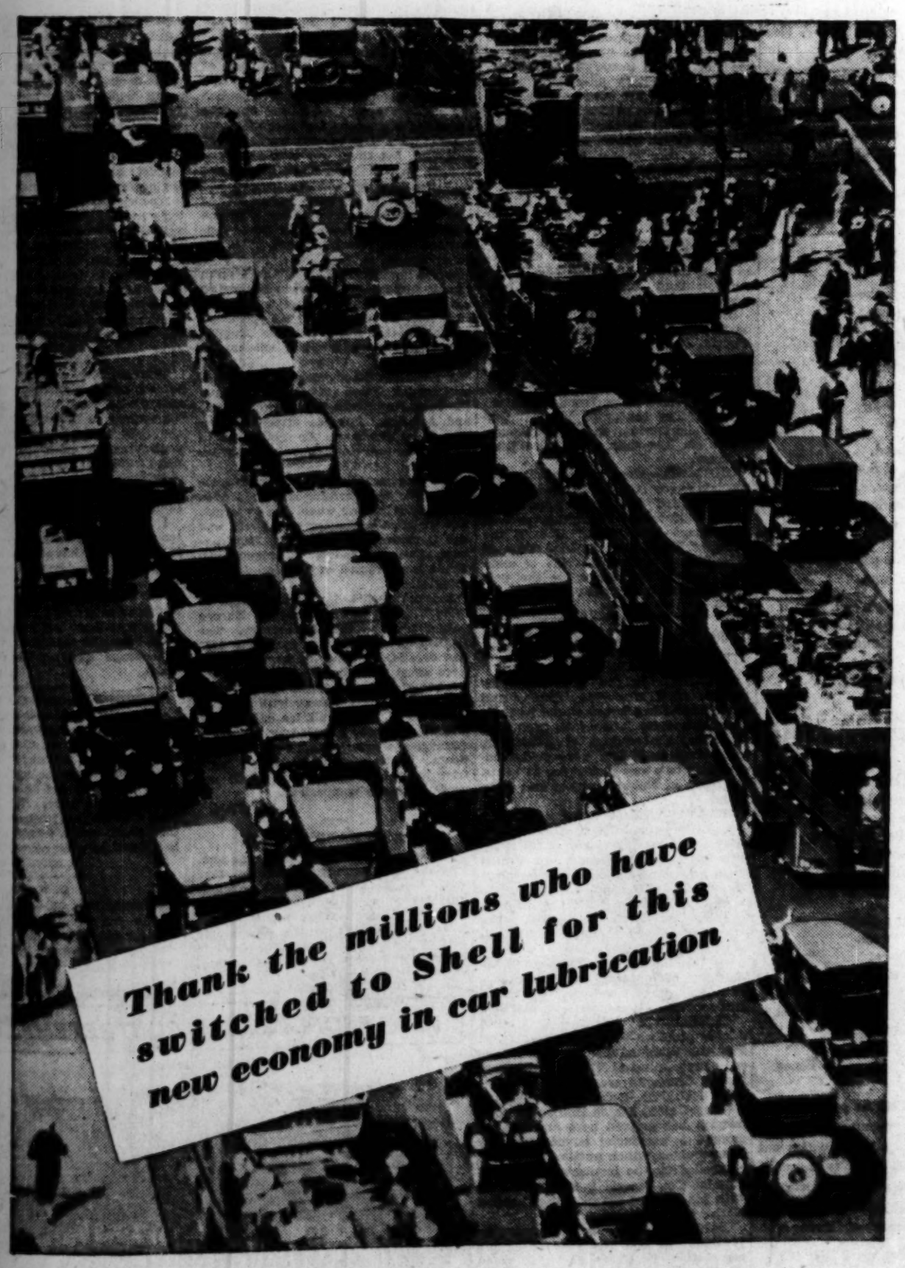
Shell's reduced motor oil price

first step in broad economy program for motorists



SHELL MOTOR OIL, the highest quality lubricant any car can use, has been reduced from 30 cents to 25 cents per quart. Increased volume and lower refining costs have made possible this price reduction.

This is the first step in a new program of vital interest to every motorist. In the next few weeks Shell will make available to you other important economies affecting the cost of operating your car.

Protection your engine ought to have

Shell Motor Oil, now offered at 25 cents per quart, is premium grade oil. It is made from those fractions of the country's choicest crudes which have the highest possible lubrication value... Refined by the most modern methods...

From it you get the same ease in starting and smooth engine performance, the same protection against motor failure and repair bills that you expect from the most costly motor oils.

Shell Motor Oil has a low "pour point" for freezing weather, and high heat resistance for torrid summers. Under the toughest jobs your engine can give it, Shell Motor Oil can't break down or lose its penetrating power. It forms only 1/3 to 1/5 as much carbon as the most expensive oils you can buy—and it forms no hard carbon at all.

Try this money-saving plan

Pay more than 25 cents a quart for motor oil if you wish, pay less if you want to take the chance. But the advice of Shell technical engineers who have tried and tested every known brand of oil is this:

"Keep your car filled with the proper grade of Shell Motor Oil. Change it at the periods specified by the car manufacturer. You'll get all the fine engine-performance your car was built to give, and get it at lowest possible cost, if you observe this simple care."

No Hard Carbon in Shell Motor Oil

This illustrates the hard, flinty carbon left after burning a sample of an expensive motor oil—otherwise a very satisfactory lubricant. The amount of carbon formed in a burning test on this oil was over 3 times that created by burning the same amount of Shell Motor Oil

WARNINGS AGAINST DELAY IN VOLSTEAD REVISION.

Col. Henry W. Anderson of Virginia, a member of the Wickersham commission, submitted in the report a plan for the substitution of control for prohibition, recommending private manufacture under federal supervision and state vending, as in the Canadian control system, in states which chose to permit the sale of intoxicating beverages. He argued his proposition at a luncheon of the Merchants' association this week in New York.

Col. Anderson said that it should be plain to citizens of intelligence that readjustments are forcing themselves upon the country and that if the people will not see the needs they will expose themselves to disastrous consequences, which are already plainly indicated. The commission's investigation brought a majority of its members to the conclusion that the facts of prohibition as disclosed demanded a change of policy.

In Col. Anderson's opinion the great mistake would be to wait until the question became even more highly emotionalized with a consequent overthrow of good judgment and larger complications of criminality, excesses of habit, violence of resistance, and intemperance of enforcement. The natural course of such an issue is toward extremes, with the probability that no reasoned solution, moderate in idea and process, will be available. As a Virginian, Col. Anderson thought the slavery question had been allowed to take this course and finally could come to no other outcome than it did. The inference is not that there will be a civil war in the United States over the Volstead act. There are other internal disturbances which can result and which a moderate people would avoid.

One effect of this unfortunate experiment in federal control over individual habits by the exercise of police power formerly reserved by the states has been a contamination of the federal authority. The zealots have given it a savagery of law enforcement which is not in its natural character. The illicit trade in intoxicants has given it corruption which was not in its older traditions. The interference with private lives has put the citizenship in a different attitude toward it. The continuance of federal prohibition means that these consequences will pile themselves upon each other, pyramiding as they come in contact.

The evils of this experiment in federal government do not show that they are working toward correctives. Their prospect is only to grow worse. The spirit of repression becomes less considerate and more severe. The spirit of defiance becomes more hardy and more resentful. Whenever such an overstrain is produced the outcome is not likely to be a desirable one. The American people are developing moods which do not promise a reasonable solution of their troubles. That is why such citizens as Col. Anderson advise that the change of policy be undertaken while there is yet a chance for considerate counsels. If nature takes its course something will break.

The Canadian provinces having been swept by the same ideas which carried the United States in an emotional period were able to make their retreat to firmer ground in time, chiefly because having the will to do so they did not find their experiment embedded in an organic law of the dominion. Each state was free under its statutes. The complete recovery for the United States, as Col. Anderson suggests, will give back to the states the right to determine for themselves whether they will have prohibition or a system of liquor control. That will put the federal government, in this respect at least, back in its old sound structure.

Time has become the essence of this controversy. The probability of satisfactory adjustment lessens as the opportunity is avoided.

LIGHT AND DARKNESS IN FLORIDA.

The sheriff of Dade county, Fla., containing Miami, has closed the gambling resorts and some other places of recreation and edification. It is a bit early for this and the sheriff refused to take the responsibility for it. If it proves to be a mistake, the blame will not be on him but on the Rev. Walt Holcomb and his revival committees. They wanted to start the services with a consciousness of community sin and consequently the annual Florida bend to the right was forced prematurely, as it may be found. "All right," said the sheriff, "if you insist on a closed county, it's up to you. I'll close it."

That would seem to leave the question of responsibility clear and the sheriff in the clear. Florida is Munichman, but the struggle between darkness and light is not chaotic. There are no upheavals, but a regular order of periodic and alternating supremacy. By consulting the calendar any one can tell which is prevalent. It may confuse the uninitiated to be told that the darkness is brighter than the light, but such is the case. It is just another American oddity. When Florida is in darkness it revels in sunburnt mirth. The Bahamas fill the cup. Between the best climate and the best fruit in the world one may pick all the healthy vitamins. Curved rotundities adorn the shore and game fish sport in the waters. Gambling, horse racing, and prize fighting increase the sum of human happiness. Nowhere else in the country, when Florida is in darkness, is the inalienable right of man to this pursuit so close upon the heel of its eternal and elusive quarry as here.

This is during the winter of everybody's discontent in other places, but as the tourists depart Florida takes off the garlands and puts on the black hat and in the dualism of its well ordered social nature light prevails again. It is easy to understand that an interference with these regular processes would be on the conscience of the sheriff of Dade county if the responsibility were his. He makes it plain that it is not.

THE WATERWAY: A NATURAL.

Work on the Illinois waterway has been resumed and there is reason to hope that the waterway itself as well as the bridges spanning it will be completed by the time the World's Fair opens in 1933. The federal and state authorities appear to be united in the determination to finish the job as quickly as possible.

This is as it should be. It is safe to say that no public work now under consideration either by the state or nation is of equal importance or will yield a larger return for the investment. Since the Panama canal was completed the government has had no project in hand of comparable significance in the economic life of the nation.

The Illinois waterway is what the sporting men call a natural. The most difficult and most expensive part of it was finished thirty years ago when water was turned into the drainage canal. That cost was met entirely by the taxpayers of Chicago and its immediate environs. Another $20,000,000 has been appropriated by the state of Illinois, but is not quite enough to finish the job. The federal government is now to invest a few million dollars with which an improvement costing upwards of $100,000,000 will be completed and put to use.

In consequence the nation will obtain a route for barges extending from the gulf to the lakes. To take advantage of that route, harbor facilities must be built at various points along the Illinois waterway, especially in the terminal area in and near Chicago. Additional barges and towboats will be required. The new transportation will result in expansion of factory and warehouse facilities all along the route. Savings in freight charges will result in lowered prices and, in turn, in increased consumption. No project which the government has undertaken in recent years promises so large an ultimate return or so large an immediate effect in stimulating business.

FORESTS FOR THE MIDLAND.

Of 254,000 acres recently approved for national forest reservations the midland will have one-fifth, and woods to cover a little more of our continental nakedness will be provided in perpetuity. Though the midland's share is not large it is larger than in years past. Forests for central United States, including not only Michigan and Wisconsin but Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio, should be given greater emphasis.

In Illinois the forest lands of the east break off gradually into the prairie. Large forest areas downstate are suitable for national reservation. With relatively less forest than in the east and far west there should be relatively more reservations to preserve and use wisely what forests the midland now has. Settlers coming from the east in the early 19th century took up first the wooded lands, cut them over, made farms of them. They were suspicious of the prairie. When Gurdon Hubbard first came from Vermont via Montreal to Chicago he left his little boat with five oarsmen at Douglas Grove, went inland a few rods, climbed a tree, and there saw, reaching far westward, the prairie. It was new and strange to him and bright with flowers. The grove of Blue Island stood above the grass. The woods along the Des Plaines river were a dark border beyond. Northward he saw Fort Dearborn.

What the pioneers and timber companies have left the nation should preserve. More forests and more national parks in the midland of America will be stimulating commercially and recreationally. In northern Lake Superior a great island of ridged and glaciated rock, of long fiords and cold waters, of forests and great game, is awaiting action towards the creation of a middle western national park. Already one-half of the island has been pledged to the government for that purpose. The midland will be the gainer greatly when this project is carried to completion.

Editorial of the Day

CURRENT EVENTS.
[Baltimore Sun.]

If current events of the world are so popular, why not current events of the neighborhood? They might read something like this:

The downfall of the Brown government was imminent today when Mr. Brown was defeated on a vote of lack of confidence as the result of having failed for three days in succession to bring home the candles. The opposition, however, later withdrew its vote in order to allow Mr. Brown one more day in which to make good.

Strained relations continue between the Smith and Jones households. Failure of the Smiths to include the Joneses in an entertainment last evening was interpreted in Jones circles as being deliberately unfriendly. A special envoy of the Smiths, however, is understood to have made satisfactory explanations, pointing out that the Smiths were not giving a party but just having a few friends in most informally.

The automobile limitation conference, including representatives of the Smiths, the Browns, and the Joneses, continues. The conference is still looking for a formula. The Smiths offer the suggestion that a new four cylinder car should be considered as the equivalent of a used six cylinder car. Other delegates have requested time to study the proposal.

The financial crisis of the Whites continues to give concern. Mr. White holds the opinion that ultimate solution lies in a system of longer hours and less money, while Mrs. White inclines to the belief that buying on a large scale at this time will at least give an appearance of prosperity which may lift the neighborhood-wide depression. Mr. White is said to be contemplating a moratorium. This probably will meet with opposition from the doctor, the butcher, and other creditor neighbors.

The insurrection in the Green household, according to last reports, has been suppressed. Little Johnny has consented to go to bed and also offered an apology to mother on condition of being granted an amnesty.

The league of neighbors, which meets shortly, has on its schedule such important questions as rice pudding control, contract bridge curfew at 11:30 p. m., coördination of party lines, and the suppression of traffic in measles. Its action is awaited with interest.

PELLAGRA ON INCREASE.

THE reports show that pellagra is on the increase. The drought and other causes are held responsible. A further increase is expected until such time as a better season brings about better crops and a wider supply of pellagra preventive foods.

The Virginia department of health bulletin on pellagra gives the following as symptoms of pellagra: A rash which is quite distinctive as to its appearance, its location on the body, and as to the season of year at which it appears; diarrhea and inflamed, reddened mouth and tongue with burning sensation and increased salivation; nervous symptoms, and sometimes insanity. And also, at times, headache, dizziness, indigestion, constipation, nervousness, loss of strength, and burning sensations.

It is generally accepted now that pellagra comes from prolonged use of an improper food. If there is a history of prolonged use of a diet that is poor in fresh meats, milk, and green vegetables and oversupplied with fat meat and molasses, and other foods that are poor in certain vitamins, a suspicion of pellagra is changed to a certainty.

Pellagra can usually be cured and it can be prevented with almost certainty. Both are done by the persistent use of a diet that is rich in vitamin B complex or, in what was once called vitamin Pp. This vitamin abounds in yeast. What state health departments and state farm and home demonstrations should do is to teach the people to grow yeast like mother used to do. It is not easy to forgive health departments for failure to do this, since they know so well that every recurrence of hard times brings waves of pellagra. If the people will not grow their own yeast and eat it the next best thing to do is to buy it, and the market is well supplied.

The next most important measure of relief is to eat the germ of grains. Probably wheat germ is the best of these, but possibly any grain germ will do. What can be done to persuade the people to grind whole grain and eat it fresh? At least those with pellagra could be persuaded to do this. Among the foods that are useful are the yellow of eggs, canned salmon, and good vegetables.

SHOULD BE CONTENTED.

Mrs. A. F. M. writes: I am 27 years old, married, with one child, 5. I am 5 feet 5½ inches tall and weigh approximately 130 pounds. I eat little or no breakfast. For lunch every day I have a glass of milk and a bran muffin, I eat a normal dinner. I walk almost two miles every day. In spite of this walk and what I consider little enough food to work on, I cannot seem to lose weight. On my vacation last fall I put on seven pounds in seven days. Just as soon as I got back to business and on the old routine I took off the seven pounds, but cannot seem to lose any more. Most of my excess fat is from the lower stomach down, and since my son was born the bones across the lower back seem to be spread.

REPLY.

Your are not very much overweight and my advice is that you let well enough alone. The distribution of your fat suggests that you may have a mild pituitary disorder, but, again, the end is not worth the means.

The way you fatten when you slip from under should make you satisfied with your success.

ARTHRITIS OF FINGERS.

Mrs. J. G. writes: 1. What causes arthritis of the fingers? One tells me it is from eating too much candy when young. Another says it is from eating too much meat. I am a glove fitter and I find the majority of these people wear tight gloves. Would that have any effect on it?

2. What is the difference between arthritis and neuritis?

REPLY.

1. Deforming arthritis of the fingers is a very frequently encountered disorder. There is no proof as to what causes it. There is no evidence that it is caused by either candy eating or meat eating. 2. Neuritis is an inflammation of a nerve. Arthritis is an inflammation of a joint.

WEAPONS—UNCONCEALED.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. May a citizen carry a loaded revolver on his person in an unconcealed position, as in a holster attached outside of his clothes? 2. Does the same answer include a rifle, shotgun or submachine gun? 3. Is a citizen required to have a permit to have a gun in his home? J. J. H.

1. In general, yes.

2. Yes, but the surrounding circumstances might be such to make his conduct amount to disorderly conduct, and therefore punishable.

3. No. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TELL THE TRUTH.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—[Friend of the People.]—A is five years in the United States and wants to become a citizen. He asks B to be his witness, but B knows him only eighteen months. What would be the result if A would get his naturalization papers? J. H.

If the facts were stated A would not get naturalization papers. The law is specific in that a petitioner for naturalization must produce two citizens, each of whom has known the applicant for a period of five years at least continuously, or so much thereof as the applicant may have resided in the same county where the petition is filed. If he did not live in the same county for five years the balance of the five year period may be proved by depositions of citizens, two from each place. Should A succeed in obtaining naturalization under the facts as stated it would be the duty of the government, if advised of the facts, to institute a suit to cancel the certificate.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Naturalization.

RECKLESS DRIVING.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What is the maximum fine in the County court for a charge of reckless driving?

2. Is the owner of an apartment building allowed to have his father do the janitor work for him in said building instead of hiring a union man? N. P.

1. It is not limited to a fine. Imprisonment is possible.

2. Yes, as far as the law is concerned. For information as to union rules apply to the office of the union.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

SPEAKING OF SWINDLE SHEETS.

The prince of Wales is reported to have won quite a nifty sum of money in the casino at Valparaiso, Chili. That's all right when you win, Edward David, but when you lose—well, when you lose you've got to do a lot of thinking not only how to get the losses down, but nicely covered up, in your expense account, or swindle sheet, as some commercial travelers so humorously call it. You see, Edward David, the Labor party is in power back in dear old England now, and those boys will probably go over your swindle sheet much more carefully than if a couple of peers and a duke gave it the once over.

We used to cover up a lot of loose spending by having a horse shot under us in action. Every time we had a big party and the guests insisted on drinking pretty heavily and then started a poker game (at which we were never very good) we always had a horse shot under us in action. But, then, we were a war correspondent and we were supposed to have a horse, and also supposed to ride it into the very forefront of battle. A mere supposition on the part of the good souls in the home office, but it lightened their hearts and didn't hurt us, so we just let them go on supposing.

You're not a war correspondent, Edward David, but a supersalesman for the British empire, so you probably couldn't get by with having a horse shot under you in action. Still, you might put in that you had to hire an airplane to get to a dance and that the airplane was shot under you in action. There's always some sort of revolution going on somewhere or other in South America, and you could get away with that very handily.

Another item, and our own idea, was to charge up repairs for the typewriter. Of course, you're supposed to carry a typewriter to write letters to Ramsay MacDonald on the outlook for British trade and how many orders you've got and how many prospects you've talked to, so you can readily account for carrying a typewriter.

All right, the thing to do is to put in a little note saying it dropped off the top of the bus and got pretty badly smashed up and it cost quite a bill to get it repaired. We dropped our typewriter off the top of a building in Hongkong once, and another time we had it slide off the deck of the ship into the Gulf of Pechili. That last was an inspiration—a wonderful idea that even Edison would have been proud of. You see, we had to hire deep sea divers to go down in their helmets and everything to get the typewriter. And you've no idea how expensive deep sea divers are.

Well, Edward David, these are just a few random suggestions out of our own experience. Swindle sheets are an awful nuisance, but if you give a little thought to them you can make the auditor in the home office get quite a thrill when he checks the various items in it. Anything that is worth doing is worth doing well. And that means the home office and expense accounts as much as it does anything else.

ROADS.

The paved road hurries across the plain,
And into the woods and out again;
Over the mountain, up and down,
Across the river and into town.
And I follow the road, with my motor car
Hitched to a hissing shooting star,
Hastening breathlessly on all day,
Over the hills and away, away.

All day I follow, with little heed
To field or forest. The God of Speed
Hurries me, whether I will or not,
Hustles me, chained to his chariot,
Over the highway, on and on—
His is the game and I the pawn—
Till the hard road ends and the game is done,
And the modern Mercury has won.

In camp, when the calmer stars ascend:
A boy, barefooted, is strolling down
A lane that leads from a little town;
He watches, far from the motor's chug,
A peripatetic tumble-bug,
Pushing its onerous, oval load
Leisurely over the dusty road.

The soft dust oozes between his toes
With warm caresses. A zephyr flows
Out of the woodland, and wafts along
Its burden of sylvan scent and song,
While, in the distance, rides Farmer Jones,
His wagon chuckling in monotones,
Well content with its two-horse power

The dirt road loiters across the plain,
And into the woods and out again,
Over the mountain, up and down,
Across the river and into town;
And I follow the road, in my idle dreams,
Where dust lies thick and the sunlight streams,
Wandering wistfully on all day,

EOLUS.

AND IF THE GOVERNMENT is going to run Muscle Shoals we hope it hurries up about it and that our congressman, Fred Britten, hustles out our package of fertilizer they're going to manufacture at Muscle Shoals, because we need it right away for our window box. The geranium didn't do well last year, probably on account of the drought, and we want a little action.

ADD RADIO pronunciation. Jooler. You may not recognize this word when you hear the announcer say it. What, whats you, is a jooler? But, wait; the announcer goes on to talk about your needing a good watch; then comes light—a jooler is a jeweler! Kewpon. The announcer loves to say Perdoo, constitooshun, and roon, but when they get a word that gives 'em a grand chance to step on the "oo" they dodge it.

THAT'S WHY HE HAD HIS CLOTHES OFF.

[From the Belview (Minn.) Independent.]

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 27, 1915.

LONDON.—All indications point to a refusal of Great Britain to accept the proposal of the United States and permit foodstuffs to reach the civilian inhabitants of Germany provided the kaiser will lift the "submarine blockade" of British ports. It is now believed that Britain intends to make all foodstuffs for Germany at once contraband, thus cutting off the movement of ships to German ports and making export trade by sea impossible. In this action Britain will be supported by its allies and the blockade will be extended to Austria and Turkey, as well as Germany.

PARIS.—Preceded by mine sweepers, the allied fleet under Vice Admiral Carden has moved past the destroyed Turkish forts at the entrance to the Dardanelles and has begun shelling land fortifications on both sides of the straits.

BERLIN.—Warsaw is now menaced by two German armies north of the Vistula. On the right bank of the river, moving eastward through Plock, the German advance guard has reached a position a few miles from Vysogrod, less than forty miles from the Polish capital. The center of Von Hindenburg's right wing, in the Przasnyaz region, is less than fifty miles from Warsaw.

CHICAGO.—Mme. Antoine Depage, special envoy to the United States commissioned by King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, arrived in Chicago last night. She is the guest of Dr. Lewis L. McArthur of 4724 Drexel boulevard. She is seeking financial assistance for the field hospital work of the Belgian Red Cross.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 27, 1901.

CHICAGO.—In the excitement attending what Mrs. Mary Conley and her husband had hoped would be their long wished for journey to friends in Australia, the savings of a lifetime, amounting to $3,670, were sold inadvertently to a rag picker for 11 cents. No trace of the rag picker has been found.

MOMBASA, East Coast of Africa.—A British expedition of 500 men, after an eighty day march of 114 miles into the Somalis' country, to punish them for killing Subcommissioner Jenner, was attacked on Feb. 19 at Sannasa, twenty-nine miles from Affmadu, and lost seventeen men killed. The Somalis were beaten off with the loss of 150 men killed.

CHICAGO.—An anti-vaccination society has been started by the students at Northwestern academy. Over fifty students have joined the organization.

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — Thirty-two miners perished in a fire in shaft No. 1 of the Diamondville Coal and Coke company's mine at Diamondville last night. One man escaped.

GUIGUINTO, Bulacan Province, P. I.—The United States Philippine commission has arrived here and has organized a provincial government for this province, which until recently was controlled by the insurgents. The insurgent Col. Morels is still operating with his band of 300 men in a portion of the province.

CHICAGO.—The superintendence department of the National Education association at University hall voted down an appropriation for adopting the phonetic system of spelling.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 27, 1881.

LONDON.—A Natal dispatch says Pretoria can hold out six months. Newcastle reports that Wakkerstrom was captured by the Boers, and subsequently retaken by the British.

BOMBAY.—The 15th Hussars have been ordered to embark for Durban.

LONDON.—In diplomatic circles here and on the continent generally the belief is strong that war between Greece and Turkey is imminent. The present British ministry, after encouraging Greece to the very verge of resistance, now advises the Hellenes to have patience and wait. Active preparations for hostilities are being made on both sides.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The new Museum building, in which the inauguration ball is to be held, was lighted this evening, and persons were admitted upon cards of invitation. There were several thousand in attendance, and all were surprised at the vast extent of the building and at the preparations made for the ball.

SPANISH INTOLERANCE.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Margaret G. Cunningham's defense of Spain in her letter in today's TRIBUNE ignores a few historical facts. It must also be remembered that tolerance and intolerance are relative terms.

England's history has plenty of dark pages, but most of the countries of continental Europe have even worse records. The worst of the English monarchs did not equal the Hapsburgs and the Bourbons in stupidity and barbarism.

Executions for heresy were almost universal, but there was a marked difference in the procedure in different countries. In England the accused had some chance of securing justice in the courts, but in some countries a person might be accused secretly and condemned by a secret tribunal. The Inquisition, it is true, was largely a political organization, but the church cannot dispose of the responsibility so lightly. The suppression of heresy was supposed to be one of the principal duties of the state, but the English magistrates were far less efficient in their methods.

Against the bloody despoiling of Ireland under Queen Elizabeth we have the record of Spain in the Netherlands and America. For the atrocities committed by Spain we do not have to depend on anti-clerical authors for information.

The treatment of Quakers and Anabaptists by the Puritans is a chapter in our history that we would like to forget. But we must remember that Spain was still burning heretics in the 17th century, if we must indulge in comparisons. There is no record of an auto-da-fé in America.

England abolished trial by torture in 1640; it lingered in continental Europe until the end of the 18th century. The English penal code up to about 1830 was drastic, on paper at least, but the more cruel methods of capital punishment had been abolished long before they had been done away with in other countries. Civil disabilities of religious dissenters were removed in England many years before they were lifted in Spain. If the pasts of these two countries must be dug up, Spain will not profit from any comparison.

C. T. FISH.

A BACKWARD NATION.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—It is quite true and, I might add, equally lamentable, that there has been bigotry and religious intolerance in other countries besides Spain in the past. However, it is necessary to go back to the Pilgrims in 1844 or to the dark ages themselves in order to find a comparison to conditions existing in Spain today. This is the year 1931 and we naturally expect a nation, if it would merit our respect, to pull away from the dark ages.

AFTER POLITICAL UPHEAVALS.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 23.—Why all this bunk about reducing wages by Melvin A. Traylor and other poor millionaires? Why don't they do something really worth while? For instance, why not find out what it costs the taxpayers every time there is a change in politics in this great and wonderful city of Chicago? For instance, on the sanitary district alone there are hundreds of engineers, oilers, firemen and operators in the electrical substations and pumping stations, good capable men who are at the mercy of the politicians. It costs the sanitary district of Chicago hundreds of thousands of dollars in cash and equipment to break in new men every time new trustees are elected. Why not some talk about civil service for the sanitary district?

R. H. SOELLER,
Chief Operator, Sanitary District of Chicago.

WAIT AND SEE.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—I wish to add my protest to the thousands that you have already received about the manner of happenings to Little Orphan Annie. For the first time I am considering discontinuing my subscription of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Is it not enough to have everybody hollering about the business depression without putting it into our funnies?

I have held my job for more than ten years and I fully realize how terrible it would be to have to look for another. What about Daddy who has always had big money? We start the day reading of old Daddy hunting for work and then if things go wrong in our office we lack the pep to buck up against them. We need things to read that will fill us full of courage and not leave us sick at heart.

MRS. STEELE.

SCHOOL STORE COMPLAINT.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The school stores in the vicinity of the Parker Junior High school were cut out of a lot of business on gym suits for girls on account of an outside party being allowed to sell right in the school in wholesale quantity at retail price. We are paying a high rent on the business street nearest the school, and a fellow with a suitcase is allowed to walk off with the business.

SCHOOL STORE DEALER.

R. F. D.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—I have just moved to the city from a farm. This farm was located eight miles from the nearest town. There we received our mail before 9 a. m. Now we get it about 11:30.

BROCCOLI USED IN U. S. DIET IN JEFFERSON'S DAY

Third President Had Book on How to Raise It.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

If cauliflower is cabbage college bred, broccoli climbs the social ladder one step higher by adding foreign travel to this family erudition. Popularized by the smart world four short years ago, the broccoli epidemic has swept the country like flu and the crossword puzzle. A city restaurant or hotel would no more be without it today than without clams or filet mignon for this Italian vegetable is fashionable!

To say, however, that broccoli is a recent example of the cultural conquests of the dark eyed race makes a pretty story but one with which our elders will not agree. It may be, they declare, that the nineteenth century reached its peak in a carnival of red meat and greasy potatoes, but the era began with a nice appreciation of salads and kales, and broccoli was among them. Old Timothy Dwight who presided over Yale a century or so ago raised this tender green vegetable in the presidential backyard, we are told, without the assistance of an Italian gardener. And while he was hoeing and planting in the New Haven garden President Jefferson was recording the dates on which this and other green vegetables appeared in and disappeared from the markets of the capital. Take a hurried glance at these records today and you will find mentioned among others sorrel, sprouts, lima beans, and broccoli.

Old Book Tells Culture.

The President may even have grown broccoli on his own Virginia estate, but at least his library included a book written before 1784 by his friend, John Randolph Jr., describing its culture. This "Treatise in Gardening," recently made available to the inquiring modern by Marjorie Fleming Warner, explains that "the proper time for sowing the seed of broccoli is in the latter end of May. Transplant it into beds when the plants have eight leaves and plant them out about the latter end of July in a place well sheltered not under the drip of trees, in a soil rather light than otherwise. The Roman broccoli is the proper sort to cultivate, otherwise called Italian broccoli.

"When you have cut the flowers or head, trim to about five or six inches of the stem, and before they are boiled strip off the skin and after having washed them boil in a clean cloth and serve them up with butter as cauliflowers are. The stems will eat like asparagus and the heads like cauliflowers."

Derived from Latin "Brocco."

So broccoli did indeed come from Italy, but long before our immigration laws were dreamed of. In fact, the name itself is derived from the Latin word "brocco," meaning a shoot, and was originally applied to the tender shoots which were thrown out by cabbage and turnips preparing to flower. From time immemorial these green shoots have been esteemed by the Italians as an important vegetable, for Pliny mentions them in his writings under the name "cyma."

To prepare it for cooking cut off the large leaves and trim the central stalk to remove the hard, woody, outside covering—much as asparagus is prepared. It is impossible to make the hard part tender in cooking, so it must be removed. Wash the vegetable, thoroughly soaking in salted water as cauliflower. Then cook in boiling salted water until tender, about 30 or 40 minutes. If cooked too long it becomes yellow and has a strong, less pleasant flavor.

Broccoli is served as cauliflower or asparagus, with brown butter and crumbs, brown butter and Parmesan cheese, or with more elaborate sauces, such as Hollandaise. It may be covered with a white sauce and grated cheese and browned in the oven "au gratin." Well chilled it may be served as salad with vinaigrette dressing. Parboiling the vegetable, dipping it in batter, and frying it in deep fat makes a delicious fritter for an entree or vegetable luncheon.

The recipe for broccoli "au gratin" follows:

BROCCOLI.
1 cup grated American cheese.
1½ cups milk.
1½ tablespoons butter.
1½ tablespoons flour.
Dash of pepper.

Boil broccoli in salted water in an uncovered kettle until just tender. Drain and place in buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with cheese. Make a white sauce of the milk, butter, flour, and seasoning and pour it over the broccoli. Bake until the cheese melts.

Did You Ever Eat Mussels? It's a Great Belgian Delicacy

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Feb. 26.—Don't you know the soul of Venice once you've eaten plenty of polenta and drunk some chianti on top of it? Don't you feel closer to the Germans in Frankfort or Berlin as you eat saurkraut and drink a large "humpen" of the best Munich beer with it?

If you ever go to Brussels tell yourself determinedly: "Let's be common!" Walk into a gable roofed "friture" house, order a dish of hot mussels, and dip your French fried "frites" with your very own fingers in the salt cellar! You'll feel nearly Belgian.

They Come from Holland.

Brussels mussels (say it three times quick!) come from Holland, where the Dutch wouldn't eat them. Belgians know better. Doctors have told them mussels are the most wholesome food on earth. Brussels eats them cooked in a watery sauce of vegetable bits and spices. Or else stewed in a cream and onion mixture with a generous shot of white wine in it.

Bareheaded and rotund women sell mussels in pseudo-oyster style from carts in busy tenement streets; crack, she opens a mussel, squeezes two drops of lemon in it, and hands you an appetizing half shell.

A glass of white wine, mussels, French fried potatoes (not chips, but thin little sticks of them)—that's the luncheon of the Belgian "man in the street."

Some new "fritures" (mussels restaurant) open almost every day. You mostly find them on the ground floor in some picturesque, narrow breasted, seventeenth century house downtown. Once in a while the friture moves to a basement, but never to an upper floor. Only Russian and Jewish restaurants are on upper floors in Brussels.

The guests, you will find, are mostly bareheaded women of the Rubens type and husky men who know a good beer when they drink it. After the meal they'll step over to the dance hall across the street. The men will keep their caps on as they dance and, when the music stops, leave their girls right in the middle of the dance floor. They'll find their way back to their tables all right.

For heavy eaters any Brussels "brasserie" will be a boon. They grill excellent steaks, and the portions are generous. A "waterzoei" of chicken—meaning a fine Brussels chicken swimming almost whole in its "bouillon," with appropriate vegetables floating aside it—is the most Belgian dish to be had there. "Choesels" (tripe) with Madeira sauce can be had only on Thursday in small restaurants near the slaughterhouse.

Ah! Belgian Beer!

Belgian beer is best to drink with Belgian dishes. Lambic, faro, and March beer are all three brewed in winter, not in summer; they are made of even parts of wheat and barley, the wheat ungerminating. Only Brussels brewers ("bierstekers") know how to prepare, mix, and filter these beers. Lambic may be drunk only after it is three years old.

There are very smart restaurants in Brussels, with as good food as money can buy anywhere in the world. Brussels imports the best chefs from France and drinks the heaviest Burgundy. One reason why Belgians still hate the Germans is that the German occupation army broke into famous old wine cellars in Brussels and requisitioned bottles of Burgundy on which many decades had put a glorious coat of dust and cobwebs.

TAKES SKILL TO SERVE OR TO EAT, DOES SPAGHETTI

But Rightly Prepared, It's Well Worth It.

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

My greatest pleasure around 6:30 any evening is to bury my fork in the center of a mound of spaghetti which is swimming in tomato sauce and twirl it deftly until a substantial mouthful has been seized. And when I have completely mastered the first helping and perhaps a second and have scraped the plate with a spoon [in the privacy of my family, of course] in order not to lose the smallest drop of the delicious sauce, I like to snooze in a big chair until I again feel equal to a more vigorous physical activity.

Now this spaghetti should be prepared by searing pork chops in a hot frying pan, one chop for each individual, with sliced onions, sliced green peppers, and a clove of garlic cut in three or four sections. Then this mixture should be simmered long and slowly in a goodly quantity of canned tomatoes until it has boiled down to a thick consistency. A little water may be added and allowed to boil down again. This long cooking gives a dark rich color to the tomatoes.

Service Requires Skill.

During the last few minutes of cooking add salt, pepper and cayenne, the quantity of cayenne depending upon your individual taste. I like the sauce quite peppery. And be sure to remove the pieces of garlic. If this is overlooked, your reputation as a cook may be somewhat endangered.

Spaghetti is more safely served from the kitchen by the inexperienced. Combine the spaghetti, which has been cooked until tender in boiling, salted water and drained, with the rather thick sauce, add a liberal quantity of grated Parmesan cheese and blend thoroughly. On each plate place one of the pork chops and a great mound of spaghetti and serve. If you are more adept the dish is attractive if served at the table. On a large platter, a very large platter, arrange the cooked spaghetti and over it pour the sauce with a generous sprinkling of grated cheese on top. The chops may be placed around the sides or on a smaller serving dish.

"Screening" the Guests.

The story was related to me of an Italian family who on a certain occasion had invited two guests to dinner, unskilled in the art of eating Italian spaghetti. For a little fun at the expense of these two guests the younger members of the family made hinged screens about twelve inches high that would surround their plates and entirely protect the gentlemen from the gaze of the family. The idea was they could duck behind the screens and take a good bite without being humiliated by their awkwardness.

But just when the guests were in the middle of the delicate operation of getting spaghetti from the plate to their mouths or with a few strands driveling down their chins, the screens were jerked away completely, disclosing them.

Artichokes Are no Longer Considered Too Expensive

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Artichokes have cousins that are hoed out of countless fields where corn is king in the United States, for the article that has been called in times of scarcity "the aristocrat of the vegetables" is classed by botanists with the thistle and even the burdock, as well as chicory, dandelion, zinnia, and the sunflower.

Production has kept more apace with consumption recently, for no longer do single artichokes sell for as much as 50 cents each, but rather, at least at present, can be purchased in stores for around 10 cents.

Select the "Green" Ones.

The frugal shopper might even be able to find small ones retailed for around 5 cents each. But the buyer is warned to select the ones that appear quite green, rather than those that are brown spined, dry, and which will be found to be tough eating.

Experiences in eating seldom compare with one office girl's introduction to the artichoke, as told by a dealer on the South Water market. He was anxious to spread the popularity of the vegetable and sent a box containing around 100 to the office of a friend. There the box was divided up among the personnel. The next morning the clerks and stenographers were telling each other what they thought about the vegetable.

Scratched Her Throat.

One stenographer said the family found them quite likable, but they did think that artichokes scratched one's throat entirely too much. It developed that they had considered the entire artichoke edible, whereas the spines are never eaten and only portions of the outer leaves are found to be soft when cooked. The inner leaves are soft almost to the tip.

Two seasons find them most plentiful in Chicago. One of these periods is now approaching, although the vegetable has been on the market quite consistently for some time. Ordinarily March, April, and May are months of heavy receipts, as well as October and November.

Half Moon bay in California is the source of nearly all those eaten in this metropolitan area. Colonies of Italian farmers cultivate them extensively. The plants grow quite rapidly on fertile soil and the perennials only take a rest and are restrained from going to seed because the farmers cut down the tops.

Ten Cents Each Is Fair Price.

Several heads approach maturity at the same time on each plant, so that during harvest the supply must be marketed quite rapidly and often. The vegetable is not related to the Jerusalem artichoke of which the edible portion is the root.

On the wholesale market the artichokes are sold in containers holding from three to three and one-half bushels. There are from 45 to 75 large heads or even 100 to 200 smaller sized artichokes in each container, now quoted at around $4 or about 4 cents each wholesale. From this it is reasoned by market reporters that a fair retail price is not more than 10 cents each.

Easy to Prepare.

Despite the fact that artichokes still need introducing to the majority of American families, cooking the vegetable is a simple matter. The stem is cut away close to the bud, removing the large outside or bottom leaves. The heads are then placed in cold water, sometimes salted, for 20 minutes or half an hour.

Then they are drained and cooked in water for from 30 to 60 minutes, adding salt and possibly a tablespoon of lemon juice or vinegar for each quart of water. They are served when tender with a sauce of melted butter, pepper, and salt or with a salad dressing.

Retail Price on Apples Here 5 to 7 Cents Pound

Five, six and seven cents a pound is the prevailing price for nearly all the staple varieties of apples now in retail stores. The price at this time of the year is lower than last year and wholesalers report that prices are lower than for several years.

Lower prices were anticipated because of a rather large western crop and the fact that importers in England were expected to be more strict on inspections the latter part of 1930 and the early part of this year.

TWO-TO-ONE LEAVENER TWO-TO-ONE LEAVENER

must rise twice

. . . and perfection in leavening is assured when two-thirds of the rising is completed in the mixing and the remaining third takes place in the oven.

THE leavening of Rumford always takes place in this proportion. That's why it is called "two-to-one" leavening.

Two-to-one leavening makes dough that is light when it is placed in the oven. In the oven's heat just the right amount of additional leavening occurs to make cakes and hot breads of perfect lightness and texture.

Remember! You can get two-to-one leavening only with an all-phosphate powder such as Rumford. So be sure to order Rumford from your grocer today.

QUICK COOKING IS A SECRET OF CHINESE DISHES

This Tells About Oriental Culinary Methods.

BY META GIVEN.

What is there about the food of the Chinese that makes it so appealing? I believe it is the unusual combinations, the meticulous care given in preparation, the appetizing appearance and that different flavor.

The Chinese eat neither bread nor potatoes and it is only very recently that they have used any milk. The amount they now use is almost negligible. Yet their general state of nutrition is far better than one would suppose. This is because they consume large amounts of vegetables. They eat far more than we do.

Perhaps this is due to their superior methods of vegetable cookery. They cook all vegetables very rapidly. No cook spends less time in the actual cooking of foods than the Chinese, but there is none who puts more time in on the preparation before cooking. The Chinese cut all their vegetables and meats in uniform sized pieces, making them thin to hasten cooking. Not more than 30 minutes is required for cooking chicken well done, no matter what method is used. The Chinese can cook pork in five minutes, because they slice it so thinly.

Boast of Digestibility.

Chinese cooks boast that their foods never give one indigestion. They hold that the proportion of vegetables and meats which they use and the short time of cooking is responsible for the easy digestibility.

Instead of bread and potatoes the Chinese eat rice. Our typical American method of cooking rice does not measure up to their standard. They want rice dry, with each grain separate. They use polished rice always. The rice is washed repeately until the rinsing water is clear. Then it is put into the cooking pan and cold water is added. The cook spreads one hand flat over the surface of the rice, then water is added to barely cover up the fingers.

An Old Chinese Custom.

This is an age old custom of measuring the water, Mrs. James Loo, a young Chinese housewife, tells us. And she says no salt is ever added to Chinese rice. The pan is covered with a tight fitting lid, then it is placed over a brisk fire to heat rapidly to the boiling point. When the steam almost lifts the lid off, the flame is lowered. From then on the rice simmers. As soon as the rice has absorbed all of the water it is done. Rice should not be uncovered from the time it is first put on the flame until it is ready to serve. Not more than 15 minutes is required for cooking. Rice cooked in this way is never burned by a skillful cook, but there is always a layer that adheres to the bottom of the pan, which is not served.

Other typical foods of the Chinese are dasheens, water chestnuts, lily roots, bamboo shoots, bean sprouts, eggs and soy bean products of several kinds. Soy sauce, which is made from the soy bean, is an indispensable flavoring or seasoning with the Chinese. They also obtain from soy beans a curd that looks very much like our cottage cheese.

Most Common Vegetable.

Their most common green vegetable is the green and white bitter green. The white bitter green is the celery cabbage, or petsai that we find in our American markets. Green bitter green is found only in Chinese markets. Watercress is a favorite vegetable. Tangerines and kumquats are popular fruits. One of their favorite desserts is almond cookies.

The water chestnut is as important to the Chinese as the potato is to Americans. It is eaten either raw or cooked. From it is made a flour which is used to make desserts.

Pull apart one-half cup of cooked lobster meat until it is finely shredded; one-fourth cup bamboo shoots, one-half cup each of celery and water chestnuts and a little shredded onion. After all is cut fine put in bowl and break over it a half dozen eggs. Mix all together and fry in small cakes that are flat like pancakes. Serve on an oval platter and pour over it the following sauce:

One teaspoonful each of Chinese seasoning sauce and Chinese flavoring sauce, one-half teaspoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of cornstarch and a little water. Mix in pan in which cakes were fried and pour over cakes in platter. Serve with rice and tea.

Mo Goo Gai Pan.

¾ cup canned or
¾ lb. fresh mushrooms.
2¼ cups sliced celery.
½ lb. bean sprouts.
½ lb. water chestnuts.
¼ lb. bamboo shoots.
3 lbs. young roasting chickens.
4 tbsps. lard or peanut oil.
1 tbsp. salt.

Prepare all the vegetables first by slicing thinly and in uniform pieces. Slice celery and bamboo shoots in oblong pieces about an inch by a half inch. Peel and slice water chestnuts. Remove skin and bones from chicken. Cut chicken in pieces the size of the celery. Put fat and salt in large frying pan and heat. Add chicken and cook rapidly two or three minutes. Then add vegetables and cook about three minutes, stirring constantly. Add three cups meat stock or water or three bouillon cubes dissolved in three cups of water. Stir vigorously and then cover with a lid. Cook at a moderate rate. Don't let cook too dry. Take two tablespoons of cornstarch and two tablespoons of Chinese soy bean sauce and one-half teaspoon of sugar and mix to a smooth paste. Put into chop suey and stir until smooth, but not too thick. Serve at once. Yield: Five servings. The whole cooking takes 15 minutes.

Water Cress Soup.

2 quarts beef bouillon.

Put clean water cress in bouillon and cook about six or eight minutes in covered kettle. Add salt to taste. Take about one teaspoon of soy bean sauce and add to one-half pound of pork that has been sliced in thin oblong pieces about one inch by one-half inch by one-eighth inch in a bowl. Stir thoroughly. Put into soup and let cook about two or three minutes. If you like meat more done cook about five minutes. Serve at once. Yield: Six servings.

Almond Cookies.

4 cups flour. 1 raw egg.
1 tsp. baking powder. 2 cups fat [lard].
1½ cups sugar. 4 tbsps. almond paste.

Sift flour and baking powder and sugar. Beat egg. Rub fat into flour like pie crust. Then add paste and raw egg. This should make stiff dough to stand up. Roll into a cylinder and cut off pieces about one and a fourth inches high. Put a soaked almond nut on top and bake in a slow oven [325 degrees Fahrenheit] to a delicate brown.

Staples in Chinese Cookery

PINEAPPLES ARE ON MARKET; RELISHED AS FRESH FRUIT

Pineapples, the kind that are relished because of their edibility, are again on the Chicago market for those who like their fruits fresh. The price seems to be around 40 cents each, but the size and quality even so early in the pineapple season are creating an active demand.

Cuba and the Isle of Pines in the West Indies are principal sources of this fresh fruit in the United States.

The latter part of April and the month of May will see a period when pineapples will be much more plentiful as the season advances. The fruit is cut from the plant crowns when it is nearly ripe and shipped in cold storage to consuming centers, such as Chicago.

PRICES OF MEAT ARE DOWN TO THE PRE-WAR LEVEL

Bargain Counter Rates Await the Housewife.

BY PAUL POTTER.

There has been a marked decline in meat prices, both wholesale and retail, in recent months, until housewives throughout the country are now able to buy the one largest item in their food budget at the lowest prices in over a decade.

That is the way Charles D. Carey, big cattleman from Cheyenne, Wyo., and chairman of the national live stock and meat board, described it when he visited Chicago this week on his way to Boston.

Cattle Prices at Bottom.

"Take beef, for example. Not only are cattle prices down to the lowest levels since 1924 but the beef supply is ample to meet all of the consumers' requirements. Prices of pork and lamb have also made sharp declines, reflected all along the line from producer to consumer."

Mr. Carey quoted figures compiled by the federal bureau of labor statistics to bear out his contention that prices on meats were 14 per cent lower this winter than a year ago.

He pointed also to a special survey by the federal department of agriculture covering about 1,000 retail meat shops in New York City showing that the average composite price of all retail cuts of good grade steer beef had dropped over 8 cents a pound, or 20 per cent, from the first six weeks in 1929 to the same period this year.

How Cuts Are Spread Over.

In order to show exactly what these prices mean to the cattleman and the housewife in actual dollars and cents Mr. Carey took as an example a 1,000 pound good grade beef steer.

"This live animal sold for $30 less during the first six weeks this year than it would have two years ago," he said. "When dressed to the actual carcass, which would weigh 580 pounds (hide, hoofs, entrails, etc., removed) it brought $30.74 less than two years ago.

"The trimmed, salable retail cuts, totaling 464 pounds, were bought by the city consumer for $38.51 less than an equal amount of meat of the same quality would have cost two years ago."

Says Housewives Benefit.

According to J. S. Campbell, federal marketing specialist at Chicago's stockyards and packingtown, wholesale beef prices are down 27 to 36 per cent from a year ago. Fresh pork chops, loins, and shoulders show declines of 28 to 34 per cent. Lamb and mutton, which had suffered drastic wholesale reduction early last year, is now showing additional losses of from 8 to 22 per cent.

That these prices have been reflected "on down the line" to Chicago housewives was the assertion of C. W. Kaiser, secretary of the Chicago Retail Meat Dealers' association.

"Retail meat prices in Chicago are the lowest since before the war," said Mr. Kaiser. "They've about reached bottom, and, while the total pounds of meat sold here is about normal, the net profits and total receipts have both dropped sharply, indicating the savings to consumers."

Many butcher shops are being forced out of business under the competitive bargain priced market now existing, he added. A very small percentage of new meat markets are added to the 5,500 now existing here.

Asked about the attitude of Chicago's butchers toward the newly introduced packaged and frozen meats, Mr. Kaiser pronounced them as "not taking with the public here" and gave as his basis for such a conclusion the competition of fresh meats and differences in prices.

PEPPER POT IS PHILADELPHIA'S GIFT IN SOUPS

Recipe Given for Famous Colonial Pottage.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

What hostess has not been confronted with the problem of selecting from the thousand and one recipes for soups the proper one to round out her dinner menu? Many things should be considered in selecting this valuable course for her dinner, for, after all, a soup can make or break a dinner.

If she is desirous of creating a soup which will act as an appetizer—the Philadelphia pepper pot should start the dinner. There is probably nothing better than a dish of this highly flavored preparation, steaming hot, to whet a guest's appetite.

Beware of Food Is Scant.

However, if unexpected guests arrive for dinner and she is trying to eke out enough portions from the food supplies on hand to satisfy the hunger of each, she should take care to steer clear of the pepper pot soup. After a tureen of this pottage the guests are likely to eat the hostess out of house and home, not to mention their lack of satisfaction with the scant servings.

When serving pepper pot hostesses should always make sure that a pitcher filled with cold water is near by to quench the thirst of her guests after they have partaken of the peppery soup.

The pepper pot soup first won its fame in Philadelphia during the colonial period. History associates it with the early days of Philadelphia when quaint and picturesque cooks pushed their carts, loaded with pots of hot soup, through the main thoroughfares of the town and called their wares. The pepper pot, which was sold to the housewives over their fences, graced the board of many of the social leaders in those days.

Contains Many Ingredients.

Whole black pepper gave it its name, but other ingredients, such as honeycomb tripe, and the diced potatoes, celery, and carrots, besides various other spices, help to add a great deal to its unique flavor.

It has been said that pepper pot, like Irish stew, can be made of everything and nothing. There are few soups which contain such a conglomeration of ingredients, whose flavors blend so thoroughly as those in the Philadelphia pottage. Unlike the constituents in many other soups those contained in this one maintain their own individuality in shape throughout the entire process of cooking.

Varied recipes for the preparation of the pepper pot are found in many of the old fashioned cook books. If you do not already possess a formula, here is one to tuck away for future reference.

Philadelphia Pepper Pot.

¾ pound fresh honeycomb tripe, 6 tablespoons butter, ¼ cup chopped onion, 3 tablespoons flour, 7 cups white stock, 6 peppercorns, 2 bay leaves, 3 cloves, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, ½ teaspoon of a commercial peppery sauce, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ cup diced celery, 2 cups diced potatoes, 1 cup diced carrots.

Cut tripe in small pieces. Heat fat in frying pan, add onion and cook until golden brown. Add flour and blend thoroughly. Add tripe, stock, and the peppercorns, bay leaves, and cloves tied in cheese cloths. Cook one-half hour. Add remaining ingredients and simmer for an hour. Remove bag of seasonings before serving. Yield: 10 servings.

The white stock called for in the above recipe is the broth drained from white meat, such as chicken or veal, after cooking. This white stock broth may be saved for some time if it is kept in a cool place.

APPETITES OF US AMERICANS ARE PECULIAR THINGS

Chef for 30 Years Tells Problem.

BY FRANK CIPRIANI.

With dexterity born of experience and accomplishment, Joe flipped over an egg from sunnyside up with one hand, and inserted a redhot into the yawning mouth of a cloven roll with the other. Doing two things with his hands and talking, all at the same time, is no trick for a skillful chef. Which was Joe. He resumed his philosophic exposition.

"As I was remarking," he said. "The American appetite is odd. I should know. I've fed every sort of hunger, and every kind of taste for well on to 30 years."

Feeds Thousands of People.

Business—the wail of a waitress up front for a hot chicken sandwich—interrupted his homily at this point. Two or three deft motions, and the order was shoved on the tiny front window counter of Joe's kitchen coop. Joe leaned against a greasy wall.

"It might be naturally expected that you can feed a lot of people in 30 years," commented the chef airily. "Thousands and thousands, in fact hundreds of thousands, I'd say. Maybe it would run into millions. Who knows?

"Yes, sir, I've cooked for Yankees, for Georgia crackers, for California braggarts. I've cooked for every kind of American, even the New York kind, which is a little different. I've cooked for heathens and for the clergy. I've cooked for politicians and for the comeon people as they have nicknamed the common people. I've fed judges and crooks. I'm not bragging, but just trying to qualify myself as experts have to do in court, so you'll believe me when I say the American appetite's peculiar.

Pauses to Fill Orders.

Joe ladled out a bowl of soup, and filled several mongrel orders in response to the wailing waitress up front. Again he leaned against the greasy wall, and went on.

"There's no accounting for tastes, of course, as any chef will admit," enunciated Joe. "I like certain foods myself and am partial to them. Maybe my taste is peculiar, too.

"Well, I've worked behind lunch counters of drug stores. It's funny. Some big, husky looking fellow will sit down and nibble at a dainty sandwich just like the girls. I often wondered how it was enough to let him finish the day. I've worked around the docks, and fed stevedores enough grub for whole regiments, and often was puzzled how they got away with it all.

Big Appetites in Swell Places.

"I've worked in high class joints and seen skinny little girls put away half chickens and six or seven other courses. It's odd, but it's always in the swell places that the sandwich pecking girl stows away the big chow. And how those babies eat can't be funny to the guy that foots the bill."

Joe paused a moment, breathless, apparently, from his oratorical effort. It was plain he was mentally gathering fresh fuel for his fire about tastes, appetites, and foods.

"With all my experience," burst out Joe suddenly, "I haven't been able to discover just what is the favorite food of the American appetite. Of course, down south they like their hog jowl and greens. In the east they like their scrapple. Every section, in fact, has its traditional food, but what I'm getting at, there isn't a food that's as popular in one part of the land as another.

Can't Discover Answer.

"Take your Germans. They've got sauerkraut and hasenpfeffer. Or your English, with muffins, tea, beef broth, and mutton pie. There's spaghetti and ravioli for the Italians, and the Irish go for corn beef and cabbage.

"What have we got that's distinctive, that the varied and peculiar American eppetite will agree on? In thirty years I haven't been able to discover the answer. What, my friend, is the answer?"

At this moment the wailing voice from the waitress up front floated into Joe's kitchen coop carrying three distinctive words—"Hot dog sandwich!"

RHUBARB WINS PLACE IN MANY STORE WINDOWS

Rhubarb has gained a reserved seat in retail store windows and can be displayed along with the elite of other high priced fruits and vegetables at this time of the year. But the real rhubarb season opens next week and continues through April, when the price may be lowered sufficiently to enable shoppers to remember that the commodity was once called pieplant.

At present it is being sold for about 25 cents a pound. It is one of the harbingers of spring, for it comes from such sections as the hothouse district around Detroit and from Oregon, Washington, and California.

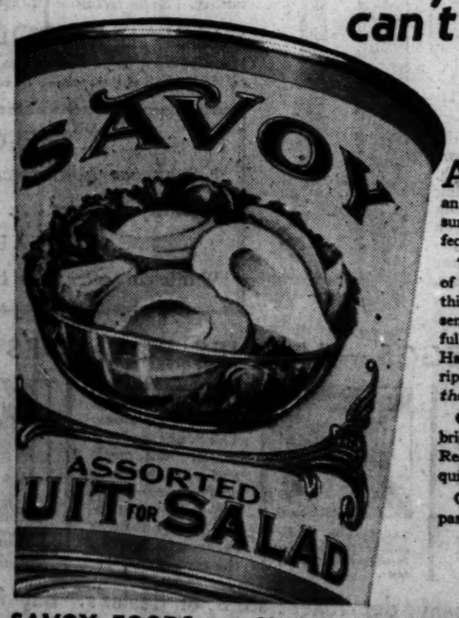
SAVOY FRUIT SALAD

The BLENDED FLAVOR of these luscious fruits can't be described! (or resisted)



A delightful surprise awaits you when you serve SAVOY FRUIT SALAD. For paper and ink and an artist's talent can't begin to picture the fresh, sun-given flavor of these wonderful fruits, perfectly blended in their own sweet juices.

There are peaches that bring back memories of lazy summer days with the hot sun bringing this fruit to its full, true flavor. Fine orchards send you their sweetest pears, and piquant, zestful apricots. There is a bit of sun-drenched Hawaii in the luscious pineapple. There are big, ripe cherries so tempting that you want to eat them first.

Colorful and different, SAVOY FRUIT SALAD brightens every meal it graces. No fuss, no bother. Ready for a first course. Or a tempting salad. Or quickly prepared into a fancy dessert.

DAYS OF REAL SPORT

A Wienie roast in a vacant lot, their open air clubroom, is heaps of fun, these youngsters will tell you. They harpoon a frankfurter, hold it over the fire, and then have a delicious filling for a bun sandwich.

HOT DOG AND BUN JUST MUST HAVE PROPER SETTING

And This Outfit Seems to Have It.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

When it comes to this eating business our gang has a few ideas of its own on the subject. Our gang has a few ideas of its own on a great many subjects, in fact, but it knit its young brows in deep concentration yesterday when it met after school and discussed what it liked best in all the world to eat.

Opinions among the membership are likely to wax quite ardent, as all their neighbors will tell you. But if they have strong sentiments on a subject, what do you expect? They usually start out politely and decorously, as you know how it is. Anyway, the whole neighborhood would grow mighty quiet and dull if somebody didn't stir up a little excitement now and then. It's sort of up to the gang to inject the enlivening element.

What appeared to be a directors' meeting, together with a weenie roast, was in progress on the vacant lot, where open air clubrooms are maintained, when the inquiring reporter happened along. Bland satisfaction beamed on the circle of faces that bent above a crackling bonfire—though, if you look right bright, the eyes of matronly neighbors peering at short intervals from between lace curtains at nearby windows, held the somewhat grim watchfulness associated with forest fires and infants.

They're Hospitable.

But there was an enticing fragrance in the air. The group looked promising, so we requested leave to join.

"Sure," was the gracious response. "Come on."

So "come on" we did with alacrity. Terry went one grimy little fist into a brown paper bag and emerged with a home made poppy seed roll of generous size. A sizzling frankfurter impaled on the whittled end of a stick was proffered with a grin none the less infectious because of the absence of an incisor or two. You may prefer a finely upholstered chair, fine linen, glassware and silver, but give me the comradely tendered end of Mr. O'Leary's soap box, and we'll manage nicely with our fingers.

Finishing weenies sandwiched in home made rolls at the side of a bonfire on a vacant lot, we find, brings about a most democratic frame of mind. The atmosphere becomes permeated with chummyness. It's a time particularly suited to mild philosophizing and a general exchange of ideas about favorite types of dogs, marbles, baseball gloves, movie stars and things to eat.

Choosing Best Feast in World.

"Now if you could be choosing the greatest feast in the world," we asked Miss O'Leary, "what would it be?"

"Well," decided Peggy after due deliberation, "I guess I like best in all the world Mrs. Rossetti's spaghetti and strawberry pop."

"Would yuh like to know what Windshield likes best?" inquired red headed Cousin Terry of the winter-defying freckles. Terry's expression is a trifle too guileless upon occasion.

"What a foolishness! Yas, you must be telling," came the mildly pained protest of young Benjamin Windshield—Windshield by reason of his horn-rimmed spectacles.

Takes in Too Much Territory.

"Anyway," Terry continued his interrupted revelation, "it's ham n' eggs. Not as much at our house for supper one night he got th' stomach ache, and when his momma asked my ma what it was he was eatin', jimma-nee! my pop said the Sinn Feiners and the Black and Tans didn't have nothin' on my ma and Missus Rosenstein, by golly, he said. You see, Windshield ate with of just the eggs. But gosh, he's like his mon's gefelteFish. I mean da."

"Well, you should have some of my mom's strudel or my grandma's apfel kuchen," chimed in Chunky Schmidt, "if you want to know what swell eats is."

Little Carlotta Rossetti—half cherub, half imp; the lovely face of a Botticelli madonna behind its wide spread smudges, and a tongue that would cause Sergt. Quirt to look to his laurels—was dreaming her own dreams.

"What is your opinion, Carlotta?"

"Holy Mother!" breathed our gang's diminutive Duse, hands clasped, dark eyes shining. "Mos' beootiful in all the whole world I think would be in Mr. Udmann's drug store, five pink dishes of ice cream with red cherries on top."

Holy Mother! Next Monday is pay day, Carlotta. With a reckless disregard for the morrow, we are going to Mr. Udmann's corner drug store and consume five cherry sundaes apiece out of Mr. Ulmann's pink dishes.

Stew Beloved in All Countries, Is Hailed as Real Economy Feast

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Economy may be an old fashioned virtue, but in such times as these it can be taken down from the shelf, dusted off, and used to good advantage, especially in the kitchen. At first it will be handled gingerly by the best cooks and gourmets, for good feeding is linked proverbially with the groaning board.

Then it will be found to offer a few advantages all its own. For instance, the two course instead of the three or four course dinner, a particularly pleasurable repast for the tired mater familias at the end of the day, or for the young novice at housekeeping. Also simple dishes, which will remind the over-sophisticated palate of the deliciousness of common food.

Stew Builds Presidents.

Among the latter stew will stand out as a veritable treasure trove for the adventurer in economy. Beef and lamb stew, both grand old American standbys, probably have been included in the diet of every President of the United States while his mother was bringing him up to be President and after he took office.

Good sustenance for future Presidents stew is, too, mingling as it does the cheapest yet most nutritious cuts of meat—brisket, neck, chuck, or rump—with a succulent melange of vegetables. Soup before and salad after stew are superfluous and only dessert and coffee, tea, or milk are needed to make your perfect two course dinner, from the standpoint of dietitian as well as economist.

Here's How to Make It.

Since beef happens to be cheaper than lamb at this season, a recipe for beef stew is presented herewith.

BEEF STEW.

Aitchbone from rump weighing 5 pounds
4 cups potatoes, cut in ¼ inch slices
2-3 cup turnip, cut in ½ inch pieces
2-3 cup carrot, cut in ½ inch pieces
½ small onion sliced thin
¼ cup flour
Salt and pepper

Wipe meat, remove from bone, cut in 1½ inch cubes, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and dredge with flour. Cut some of the fat in small pieces and try out in frying pan. Add meat and stir constantly, that the surface may be quickly seared; when well browned, put in kettle and rinse frying pan with boiling water, add bones sawed in pieces, cover with boiling water, and boil five minutes. Reduce heat and cook until meat is tender, about three hours. Add carrot, turnip, and onion, with salt and pepper last hour of cooking. Half an hour before stew is done, add potatoes. Remove bones, large pieces of fat, and then skim. Thicken with flour mixed with ¼ cup cold water, and cook five minutes. Pour into deep hot platter.

All Nations Relish.

Now it may so happen that stew of the good American sort may be an old story to you. If so, you have only to tear a page from the leaves of foreign cooks. In the lexicon of almost every nation, economy in the kitchen is synonymous with stew and almost every nation has devised its own variety.

Irish stew, Hungarian goulash, these are the foreign members of the family which you've probably encountered more than once before. To fully appreciate the value of both dishes it should not be overlooked that they are the inventions of fiery peoples who dance the jig and the czardas all night long for recreation.

Tender lamb, bred in the moist meadows of the Emerald Isle, is the traditional component of Irish stew, although American lambs a month or two hence will be found to serve quite as well. The aristocrat of the stew clan, as it has been called, stimulates the jig dancers solely by the juicy savor of the meat and vegetables, disdaining any seasoning but salt to bring out the flavor.

Not so Hungarian goulash. The potent combination of veal, beef, and pork, combined even with the wild strains of gypsy music, is not trusted to carry the revelers through a night of double-time Charlestoning, and ample doses of papricka and pepper are added to enliven the proceedings.

IRISH STEW.

3 pounds of chunks, meat and bone from neck of lamb
8 large potatoes
3 onions
4 turnips
6 carrots
1 tablespoonful flour
1 teaspoonful of mushroom essence (optional)
Salt and pepper

Peel and quarter potatoes, scrape, trim and cube turnips and carrots, skin and slice onions. Put potatoes in stew pan, then chunks of lamb on top, sprinkle one teaspoonful salt and pepper, then lay onions, the turnips and carrots, then more salt. Add three cups cold water. Close lid, bring pot to boil, simmer imperceptibly for two and a half hours. Blend flour with water to make thin cream, add five minutes before simmering is complete. Add mushroom essence if convenient.

HUNGARIAN GOULASH.

½ pound beef
½ pound pork
2 pig kidneys
4 tablespoonfuls of butter
1 green pepper
2 onions
6 spriga parsley
2 fresh or 1 cup of stewed tomatoes
4 raw potatoes
Salt and paprica

Mince onions and brown them in butter, or drippings. While onion is gilding, cut pig kidneys and pork, beef, and veal in one inch cubes, place to brown with onion. Take stem and seeds from pepper, chop to bits, mince parsley and quarter two fresh tomatoes, adding all to meat. Pour in hot water until meat is barely covered, put cover on pot, and simmer slowly for 50 minutes. Peel and dice potatoes, add layer of potatoes, cover if needed with more water, add a tablespoonful of salt and one-quarter teaspoonful of paprika; let simmer for 25 more minutes.

Beef Continues Best Buy for the Thrifty Housewife

In its regular weekly report, issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the Chicago meat council states: "Beef continues to represent the best buy for the Chicago housewife over the coming week-end. Round steak is available at attractive prices. Practically all beef cuts have declined and are selling at figures which should make them of great interest to the housewife who is looking for bargains."

EVEN THE DOCTOR LIKES APPLES IN TASTY DUMPLING

And Kite Paste Adds to the Goodness.

BY VIRGINIA SCHMITZ.

With apple stands scattered all over the loop to take their places along with X's marking the spot, housewives are becoming accustomed to being greeted with apples bulging from the innumerable pockets of the good providers.

One may tire of eating an apple on the hoof, simple and unadorned, but there's a place in the sun for the apple, or, rather, a place in apple dumplings, apple strudel, or apfel kuchen. Take your choice.

For me it's apple dumpling, warm brown dumplings oozing with apples, surrounded with sticky sugar-water candy and topped with what our family persists in calling kite paste, though the name doesn't seem to lessen the appetizing effect.

A Top for Dumplings.

The apple dumplings themselves are enough for any one—that is, if they're large enough to fill a good sized dessert plate. But with the addition of kite paste, let the morrow be forgotten and dig in.

Was there ever a boy, or even a girl, who didn't make kites out of tissue paper and thin sticks to send away up in the sky maybe to the moon, and didn't use that old time standard of flour and water to paste the parts together?

Some fancied resemblance to that childhood mixture is seen in the sugar and butter, flour and hot water with a bit of vanilla that makes up the perfect sauce of apple dumplings or "mit äpfeln gefüllte klösse," as the Germanic name goes.

But perhaps you prefer your dessert a bit fancier, a bit lighter than the thick semi-pie crust dough of the apple dumpling. Then strudel will be your choice. The lightest and flakiest of crusts are used for this. Don't be misled when some one tries to pass off a thin pie crust spread with chopped dried apples and sugar as strudel.

A Whirl of Pleasure.

Strudel, any German-American dictionary will tell you, is an eddy, a whirlpool, a vortex, a rapid, a gulf, an abyss, a fritter, a rolled pancake, a whirl of pleasure, but never a plain, though a strudel kopf is a hotheaded fool.

So strudel to be authentic must be a roll. The finest of pie crust spread the thinnest possible by the best of cooks, spread with chopped apples, well sweetened and spiced, and then rolled and baked, makes an apfel strudel—and a whirl of pleasure.

Cut them off and serve them with a hot sauce or with cream and you have a delicacy.

But don't forget apfel kuchen, or Dutch apple cake, or whatever name you know it by. This is lighter and more nearly resembles cake dough than pie. Sometimes a yeast dough with egg and butter and sugar added is used; sometimes a baking powder biscuit dough with similar additions.

How to Make It.

But in any case a thin layer of dough is spread over the pan and the apples, sliced in elegant symmetry, are slid onto it in even rows. Sugar and spice and everything nice is added and the apfel kuchen goes to the oven.

When it comes out—why some like it hot and some like it cold—but it's best of all warm—with still some of the original heat retained and rich cream or whipped cream poured over it.

An old recipe of my grandmother's was called eier apfel kuchen. Eggs and milk were beaten up and poured over the top of the apples, where with baking they formed a custard.

These German arrangements for apples, which we think of generally as an American fruit, come from the Rhine and the Moselle valley, where apples, prunes, plums, pears, and many other fruits are raised to make our best brandies and fruit juices. But the apples are responsible for these various concoctions.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To make a nice job of sewing straight lace on a circular edge, I roll the lace like a cigar, snugly, and wet one half thoroughly. Then wind a cord around the wet half as close as possible. When it is dry and unrolled the shrunken edge will sew on smoothly, and leave a nice flat job, with no gathers.

The customary way to set colors in wash fabrics is to soak the material in a solution of salt water. Instead of salt, however, more permanent results may be secured by the following formula:

To set blue—½ cup vinegar to a gallon of water. For pink or red—1 tbsp. to ½ cup vinegar in a gallon of water. For green—either ½ to 1 ounce of alum, or ½ to 1 ounce of sugar of lead. For lavendar—1 tbsp. of sugar of lead to each gallon of water.

To clean carrots which are to be grated, instead of cutting off the entire top, leave a few inches of the stem. The whole carrot can then be grated without risking your fingers while the last bit is being grated.

Soap and Hard Water Alone Will Not Give Best Dish Washing Results

Local housewives claim amazing results when new water-softening cleanser is added in washing anything. Takes ¼ the soap—saves ½ the time.

A NEW discovery is cutting dish washing time in half—eliminating greasy film on dishes and the scum in the dishpan—the penalties you local women have been forced to pay for the hardness of city water.

It is not a soap but a water-softening cleanser that makes any soap more effective in cleansing results by changing "hard" water to "soft". And you need use only one-fourth the soap formerly needed.

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene that you add to your washing water. Just a teaspoon or two.

Instantly, it takes all the harshness out of that water. Makes it soft as rain water.

At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all dirt, stains and grime. And thus cuts washing time ONE-HALF or more.

Use the soap or soap flakes you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results. During 1930 women used over 33,000,000 packages of Climalene for washing, for cleaning and in the dishpan.

Laboratory Proved

To assure results to you, we buy fine things, lingerie and delicate fabrics, costly china. Then by repeated washings, try to spoil or fade them.

Consider, please, what those things mean to you. Consider, too, that the minute you put this creation into water, all harshness is taken away—your hands protected from roughness, made soft, smooth and white. Then try it.

Remember the name—Climalene. Your grocer has it in 10c and 25c packages. 173-RA

RANCID OIL in STALE COFFEE

Science blames it for Indigestion, Headaches, Sleeplessness

Use Chase & Sanborn's . . . It's guaranteed FRESH . . . Rushed straight from Roaster to Grocer, every can plainly dated . . .

AVOID the dangers of rancid oil found only in stale coffee! Use Chase & Sanborn's . . . then you'll know you're safe!

This coffee is rushed to your grocer straight from the roasters . . . every can plainly marked with an expiration date.

That date is your protection. Regularly a Chase & Sanborn representative visits your grocer to check on the dates and remove any can whose date has expired. He seldom finds any older than its expiration date because our deliveries are so frequent and your grocer's needs so carefully analyzed. But at any rate there's no danger of your getting a stale can. Chase & Sanborn's is always fresh when you get it!

KEEP FIT . . . ENJOY LIFE! Drink fresh coffee, the mild, wholesome stimulant provided by nature! Science now says that rancid oil found only in stale coffee is directly responsible for indigestion, headaches, sleeplessness, the very troubles you have always blamed on coffee itself. In fresh coffee there is no trace of this dangerous, rancid oil!

THE PHOTOGRAPH at the left was taken in a grocery store where the photographer purchased high-priced coffee over seven months old. His affidavit is on file. High price won't protect you from staleness!

Guaranteed FRESH

Berlin Bulgars Celebrate for Absent King

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Friends of the former czar of Bulgaria, Ferdinand, today celebrated his seventieth birthday for him, Ferdinand himself having left Germany several days ago on a trip to Egypt on the advice of his physicians.

The celebration of his natal day in Berlin took the form of a reception by the German-Bulgarian society, of which he is an honorary member, for the Bulgarian colony here.

He is one of the European ex-royalties upon whom the loss of royal pomp and circumstance sits lightly.

When the allied troops under Gen. Franchet d'Esperey, operating from Salonica at the end of the world war, smashed through the Bulgarian front in September, 1918, Ferdinand just packed his trunks and went home to Coburg. Although he happened to be born in Vienna, his father was Prince August of Saxe-Coburg.

Ferdinand abdicated just about a month before the German royalties in a body followed his example. He left his son Boris, then 24 years old, on the Bulgarian throne. Boris shares that with young Princess Giovanna of Italy.

The ex-monarch did not worry the world with peevish railing at fate or the "ingratitude" of his former subjects. Fortunately for him, he had an abiding hobby, natural science. For a rare orchid he would go a long way, and the gardens of his estate are famous. He is interested in all animal life, especially birds. In the last few years he has visited Brazil and the Belgian Congo, always in search of rare birds and flowers. He is a widower, his second wife, former Princess Eleanor of Reuss, having died in 1917.

Charles H. Brown Heads Chicago's Amherst Club

Charles H. Brown was elected president of the Amherst club of Chicago at its annual banquet held at the Blackstone hotel last night. Paul A. Jenkins acted as toastmaster. Prof. Sterling P. Lamprecht of the department of philosophy of Amherst was the principal speaker, and spoke on "The Idea of a College as Compared to the University and Training School."

Lent Day by Day

The Call of the Deeps

Dr. Frederick F. Shannon,
Pastor of Central church, Orchestra hall.

"Launch out into the deep," the Master said to Peter. "Master," answered the discouraged fisherman, "we have toiled all night, and have taken nothing; nevertheless, at thy word I will let down the net." Here, then, is one of the deepest of all deeps—the deep of spiritual obedience to the Master of the Soul. Are we becoming spiritual divers, bringing up from the inexhaustible depths the soul pearls lying on those mystic floors? In our religion it is a truism that obedience—as Robertson and Brighton phrased it—is the organ of spiritual knowledge. We must obey Christ in the whole range of our life relations if we would know the God and Father of Christ. Some of us have heard this so often that we now do not hear it at all; yet there is no truth we can so ill afford to let become dust covered. Without whole-hearted obedience to him we may toil through the whole night of life and find only dismal failure at the end.

PRAYER.

Help us this day, our Father, to answer thy call to a finer loyalty, a more devoted service, in our thinking, willing and loving. We pray in the Master's name.

Doctor Who Really Understands Child Is Mother's Joy

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I wish every medical student were required to take a course called "Understanding Child Nature." Then, I wish that every doctor who treats children might have children of his own.

Then, I wish he might see, with some sort of magic glasses, how his small patients act when they know a visit to the doctor is necessary. And finally, I wish he might, with those same magic glasses, look at his young patients after they get out of his office and when they reach home. I wish this latter particularly, because a doctor has no other way of knowing how the experience with him has affected the child.

Little boys and girls, and big ones too, have a way of rising to an occasion. If something the doctor says frightens them—if he says in an offhand way, "Some day we'll have to take this out," children will usually not show their alarm. All the doctor will see is a pair of large serious eyes in a little face rather paler than usual. They have a quality—dignity or reserve—which makes them put up a bold front before the doctor.

The result is that often a greater or more harmful reaction sets in when they can let go—much worse for their nerves than if they had burst into tears of fears on the spot. Every doctor who treats children should have some such background as this if he is to render the greatest possible service to them and to become a real ally of the mother.

Chaplin Tells of Day When Author's Mere Name Frightened Him

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Ten years ago when the literati were just beginning to discover that Charlie Chaplin was a "genius" the movie clown mounted George Bernard Shaw's doorstep, saw the playwright's name staring boldly from a glittering brass plate, lost his courage and ran away.

Today he disclosed that he had confessed that misadventure to Shaw when they met for the first time at a luncheon given by Nancy Lady Astor yesterday.

It was while he waited to ring Shaw's doorbell, he said, that a boy with an autograph book in his hand followed him up the steps. Chaplin turned quickly and the boy ran. In a moment Charlie was going after him.

"Why did you run away?" Shaw demanded.

"Purely a case of follow the leader," Chaplin said.

"I'm nobody to be afraid of," Shaw replied, chuckling in his beard.

It developed today that the guest list for the opening of Chaplin's new picture on Friday reads like a section of Who's Who. Among the names are Shaw, David Lloyd George,

John H. Stevens Married Mrs. D. T. Deuell Yesterday

Mrs. Dorothy Trainor Deuell, 29 years old, of the Ambassador hotel, and John H. Stevens, 25 years old, son of the late Clyde G. Stevens, State street merchant, were married at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Only members of their immediate families were present. After the ceremony the couple departed for a brief honeymoon.

Mrs. Stevens is the former wife of Thomas Glass Deuell, a broker, whom she divorced in 1928. She was his second wife. Deuell's first wife was the former Miss Virginia Tietgens, now Princess Odescalki of Budapest. Mr. Stevens is a graduate of Princeton university. His home is at 1412 Astor street.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Romances of the days when pioneers were too busy to cultivate flowers and had to be content with what nature provided in wild state will be brought to the Home and Garden show to be held under the auspices of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs at Hotel Sherman from March 9 to 14.

The past is to be recalled by El Comancho, Indian and hunter, who was a friend and companion of Deadwood Dick, Wild Bill Hickock, Calamity Jane, and Sitting Bull.

Other features on the program include lectures, motion pictures, and colored slides to be presented by Guy C. Caldwell, Rocky mountain guide, who can imitate the calls of 25 species of birds. His habitat often at night in the west is said to be a hammock swung in treetops 50 or even 60 feet above the ground.

Among the exhibits one of the most rare will be a collection of specimens loaned by Oliver M. Tucker, wealthy orchid collector of Columbus, O. Some of the rare hybrid plants in his possession are said to be worth as much as $5,000 a plant.

Several women lecturers will offer other subjects. Bird sanctuaries of New England will be described by Mrs. Alice B. Harrington of Boston.

Gingham Handkerchief Heads Beach Fashions.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Latest Paris fashions are taking tips from both the picturesque and practical clothes of French workmen when it comes to beach costumes and accessories. Talbot had adapted blue denim overalls into ravishingly chic beach ensembles for girls; Chanel has incorporated Toulon sailor's belts into her Parisian yachting costumes, and Schiaparelli has netted much of the nonchalant chic of the Basque fishermen for her shrimping and lounging suits.

Agnes' newest beach bonnet is sketched here.

She makes it of a checked gingham workman's handkerchief and it's the most adaptable hat in the world—all things to all women, being its motto.

She places the handkerchief on your head with one point over your eyes, one pointing to your nape, and two over your ears. She drapes and sews the center into a soft crown; rolls back the front point into a sort of brim, and ties the two side ends under the chin, as you see by the top view. But if you feel that's too much like a sunbonnet, you may widen the brim out at the sides and tie your corners into rabbit knots, as in the central head. Or again, you may drape it into a tight turban and tie your ends in back as in our third sketch. A twin gingham mbuchoir makes the scarf.

You don't need to be an 80 per center

THERE are far too many of them—these 80 per centers! Not sick but just under par. They lack energy, endurance. The demands of ordinary living completely sap each day's vitality. What is needed?

There is a wonderful, easy, new way to obtain the "building-up" elements which under-par people so need. With Squibb Adex Tablets!

Squibb Adex Tablets supply Vitamins A and D, the vitality-giving factors which have always made cod-liver oil such a fine health-builder. They are cod-liver oil tablets!

Used every day, Squibb Adex Tablets give under-par people, 80 per centers, a chance to regain their endurance and strength. They build up resistance against colds. They also help protect against nose and throat troubles.

Each Adex Tablet contains as much of the "building-up" elements—Vitamins A and D—as one-half teaspoonful of Squibb Cod-Liver Oil. They are protected by a special Squibb process. Thus they retain their rich vitamin content indefinitely!

Why resign yourself to being an 80 per center? Begin to build up now with Squibb Adex Tablets. You will find them palatable and easy to take! Ask for Squibb Adex Tablets at any reliable drug store.

KEEP up your Chicago Tribune-Federal Accident Insurance! You need its broad protection more than ever. Think of it! Approximately 31,200 people were killed and 1,100,000 injured in motor vehicle accidents in 1930. This appalling toll is a warning to everyone!

Renew! Tribune Accident Insurance is the biggest Insurance bargain in America—a great public service, which to date has cost the Tribune over $700,000.00 of its own money. The vast amount of money paid to Tribune Accident Policyholders and Beneficiaries is unquestionable proof that Tribune Accident Insurance pays—in fact, pays in many cases for accidents not covered at all by the provisions of policies issued through other newspapers.

Don't take a chance. Renew now. If you don't remember the expiration date of your policy, send the coupon on Page 3 with $1.25 at once and credit for a full year's insurance will be given you from the expiration date of your policy as it appears on our records.

Remember, too, that the value of the specific indemnities in your policy increases 10% on renewal each year for the first five years.

This means that its high value automatically increases 10% to $8,250.00 the first year; to $9,000.00 the second; to $9,750.00 the third year, and so on until the high value reaches $11,250.00 the fifth year. This increase in value costs you nothing extra. Don't wait. Send the coupon on Page 3 with $1.25. Do not send in your policy. A receipt will be mailed to you.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, is amazed to find Hilary Revel, the author of travel books in the space he'd reserved for Judy. They both desired seclusion. Hilary had just lost her invalid brother, Hugh. John, while a soldier, had an affair with a young cafe singer, who bore him a daughter out of wedlock. John's wife, Sylvia, adopted the child. John adored Sylvia and was desolate when she died.

INSTALLMENT V.

APOLOGIES.

John had had an impulse to seize the little figure and carry her off out of the house and out of the country as soon as the funeral was over, but, indulgent as ever, he had not done so. Sylvia's will appointed his sister Gertrude "guardian to my dear adopted niece, Judith Harris," and bequeathed £300 for her maintenance and education.

It had been much better so of course. Gertrude, though tiresome, was kind and had children of her own. Judy would have companions and a woman's care. What more could he have done for her? Even his offer to supplement the legacy had been laughed away.

"My dear John, how unpractical you are! It will be ample. Judith will be trained to earn her own living by and by. That was our darling Sylvia's wish. And you have to think of your career."

Then what did Gertrude know? Everything, he supposed.

Falconer, thinking it over, saw a bitter irony in the situation. Through Gertrude's initial interference he had acquired an obligation. Sylvia, with the lightest touch, had shifted that obligation into Gertrude's hands.

A young man and a girl who had passed him several times suddenly paused by Falconer's chair.

"I say, I'm awfully sorry to bother you," said the boy, "but we're getting up the new sports committee. We have a fresh one from now on to include the South Africans, you know, and we wondered if you would be one of their representatives?"

"I am afraid I am ineligible," said Falconer smiling. "I am not a South African."

"O, sorry, I ought to have known. What I mean is, you can always get over, can't you?" apologized the boy with a confidential grin. "Still, you came on at the Cape, which is all we need pretend to know, so do help us out, won't you? Between ourselves, the rest of them look such a stuffy lot."

"I don't play deck games, and I'm useless on a committee."

"I expect that was a threat, but I am going to consider it as a permit to remain where I am."

"But you needn't do anything, really. Just lend us your name."

"I wouldn't lend that to my dearest friend. You must excuse me, because nothing is going to drag me out of this corner, except, of course, some shipwreck or the act of God," said Falconer gravely. "I have a bet about it."

"Really? What a lark." The young man, regretful but interested, looked uncertainly at Miss Revel who had opened her eyes. "Well, at least your wife will, won't you?" he demanded of her hopefully.

"You are unlucky this morning," she told him, with a mischievous glance at Falconer's direction. "This gentleman is a stranger to me, and quite possibly the only thing we should agree about is a sports committee. I'd rather die than join one."

"I say, I am putting my foot in it. You're not going to tell me you're a South African after what I said?"

"Why, do I look stuffy then?" Hilary laughed and relented. "No, I am not a South African, it's quite all right, but I'm ill, so you see I should be useless,' she said, and the two youngsters regretfully departed.

"Tim, you are an ass," the girl remarked in a friendly, dispassionate voice.

"Well, I like that. You were sent to hold my hand and support my faint-ing form, and all you did was to goggle. And look here, old thing, talking of hats . . ."

The young voices died away. The two they had left, each intercepting a surreptitious glance from the other, suddenly laughed.

"If you had only told me you were ill yesterday I should have taken myself off at once," said Falconer in diffident apology. "I'll move, of course."

He rose to take away his chair, and Hilary, looking up at his tall figure, saw him for the first time her complete attention, liking in spite of herself the thin, clean cut face which had somehow a deceptive look of youth about it. He was older than she had supposed.

"That was a piece of fiction," she explained, "a polite way of saying 'go away and leave me to loaf in peace.' I am never ill, to be perfectly frank. As for moving, I don't see how you can without losing your bet, unless, of course, that was your polite way of saying 'Go to blazes!'"

"Guilty, I'm afraid. We seem well matched in crime."

"O, why not diplomacy? People who will call a spade a shovel are so exacting, don't you think?"

"I'll call it anything you suggest," said Falconer, leaning on the back of his chair, "but I confess I should like to know why you are so sure we should disagree about everything."

"Well, I don't see how you're ever going to find out if you move to another part of the deck," said Hilary reasonably to that.

Falconer promptly sat down.

"I expect that was a threat, but I'm going to consider it a permit to remain where I am," he said.

"It was neither; it was sheer philanthropy. You would have been dragged in to the committee willy-nilly in an hour. The only safe way to treat one of your own lies is to stick to it to the bitter end. By this time half the ship will know that I am ill and you have made a bet to spend your time in this particular corner. Those youngsters will have to explain their failure as ambassadors in some way and will make the most of the story. I have probably been given an interesting pallor and a cough and will be avoided for fear of infection; and no sporting community will ask a man to lose a bet."

"We builded better than we knew, in fact," suggested Falconer.

"Yes, I suppose that line would occur to an architect," said Hilary involuntarily.

She had not intended the conversation to take a personal turn or indeed to have any conversation at all, and she retreated hastily into her shell and opened a book. Yet she could not after all leave his exclamation of amazement in midair, so she said in a tone that had become faintly aloof:

"Well, if you want to travel incognito you should not have your name printed on your chair. It has been staring at me all the morning, and I assumed I was tired of seeing it already. I came on at Cape Town, remember."

"O, Lord, you're not more tired of it than I am," said Falconer eloquently and with a grimace.

It might of course very easily be true. Her own small experience of publishing had told her that. Hilary was not so sure now that Falconer would not be the darling of the ship and revel in it.

She looked up the deck which had become a scene of moving color, the white frocks bright against the sunlit silver of the sea, and for a moment the glamour of her first long voyage returned to catch her heart. What a romantic adventure it had seemed then at twenty-one, even with Hugh, cynical and needing constant care, beside her. Now she was thirty and the glamour had passed; she could not hold it. She had for the first time a sense of panic at being alone and lonely in a world of strangers.

And a time to be quiet;
A time for STARS, without a doubt;
A time WHEN stars MUST ALL GO OUT!

MEANING THAT—beginning with today we drop the star rating system, feeling that it has outlived its usefulness and is not elastic enough to meet the present requirements of fans, producers, exhibitors, and films.

THAT'S ALL! Thank you!

IN THE STORY.

An Old Hunter	Ali
His Son	Bin
An Old Ape	Tua
His Son	Rango

I want to think of ALL of you as going to see "Rango"! It's a perfectly fascinating animal picture, authentic, suspenseful and gemmed with laughs, that will delight grownups and children alike. Especially will the little human monkeys revel in the antics of the little monkey monkeys. So—parents, take the youngsters. You'll get a double kick out of "Rango" if you have them along.

This monkey movie was filmed in the jungles of Sumatra—one of the islands of the Malay archipelago. It illustrates the adventures and hardships of a native hunter and his small son, and the corresponding dangers that make life interesting for a daddy orang-utan and his offspring, Rango. In an interesting prologue, Claude King, talking to little inquisitive Douglas Scott, gets across much information as to vicinity and animals described in the picture and, as the reel unwinds, his cultured voice blends in from time to time with a word of explanation here and a comment there. I wish Claude King might always be the Voice Behind in pictures such as this one.

The photography is the work of Ernest B. Shoedsack, who, with Marian Cooper, made "Grass" in Persia, "Chang" in Siam and handled the camera in "Four Feathers." The result of Mr. Shoedsack's labors are: "Rango" is an intensely engrossing delineation of monkey life in the jungle. The picture is funny, instructive—and terribly tragic. A heart of stone is yours if you can watch, untouched, the struggle for existence of the wistful-eyed creature so closely allied to the humans. Tua and his furry son are a captivating pair. Tua, waiting in a treetop for his baby that will no more come scrambling to him for warmth and shelter and food, is definitely soul-maddening. The jungle is full of simians and the film is full of their doings, though stressing the activities of Tua and little Rango.

There are tigers and black panthers in the jungle. In this real-life movie a tiger is the villain. When he finally catches up with and kills the little orang-utan you know a moment of real sickness and when the water buffalo, household pet and protector of the man and his child, that has been turned loose to combat the killer, finally lays the murderer low, you feel blood-thirstily exultant. Little old Rango was SUCH a darling!

The entire picture is vastly entertaining. Carefully introduced and chosen incidental music contributes to the excellent effect. Photography is fine and the movie is just long enough. Everyman and his Family should see "Rango."

THE CAST.

Finley P. Haddock	Leon Errol

The Street Cleaner	Harry Bovesford

If in gala mood—or desirous of so being—trot over to Woods' and pluck a bouquet of laughs from the gay outgrowth of Donald Ogden Stewart's satire, "Mr. and Mrs. Haddock Abroad."

The story deals with the adventures of a small town Babbit who takes his wife and child forth to see the world. In New York the Haddocks annex a small nephew who goes with them to Paris. While Leon Errol, Zasu Pitts, Lilyan Tashman, Reginald Toomy, et al, do a noble job of entertaining, it must be said that Jackie Searle as the nephew and Mitzi Green as the Haddock—yes, BRAT!—hog the laughs. A pair of excruciatingly funny hoydens, these two! Miss Green has hilariously distinguished herself in many pictures. Master Searle you will remember as Tom's mean and prissy little brother in "Tom Sawyer."

Leon Errol presents a humorous and appealing portrayal of that inexperienced but willing to learn traveler, Haddock. Zasu Pitts is rich as the limp and lugubrious Mrs. Haddock whose refusals to help her husband have fun throw him, so to speak, into the arms of a "princess" who almost, but not quite, takes him for a $50,000 ride. Miss Tashman as this blonde, who meets more than her match in MISS Haddock, is consistently clever. Mack Swain contributes to your merriment as a bearded Frenchman whose trail merges with that of the Haddocks, and all other rôles are pleasingly delineated.

The picture has been keenly set and staged. It has action, "atmosphere," and suspense; possesses some smart lines and is technically well balanced.

You'll vote for it.

FIVE CHICAGOANS ARE AMONG 34 LEADERS AT U. OF I. LAW COLLEGE

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Five Chicagoans are among the 34 students of the University of Illinois college of law who excelled in scholarship last semester. That was announced today by Dean Albert J. Harno. There were 272 law students. The five Chicagoans are Wilma E. Busenbark, 5944 West Ohio street; Albert Goldstein, 1509 South Ridgeway avenue; Leonard V. Finder, 702 Barry avenue; Mason J. Clarke, 1103 North Shore drive, and Richard F. Hahn, 4540 Virginia avenue.

Dame Rachel Shoves Great Off Pedestals

Then Depicts Them as Human Beings.

Dame Rachel Crowdy, an important Englishwoman hurled a number of great European scientific political and military powers off their pedestals at the feet of the Fortnightly club yesterday. Then she stood them up proudly for inspection as lovable human beings rather than awe inspiring personages.

If Dame Rachel were a man you would salute her as "Sir," for she is a dame commander of the Order of the British empire and one of the first women to be knighted by a king of England in 500 years. That indicates that the British visitor is something of a personage herself.

Dame Rachel was so honored at the close of the world war, being the only woman to see five years of active service at the front. She also is distinguished through her prestige as a lady of grace of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem.

"If you had ever seen Marshal Joffre during the war come in the V. A. D. station at 4 o'clock in the morning and demand a dry pair of socks, your awe of him as a one of 'the truly great' would be lessened. None of the great really remain great at close range.

"And Monsieur Aristide Briand. If you had seen him sitting with a napkin tied around his neck eating bread and soup in his hotel rather than attend a banquet, he would lose for you some of his greatness.

"He would become a lovable human being.

"I found myself sitting next to Prof. Einstein in Berlin a year or so ago. (I had met him many times at Geneva during my secretarial work at the league of nations.) I expected wise words to fall from his lips. But some one on the other side of him dropped a vanity case and he spent the next half hour crumbling the powder to see what it was made of.

"Then there was Lord Balfour in the early days of the league, when I was sent, a trembling junior woman official, to ask him to make a speech on traffic in women. I said to him weakly: 'We hope you will make a stirring speech.' He looked at me over his spectacles as was his habit and replied: 'I'm afraid I can't do anything of the kind.' Then suddenly he asked if I had any notes on the subject. I gave him the few I had and he glanced at them an instant, handed them back, and declined.

"We walked together to the place where the speeches were being made. I was much surprised when he came on up the stairs and wrote down his name as one of those to speak.

The one person whom Dame Rachel has kept on her pedestal in the last fifteen years is the late Marshal Foch, the "unostentatious little man of gentle sympathy."

"He was one of the greatest persons in the history of our generation. After the war there was to be a mass in the London cathedral and all people who had been near the front were asked to go wearing uniforms and decorations and medals that had come our way during the war. We dressed as our best and arrived wearing our glittering decorations. In came the unostentatious little man to the church without a badge or medal, as a simple individual. That has made me keep Foch on a pedestal, though many of the people then great have fallen during the last fifteen years."

At a dinner last night given in her honor by the English Speaking union and the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations at the Blackstone hotel, Dame Rachel declared that the league of nations is "doing its best to improve legislation in all countries." She discussed the league's investigation of traffic in women and children, opium traffic, and child welfare.

The speaker said that one of the chief interests of the league is improving conditions for the illegitimate child.

WORK WELL DONE, THAT'S IMMORTALITY, EINSTEIN TELLS PUPILS

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Albert Einstein rounded out his visit to California today with his last public appearance here by again expressing faith in the youth of today. He leaves tomorrow for Berlin.

About 4,000 boys and girls were his audience in the dedication of a new astronomy building at the Pasadena Junior college.

"Bear in mind the fact," he told them, "that the wonderful things which you come to know in your schools are the products of what many generations have accomplished in enthusiastic struggle and with great effort in all countries of the earth.

"All this is now laid in your hands as your inheritance, to the end that you may receive, honor, and advance it, and some day faithfully convey it to your posterity.

"Thus we mortals are immortal in that we work together in never ending achievement.

"If you will constantly bear this in mind you will find a meaning in life and effort and will attain the right attitude toward other people in other times."

Prof. Einstein also gave the following sentence for a bronze plaque to be placed on the building:

THE STAGE

THE Theater Guild's spring season at the Illinois will not start off March 9 with Arthur Schnitzler's "The Lonely Way," as earlier announcements have stated. That date and title have been erased from the first nighters' catalogue. "The Lonely Way" has been found lacking in the values which the Guild's organized audiences demand, and will end its life in Washington tomorrow night.

So the Guild is revising its plans. It will send "Elizabeth the Queen" here as soon as that matter can be arranged; and will offer us "Green Grow the Lilacs" as a successor. The third play of the series will probably be something by Bernard Shaw, revived for the emergency. At any rate, next Monday the Guild will place two of its old Shaw plays in rehearsal, and if the board of governors doesn't change its mind between now and then these pieces will be "Getting Married" and "Captain Brassbound's Conversion."

One of these plays will be offered in New York as replacement for "Green Grow the Lilacs"; the other will be promptly sent on tour. Both of them are vintage works by the venerable British satirist. "Captain Brassbound's Conversion" had its first American acting in 1907, with Ellen Terry, James Carew, and O. P. Heggie in the principal rôles; and it was revived by Grace George in 1916. "Getting Married" had its New York première in 1916, with William Faversham as star.

Otis Skinner will remove "Marius" from the Selwyn theater a week from tomorrow night. "Up Pops the Devil" will follow, opening Monday, March 9. This is a comedy by Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich which was successfully staged in New York last fall. Roger Pryor and Sallie Bates had the leading rôles.

Ben Greet—or Sir Philip, if you like—grazed the Chicago suburban area last Sunday night in the course of his Shakespearean tour of the American hinterlands. His valiant troupers appeared in a high school auditorium in La Grange, offering the first quarto version of "Hamlet." If your Shakespearean studies were not intensive, you will have to be told that in this version Polonius is named Corambis, Hamlet's girl friend is spelled Ofelia, and his classmates from dear old Wittenberg are called Rosencraft and Gilderstone.

The Hinsdale correspondent of this column attended the performance and reported that the Hamlet was the best he had ever seen, which makes things all the harder for Fritz Leiber. The name of this actor is Russell Thorndike, and he's a brother of Sybil Thorndike, the Ethel Barrymore of London. Mr. Greet, of course, played Corambis, alias Polonius.

Lenore Ulric will end her Broadway run of nineteen weeks in "Pagan Lady" tomorrow night, and will then start off on a tour. She will probably reach Chicago before Decoration day.

George S. Kaufman, of "Once in a Lifetime," the New York Times, etc., etc., is preparing a revue for summer use in New York under the title of "The Band Wagon." He has a collaborator, of course—by name, Howard Dietz.

The productions that will be launched on Broadway next week, if their producers do not lose faith, are "Greater Love," by Mary Hay and Nella Stuart; "Gray Shadow," by Roger Wheeler; "Success," by A. A. Milne; "As Husbands Go," by Rachel Crothers, and "Blossom Time," in revival.

"Heritage," by Adelaide Chatfield Whitman, will be staged at the Copley theater, Boston, next week, with Earle Larimore, of the Theater Guild dramas, in the leading rôle. There is a genealogical reason for mentioning this play: its author is the daughter of Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor, of Chicago literary tradition. C. C.

14 Chicago Boys Are Made Eagle Scouts at Ceremony

Fourteen Chicago boys last night were given the highest honor in scoutdom when they were made eagle scouts at the monthly meeting of the central eagle court of review at central headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America at 9 West Washington street. Twenty-one merit badges, given for proficiency in first aid and like scout duties, are needed for the coveted distinction. Approximately two hundred eagle scouts are now in the Chicago area.

Moose to Hold Yearly Music Fete on Sunday

The annual spring musical festival of Greater Chicago lodge, No. 1, Loyal Order of Moose, will be held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman at 2 o'clock Sunday. Among those who will participate are Mme. Hazel Eden and Mme. Constance Neville Johns, sopranos; Mme. Sesaan White Nespia, contralto, and Raymond Koch and Joel Lay, baritones. J. Coates Lockhart will direct the program.

Women Rule Smaller Towns, Duchess Says

Marie of Russia Talks to Chicagoans.

Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, now of New York, daughter of the late Grand Duke Paul, who was killed in the revolution, came to town yesterday. She gave her opinions on American women and their status in civic, business and domestic affairs. They are less successful in their own personal relations with men than they are in civic affairs and business, in her opinion.

"American men spoil the women here in a material sense, but not otherwise," Grand Duchess Marie said as she sat in the old fashioned drawing room of Mrs. Edwin L. Lobdell's home at 2716 Prairie avenue.

"A curious thing to me is that, although they do like to dress them and lavish money on them, they actually look down on them mentally. I think they like to, although in many cases women are more intelligent than men. This is totally different from the attitude of men toward women in Europe.

"In Europe men and women meet on an equal plane much more than they do here. They have a great deal in common and they are natural with each other, working together in the home. Here there seems to be a war between the sexes. They have nothing in common with each other. Women lead one life, men another.

"Contrary to a common idea, women in Europe do not have to keep their place in the home. Outside the home, in civic life, for instance, they have little to say. Women here always are forming groups. They have an important place in civic life. There is nothing like that in Europe.

"I have just come from Kansas City and Emporia, Kas. Why, it seemed to me that the women there run everything! They meet in clubs and talk about all sorts of things. It seems that the smaller the community, the more important women are in the civic life. It doesn't appeal to me personally, but I think they have a fine effect on communities."

Grand Duchess Marie talked with spontaneity and vigor of all sorts of things. When asked what she thought of the impending marriage of her son, Prince Lennart of Sweden, who is giving up his chance for the Swedish throne to marry a commoner, however, she said, "I should not like to talk about that." When she was a girl the grand duchess was married to Prince Wilhelm of Sweden, second son of King Gustav. She obtained a divorce from him in Paris and joined her father, Grand Duke Paul, and brother, Dmitri, there.

"My former life in the old régime seems unreal to me now," she said, looking out the windows at quiet old Prairie avenue, once inhabited by Chicago's aristocracy. "I should not like to go back to it. That would be quite impossible. O, if I might make changes—but it would take volumes to tell what those changes would be.

"I like my life in America. I could not return to Europe now. I like working, too. No, it was never hard for me to work certain regular hours. I had a very silly education in general, but as a child I did learn discipline. You see, being royalty is a profession in itself, and requires keeping certain hours, and requires discipline. It has stood me in good stead in my many experiences. I have never let down, you see. I never shall let down.

"I think education is one of the biggest problems in America today. Young people are spoiled. And although their parents are worried about it, there is a very wrong interpretation of Freudianism and other current curses, which makes them think that what they must do is to let their children indulge their whims."

"Bill" Puts Searching Queries on Matrimony to Doris for Solution

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Answer these questions for me," challenges "Bill."

"1. What is meant by 'a wife slaving away her life for her husband'?"

Ans. Well, there's old Mary, a figure known in certain domestic circles, who for some thirty years has been slaving away over washtubs and ironing boards so that a big, lazy loafer of a husband can have his supply of gin and beer. Last report on Mary was that she was looking for extra night work, scrubbing office floors. Funny thing, though, Mary never calls it, or I think ever thinks of it as slaving away her life for her husband. In fact, most of the women who do slave away like that call it something else—sometimes "their duty." Those who talk most about it are women who don't know what a full day's work is.

"2. Why are girls advised that they are independent girls of 1930-'31, who can make their own terms with a man, who can accept or reject on those terms and none other? But if he rejects, he is referred to as a 'cagey male,' interested only in self-preservation and protection?"

Ans. You mean, it is presumed, that girls have their marriage course mapped out not to interfere with their careers and possibly their own independent social pursuits? And if a man doesn't like the arrangement he's a selfish dud? Who's advising them that way? Not this recipient of tales of marital woes.

"3. Why are wives of inattentive husbands advised to dress up and go out with some one else just to show that if husband won't take them out some one else will? Yet when the tables are turned, all a neglected husband gets is sympathy and the admonition to grin and bear it."

Ans. I suppose the illusion is nursed that a husband who can't manage a wife and keep her contented and interested isn't deserving of anything more than sympathy. A neglected husband, somehow, inspires a picture of weakness, the unforgivable trait in man.

However, the advice to a neglected wife to go out stepping in bright plumage with another man isn't my idea of a solution. It's too apt to precipitate a climax in which said wife is rarely better off than she was before.

Konjola Made Him Happy Man

"Don't Believe I Would Be Working Had It Not Been for This Medicine," Says Engineer.

It is mighty important these days to be able to keep on the job day after day, and lose no time because of illness. Well, Konjola is keeping thousands on the job, and is doing it every day right here in Chicago.

MR. JOSEPH A. CATELLIER.

Now, answer this question: Could there be anything wiser than to profit by the experiences of those who know, from actual test, what this modern medicine of 32 ingredients can do? See what Konjola did for Mr. Joseph A. Catellier, stationary engineer, who lives at 6348 South Seeley avenue, Chicago, and then you will understand why seven million bottles of Konjola were used in two years. Ask your druggist about Konjola. Let him explain why Konjola wins even after all else tried has been found wanting. The endorsement of Mr. Catellier is typical of tens of thousands won by this famous medicine. He says:

"I had rheumatism in a most severe form. All day long I suffered with pains shooting up and down my legs, and I was kept awake for hours at night. My father-in-law had obtained wonderful relief from rheumatism by the use of Konjola, so I decided to try it. Well, Konjola did the work. Gradually the pains eased, soreness left my legs, and today I am without an ache or pain. I don't believe I would be working had it not been for this medicine, and I am only too glad to recommend Konjola to other rheumatic sufferers. My wife, too, used Konjola and she joins me in praising this splendid medicine." Don't abandon hope for health, through Konjola, the new and different medicine, may be just around the corner. Konjola is for the aged or the infant; for all the family. Demand Konjola and get it. Accept no substitute.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The newest designs show color contrast, and there isn't anything smarter than the way the black and white theme is carried out in this chic model. The crossover peplum bodice, accented by black buttons and shoulder flowers, gives a slim effect. A black and yellow tweed mixture with plain yellow contrast is stunning, as is also printed crêpe silk for the entire dress with a plain blending shade of crêpe for the cuffs and buttons.

The pattern, No. 2996, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for the skirt and cuffs with 2¼ yards of 39 inch contrasting for the waist.

Let Relaxed Hand Take Place of Ugly, Tightly Clenched One

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

What odd hand mannerisms one observes in an assembled group! Study them yourself and note what is pleasing and what not. An acquaintance held me up, one day recently, to suggest that I talk some time about the habit of holding fists tight clenched and hands widespread in laps.

The habit then seemed an unusual one. But if you watch awhile you'll see a number of girls and women have it. Also, you'll note where it is present a nerve strained tightening of face muscles, and arm and even body tension so marked as to create an awkward sitting pose. The remedy here lies in one's will power, the will to relax, give release to the tight strung nerves. A general flop is what is needed—of hands, neck, shoulders, body. Shake the wrists out and then let them hang loose. That wrist ease is awfully necessary to graceful hand gesture. You never saw a person with charming gestures without the flexible, relaxed wrist. And a mighty easy little trick it is to do, too.

That tight gripping of the hands and excessive fidgeting are the most pronounced unbecoming hand habits. Not that hands must remain docile, if they've anything to say. They're allowed to speak their little piece—if they're dressed up and have the graces hand speech calls for.

Women should begin now to learn more about graceful hand gesture, since they usually have well kept nails, and are getting more and more to observe hand skin care. It's the next step in hand beauty. Always there must be that feeling of ease behind every hand movement before it can be a graceful one, the secret of which, as already explained, lies in the flexible wrist.

You can learn about gestures from watching hands in any group, picking out the pleasing ones and studying their particular "line." You can learn from women on the stage and on the screen how to carry your hands and use them when walking, sitting and standing. You can immediately detect the habits that should be avoided by their unpleasant reaction on yourself.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Impressing the Honor Guest.

I was a poor but ambitious bride, most anxious to impress a visiting acquaintance. I planned a luncheon but found myself with one chair less than the required number. Undaunted, a few days before the affair, I decided to fill the vacancy by giving an old chair which I possessed a nice glossy coat of white paint. All went well on the appointed day until the guests arose to leave.

Then horror and embarrassment replaced my pride in my accomplishments. And I saw that the impression I had actually made was the imprint of my old chair on the back of the guest of honor's new gown! N. L. A.

An Unbiased Opinion.

I was visiting a friend of mine in a small town in Texas. One morning while we were parked in front of a drug store a roadster drove up and two boys alighted.

After one look, I casually remarked to my friend, "Gee, see that boy in the gray suit. That's the ugliest white man I've ever seen in my life."

After a silence that seemed unusually long, she replied, coldly, "O, that is my cousin; he was supposed to be your date for tomorrow night."

Kreisler Has Birthday Party at Lady Cory's

BY THALIA

OUR London letters always have such a delightful flavor of lord and lady atmosphere. Here is an excerpt from the latest:

"Few houses in London have retained such a Victorian air of leisure and dignity as that of Lady Cory of Belgrave square, where Fritz Kreisler and Brig. Gen. Dawes were guests of honor the other evening. It was Kreisler's birthday, and Lady Cory's musical party to her large circle of musical friends was one of the interesting events of the month.

"The great artist played for an hour and a half to one of the most appreciative and perfect audiences he has probably ever experienced. Lady Cory's spacious drawing room, which takes us back to the empire style, with huge gilt mirrors, was arranged for 250 guests. The gold chandeliers, the tapestries, the needlework pictures of women in ringlets and bustle skirts, and men in side whiskers and tight trousers all contrived to produce the atmosphere of the early 19th century.

"Lady Cory received her guests at the top of the stairs. . . . She wore a tiara of jade and diamonds and a necklace of precious stones. She was once Paderewski's pupil and is one of our great musical hostesses.

"After the recital Kreisler, Gen. Dawes and Gen. Allenby were walking down the stairs together when their eyes rested on the picture of a Swiss mountain scene. Kreisler said at once that it must be, or have been, a musical picture, and, groping behind it, he found a tiny string, which he pulled, and the three distinguished men stood before it gravely listening to the quaint tinkling melody of Alpine heights."

The United States ambassador and Mrs. Dawes gave a luncheon on Feb. 18 at the embassy for Prof. Arthur Upham and the American committee of the Persian exhibition. There were about 40 guests, including the Persian chargé d'affaires, many of the directors of London's large art museums, and Mrs. Pope, who is having in England a difficult time keeping her own name of Dr. Phyllis Ackerman.

Mrs. Dawes has been trying to stave off the flu, and found it necessary to cancel her informal Thursday "at homes" until March 5, when they are to be resumed.

HER ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

MISS JULIA EWER.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ewer of 425 Briar place announce the engagement of their daughter, Julia, to Henry R. Taylor, son of Mrs. Sherman Taylor of 4240 Sheridan road.

Travel, Old Songs and Other Features of Interest.

Goin' places—Mrs. Francis Neilson sailed yesterday on the Bremen for England, and Mr. Neilson is to join her along in March some time, after he gives his lecture on "Lyrics of the 17th and 18th Centuries" next Thursday, with Claire Dux singing things like "Have You Seen but a Whyte Lillie Grow?" . . . Mrs. William L. Hodgkins registered a few days ago at the Huntington in Pasadena, and Mrs. Archibald Church is also there. . . . Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, widow of the former Vice President, has joined the Leroy A. Goddards at Hotel Del Coronado at Coronado Beach, and the Edward C. Crossetts and Ruth were at Coronado for the Washington birthday weekend [the Colonial ball on Saturday night marked the height of the season]. . . . Mrs. Ben Marshall and her daughters, Mrs. Richard Fleming and Dorothy, have been in New York City this week, staying at the St. Regis.

Worth remarking, yes? — Lieut. Warren Towle of the air service and his wife [Janice McNear] had a thrilling time when the ship on which they were returning to Honolulu neared port—a squadron of 21 planes flew out, circled the vessel and precipitated a shower of bright hued garlands [besides being very thrilling to the Towles particularly, and to the other passengers generally, this was quite a signal honor, as the attention is usually conferred only on officers of the rank of major]. . . . Mrs. A. Starr Best had a luncheon for the Grand Duchess Marie yesterday at the Cordon. . . . The John Holabirds and the John Roots have gone to Mexico City for several weeks, and Jack Cromelin, who is associated with Holabird & Root, is getting off this week for Russia [somebody said he was going to build cafeterias for the soviet]. . . .

Robert Lee Eskridge Tells South Sea Tales at Party.

At the William S. Monroes' party for Robert Lee Eskridge and the new book, "Manga Reva," the author, bedecked with a fragrant lei of freesias and jonquils that Mrs. William H. Scriven [she wasn't well and couldn't come] had made and sent him, telling South sea tales, while the guests sat about on the floor [the party was in a vacant apartment in the Monroes' building]—Hawaiian musicians strumming native Tahitian airs—the artist-author's sketches and scarves that he brought back from the forgotten islands adorning the walls—the twin celluloid dolls, named Manga and Reva, that somebody had sent—and the birthday cake for the book — Ellen Root looking perfectly stunning in flame colored velvet.

Announcing—a meeting of the Winnetka branch of the Infant Welfare at Mrs. Gilbert Scribner's residence at 812 Ash street next Monday morning. . . . An English Speaking union luncheon at the Palmer house next Tuesday for S. K. Ratcliffe, who is to speak on "England's Silent Revolution, the Old Roads and the New Traffic".

GERMAN OPERA OPENS

"TRISTAN UND ISOLDE."

Opera in three acts by Wagner. Presented at the Civic Opera house by the German Grand Opera company Feb. 26. Conductor, Max von Schillings; stage director, Jan Hegthekker; technical stage director, Kurd Albrecht.

THE CAST.

Tristan	Carl Hartmann
Kurwenal	Richard Gross
Melot	Eric Wildhagen
King Marke	Karl Braun
Isolde	Johanna Gadski
Brangaene	Marie von Essen

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Here is a brave opera company, and worthy of welcome both for its bravery and accomplishments. With no definite headquarters it tours the United States—this is the third season it has been doing so. It is now pausing in Chicago on the last lap of a journey that has taken it to the Pacific coast and is now heading back to the Atlantic.

To engage upon such a trip in a year of economic uncertainties is almost enough, but the company has something definite to offer, which is more. Mme. Gadski is a veteran of the lyric stage, but her vocal fervor no less than her artistic understanding makes her outstanding among a host of her young fellow artists. She is an operatic aristocrat. In bearing, in gesture, in voice, when at its best, she is an example to admire and follow. If not continuously at her best last night, there were plenty of incidents when she was, and these are the ones by which she is remembered.

Much the same sort of authoritative distinction applies to Mr. Hartmann. It is possible that in "Tristan und Isolde," for that matter, "Carmen" also, one seldom hears a performance quite as good as one imagines it ought to be from looking at the score, but not many excuses had to be made for Mr. Hartmann's singing last night. He was both singer and artist.

This company has always excelled in its artists of low voice, and it still does so. Mme. von Essen was a Brangaene to hear with keen pleasure, Mr. Gross was a Kurwenal of the first rank, and Mr. Braun gave the philosophical meanderings of King Marke considerably more warmth by sheer ability of voice than they are accustomed to have.

Dr. Max von Schillings is a newcoming musical director, and, it would seem, fit to rank among the stars of the baton. He has pace, he has color and contrast, and with an orchestra that can claim merely competence and not stellar rank he created some fine effects.

Japanese Will Celebrate Hina Matsuri Tuesday

The Hina Matsuri, an ancient Japanese festival, will be celebrated on Tuesday, March 3, in the rooms of the Japan-American society in the Palmer house. It is a tradition that on the third day of the third month of each year this festival is celebrated by all the unmarried girls of the eastern empire. This rite takes the place of birthday parties for millions of Japanese girls, as in Japan no birthdays are celebrated.

MILWAUKEE BOYS JOIN GOLDEN GLOVE BATTLE

GROCERY CLERK HAS LAUGH ON BALL PLAYERS

If Pay Is Poor He Can Get New Job.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 26.—For a firm which appeals for its patronage and revenue to that element of the population known as the lovers of sport the New York Giants have adopted a curious attitude toward the players.

Certain of the athletes, notably Bill Terry, the first baseman and the most valuable individual on the team, were not quite satisfied with the wages which were offered them for the impending season. It was then announced that no player who had not signed a contract would be permitted to join the team at practice in San Antonio and that, furthermore, any player who did not join the team for practice on or before a certain date would be fined at the rate of $100 a day if and when he did decide to come in and accept the terms offered.

This program is not likely to be strictly enforced on Mr. Terry, as the ball club undoubtedly needs him as much as he needs his job, but the intent of the management does not seem quite consistent with the spirit of sportsmanship and fair play which has always made the basis of the baseball industry's appeal to the patrons.

Athletes Subject to Boycott.

If the athlete has the courage of his convictions, the whole baseball industry from the huge corporations which own the New York clubs down to the little town boosters' associations, which finance some of the class D leagues, may turn against him without giving him any hearing whatever and place him under a boycott. He must even change his identity and get over somewhere else, because if he is any good he will be scouted by the higher leagues and brought up soon and, naturally, recognized. In his case, he will be subject to suspension for a year or two, at the discretion of Judge K. M. Landis, for violating the reserve clause of his solemn pact with his original employer.

The slavery of the major league ball player, admittedly is not the worst one that a man can fall into. He has a easy job and his pay is pretty good, although the public notion of the average wages of the ball players, even in the major leagues, is somewhat exaggerated. And in the more noteworthy squabbles over pay, the quarrel usually revolves about the difference between $22,500 asked and $17,000 bid. Even at the price bid, the player's actual hardships never are sufficiently cruel to tax the customers' pity, because most of the customers would be very glad to work twice as hard the year around for about one-third as much.

Of course, the athlete should be allowed to solicit employment somewhere else in the event that his first employer does not think he is worth any more than the price bid.

How It's Done in Grocery Trade.

In a similar case in the grocery business, a young man earning $30 a week asks his employer for $32.50 a week in consideration of his increased proficiency. The proprietor of the grocery store does not believe the young man deserves a raise, however, and, on Saturday night, at closing time, the employer says, "Your pay is $30 a week and you may take it or leave it."

Now, in the grocery business, the young man is then permitted to visit the other grocery stores in the neighborhood and solicit a job on the best available terms. He may not find another job, but at least he is not likely to run into the employers' boycott agreement, and if he does and he can prove it, he can set the law on the latter grocers or boss grocers or whatever the grocery proprietors call themselves, for conspiracy.

Certainly, the first grocery proprietor would never have the audacity to say to the young man, "You report back here for work on Monday morning for $30 a week or I will keep you out of every grocery store in town and fine you $5 for every day you miss."

I have often wondered how Judge K. M. Landis can reconcile his policy of enforcing the square deal between athlete and the club owner with his policy of looking out the window whenever one of these impositions occurs.

Boys Know Their Stuff.

I have lately received a batch of letters from some national boys' convention or council or something of the kind indicating that baseball is not in the boys' idea of a glamorous sport any more. Possibly the boys are more precocious about such things now than they used to be. I have been reading something about the loss of employment of ball players and of independent spirit will not be daunted by the idea that once they give up to play professional baseball they give away their independence. And, at that, the glamour is pretty well demonstrated on not more than a dozen players in each league.

There are more than 500 players in the major leagues in the course of a season and the majority of them are known as obscure as so many grocers are.

MORE HONORS FOR BOBBY

Bobby Jones, holder of the principal golfing crowns of two continents, receives the James E. Sullivan Memorial medal from Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic union, during banquet at Medinah A. C., which attracted a crowd of 1,500.

Jones Given A. A. U. Medal as 1,500 Cheer

Bobby Jones took a final bow in the ranks of amateur athletics last night, and as he stepped out of the simon pure picture he was in possession of the James E. Sullivan memorial medal while the cheers of 1,500 admirers, nearly all of them from the amateur ranks, were ringing in his ears.

Surrounded by a score of other world champions at a banquet in the grand ballroom of the Medinah Athletic club, and praised by athletic leaders from all parts of America, the little southern emperor of golf faded out of the amateur ranks as great an idol as ever.

Stagg Gives Advice.

"Bobby Jones, don't let them coax you back into competitive golf. Let Americans remember you as the character they have come to know in the last dozen years."

It was the first award ever made of the James E. Sullivan Memorial medal by the Amateur Athletic union. The inscription on the medal read "for fine performance, for good sportsmanship." Jones had won it in 1930 by a wide margin from a field of several hundred of the finest amateur athletes in the United States.

Brundage Makes Presentation.

Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic union, presented the medal to Jones at the end of the banquet. Golfers, track, and tennis champions, swim titleholders, and the best American athletes in many other branches heard Jones praised as no other athlete ever has been praised.

"I cordially congratulate you upon the honor of receiving the James E. Sullivan memorial medal for fine performance and good sportsmanship for the year 1930, and rejoice with your innumerable other admirers in this further recognition."

PETROLLE, TUT RENEW RIVALRY IN RING TONIGHT

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—For the sixth time Billy Petrolle and King Tut, a couple of the best matched small men in the fight game, will meet tomorrow night, this time in a ten round bout in Madison Square Garden.

In five previous duels Tut holds a three to two edge. Their last meeting, in St. Paul, surprised the fistic world. Petrolle, fresh from a decisive walloping of Jimmy McLarnin, marched into the rugged blonde King's right hand and failed to last out the first half minute of fighting.

Petrolle won his first battle on a foul, the second by decision, dropped the verdict in the third and fourth and was so briskly smitten in the fifth.

Lott Conquers Rainville in Pan-American Tennis

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Ricardo Tapia, Mexican net star, rode to victory over an old rival as he defeated Gustavo Vollmer, ranking No 1 player of Cuba, 6-1, 6-4, in their third round singles match of the Pan-American tennis championship here today. George Lott, Chicago, United States Davis cup team member, won his match, 6-3, 6-4, with Marcel Rainville, Montreal. J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J., defeated J. S. McDermott, New York, 6-3, 6-3.

In the doubles play Hall, paired with Rainville, won, 6-2, 7-5, from Paul Stagg, Chicago, and Marvin Tarpley, Tampa.

Sally League Disbands After 28 Years' Existence

Charlotte, N. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Sally league took the final count today, closing a varied career of 28 years. The class "B" baseball field in the south now has only one survivor, the Piedmont League of North Carolina.

SKATE CHAMPS VIE TONIGHT FOR INDOOR TITLES

Robinson, Hurd, Stack in Stadium Field.

More than 210 skaters of Canada and the United States will begin a two day battle for four North American indoor titles at the Chicago Stadium tonight. The meet is sanctioned by the Amateur Skating Union of the United States and the Amateur Skating Association of Canada. It is being sponsored by the Norwegian American A. A. Almost 14,000 fans are expected to see the opening races. The meet closes tomorrow night.

Canadian skaters arrived here yesterday. The party included Ross Robinson, North American outdoor champion; Percy Johnston Jr., North American indoor champion; Lela Brooks Potter, former North American woman titleholder, all of Toronto, and Alex Hurd of Hamilton, Ont.

Will Watch Robinson.

Although the New York stars, Ray Murray, Herbert Taylor, Howard Speed, and Allan Potts, will compete, public attention will be focused on Robinson, Hurd, and Frank Stack of Chicago, who have been chosen for the 1932 Canadian Olympic team.

Lela Brooks Potter of Toronto, Loretta Neitzel of Detroit, and Elizabeth Du Bois of Chicago are favorites to win the women's crown, but will receive strong competition from Faith Schoen of Chicago, defending champion. Rose Marie Brady of Detroit, Lillian Corke and Elsie Muller of New York are others who can be depended upon for good races.

Stundl After Crown.

Chicago's outstanding entry will be Ed Stundl of the Majestic Skating club. He is a Canadian and North American outdoor champion. He will seek the intermediate title. Stundl is the only skater in the meet who has won three pairs of silver skates in CHICAGO TRIBUNE meets.

In the senior division Chicago will depend on Stack, O'Neil Farrell, Eddie Schroeder, Ray Wondra, Bill Minster, Eddie Murphy, Art Peters, Herbert Knudten, Cornie Ewert, and Al Kucera.

MORGAN BALKS AT INDIAN OFFER; ACCEPTS CUPID'S

New Orleans, La., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Eddie Morgan, Cleveland's home run hitting first baseman, will not be on hand Monday when the Indians report here. He was on his honeymoon today with his bride, Miss Frances Tobin, a New Orleans debutante of the 1930 season.

Morgan, who recently announced his retirement from baseball to become associated with his father in business at Kenner, La., was married here last night. Father Maurice Dowd, C. M., of St. Stephen's Catholic church, officiated. The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Tobin of New Orleans, is prominent socially.

Two Records Broken in Knox Rifle Competition

Galesburg, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Two records were broken today in Knox R. O. T. C. competition for the sixth corps area rifle championship. Morris Marshall of Ipava scored 369 out of a possible 400 for the highest individual record ever made here. In addition to his performance, the ten man team fired a total of 3,528 for its score in the area matches. The latter mark is the best ever made by a local team.

Kokomo, Peoria Forget Other Sports When Golden Glove Boys Are Battling

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kokomo, Ind., Feb. 26.—Tourists and traveling salesmen whose route may lead them through these parts are hereby warned to get a shave and a haircut before entering the town limits, unless they're in a mood to hear boxing talk all the while the Kokomo barber is snipping and scraping. This situation is especially noteworthy inasmuch as it is not customary for a true Hoosier sportsman to devote his time or attention to anything but basketball from the first of December to the last of March.

How come? Why the sudden renaissance of the manly art almost on the eve of the state basketball tourney! Here's what has happened: The Kokomo Tribune has just held its sectional Golden Gloves meet to determine the team which will go to the Chicago Coliseum for the Tournament of Champions next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Fight Talk Is All You Hear.

The folks just can't talk about anything else these days. Drop into the drug store and you'll hear the soda clerk telling his girl how George Scott came in last night for a chocolate sundae. He'll repeat just what he said and what George said as though it were the President of the United States or Lindbergh who had been in. Because George Scott and the other boys on the Golden Gloves team are just about the biggest men in town these days.

And it's easy to see why George Scott is the hero of every small boy and a good many grownups as well. He's a real he-man, tall, tough, and heavy, who makes his living by working on a road construction gang. Before the Golden Gloves tournament he never had a fight—but you should have seen him once he got started. He went into the meet with a terrible wallop that knocked out six of his opponents and hammered the seventh into submission. What soda clerk wouldn't like to be like George?

Hank Hook's Popular, Too.

Then there's Henry Hook, probably the most popular boy in the tournament. He's just a little fellow, but for years he's been an orphan, entirely on his own, and has made his living by pitching in and doing any job he could get. Just at present he's working in a steel mill at Elwood, one of the neighboring towns, so whenever he fights he has the whole house with him.

Another neighborhood hero is Virgil Kindig, who works on his dad's farm near Rochester. While at Rochester High school he went in for just about everything and did everything well. He was the football team's star half back, played guard on the basketball squad which went to the semi-finals in the state tournament, and on the track he won the state prep championship for the half mile run.

Beattie an Ex-Devil Dog.

One of the toughest men on the team is Don Beattie, who just came home four months ago from service with the marines and settled down on his father's farm. He'd done quite a bit of boxing, but he intended to forget about it and never enter the ring again. But he called on Kindig one day while the latter was training for the Golden Gloves tournament, and the ring fever caught him again. So he entered, and on the first night of the tournament in Kokomo he knocked his man cold with one tremendous sock. On the following night he was scheduled to meet last year's champion, but last year's champion had a previous engagement and couldn't make it.

Besides these boys, the team will be made up of Tony Beck, amateur champion of Ohio last year, Johnny Groggs, Jim Parker, and Dale Smith.

By the time the two big nights of the Kokomo finals came around, the folks were more steamed up than they ever had been over basketball. On the first evening 7,500 jammed into Haworth gym, and on the next and final night the citizens turned out en masse. From the ring side to gallery they packed in 4,000 of them—until the last inch of standing room was taken.

South Side's Best

These are some of the boys who will represent the south side in the Golden Gloves tournament of champions at the Coliseum Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

At Philadelphia, Pa.—Bud Maugino, Bound Brook, N. J., knocked out Jimmy Walker, Philadelphia [1].

BY FRENCH LANE.

They call Kenny Jackson, flyweight champion of Peoria's Golden Gloves team, Little Caterpillar.

When this young man of some 112 pounds isn't serving as machinist apprentice over across the Illinois river from Peoria, where they make a caterpillar tractor, he has been crushing foes in central Illinois amateur boxing in about the same manner in which one of the tractors he helps build rolls over so much rough territory.

And Little Caterpillar of Peoria's Golden Gloves team had a rough road to travel before he won his way to the Tournament of Champions, to be held at the Coliseum here next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights.

Weighed 100 Pounds to Start.

There were more good flyweights in the Peoria tournament than in any other division. When Little Caterpillar started training for the tournament he weighed only 100 pounds, a dozen pounds less than most of his rivals.

A flyweight just about as willingly would go into the ring three or four pounds underweight as he would face an opponent with one of his arms in a sling. Even ounces mean a lot to these little fellows. It sometimes means the added power of a knockout punch.

So while Little Caterpillar sharpened up on his boxing he had to increase his weight, and his record in the Peoria tournament, in which he was the hero of large crowds, indicates he did both jobs very well.

Gains Weight and Experience.

Jackson, who during his training not only picked up weight but developed a nice pair of arms and shoulders, is little past the novice stage as far as experience is concerned. Before he started fighting in the Peoria tournament he had taken part in only five amateur bouts, all of which he won, but as he punched and slashed his way to the flyweight title he looked the part of an amateur who has 100 fights under his belt. He reminded old timers in Peoria of Mike Gibbons. He fights on his toes and moves around with ghostlike ability. He is a sharp puncher with his right hand.

Benjamin H. Jackson, daddy of Little Caterpillar, threatened to place the lad over his knee and give him a good sound spanking when he discovered that his frail son had gone in for boxing. But the dad was coaxed into attending one of the sessions of the Peoria Journal-Transcript's tournament. He became the noisiest rooter in the Peoria Shrine bowl as Little Caterpillar fought his way through to one hard victory after another.

Will Lead Peoria Rooters.

Daddy Jackson is going to lead the Peoria loyal rooters into Chicago on Monday to cheer Peoria boys in the Tournament of Champions. Little Caterpillar's working mates over in the tractor factory will send a delegation to encourage him along the path of victory.

Peoria Golden Gloves fans expect to see their boys win two or three championships. They are very confident Little Caterpillar will account for the flyweight glove.

WHIFFY COX AND JOE TURNESA TIE IN FLORIDA OPEN

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Whiffy Cox, Brooklyn, and Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., tied for first place in the 72 hole Florida open today with scores of 291.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, and Horton Smith, Craigston, N. Y., brought in 292s to rank next.

Roettger Leaves Wesleyan for Reds' Training Camp

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Walter Roettger, basketball coach of Illinois Wesleyan university, left Bloomington today for Tampa, Fla., where he will join the Cincinnati Reds in their spring training. Roettger played outfield for both the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants last year, and was sold at the end of the season to the Reds.

SERVE WARNING TO CHICAGOANS THEY'RE TOUGH

Heavier Fighters in Action Tonight.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 26.—Milwaukee began its three day tournament tonight to choose eight Golden Gloves champions who will compete at the Coliseum in Chicago next Monday.

Tonight's bouts not only were the first Golden Gloves contests ever held in Wisconsin, but it was the first tournament of its kind ever sanctioned here. The tournament, conducted by the St. Augustine Athletic club, was sponsored by the Milwaukee edition of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Crowd Cheers Boxers.

The largest crowd of St. Augustine's boxing season cheered the boys from the first bout to the last, and these Wisconsin lads deserved that praise. Boys in the first four weight divisions battled with a courage and knowledge of boxing which presages trouble for the teams at the Chicago Coliseum.

Wisconsin's amateurs not only know how to box, but they can sock. There was none of strategic retreating last night, for Golden Gloves are not won in that manner. Rather, each tore in, pounding with both fists to the body or head, standing toe to toe in sustained rallies which brought a thunder of applause from the crowd. That crowd, peculiarly quiet during the rounds, for that is Wisconsin custom, makes amends for seeming indifference during the one minute intermissions between rounds.

The winners tonight will meet Saturday in the final contests to determine the champions in four classes, the flyweight to the lightweight groups inclusive. Tomorrow the preliminaries in the 147, 160, 175, and unlimited weights are scheduled. Admission is fifty cents and no seats are reserved. The championship bouts Saturday are priced at a dollar.

All in Good Condition.

These boys fought three rounds of three minutes each tonight and each of them was in perfect physical condition. They went at a pace which few of Chicago's amateurs can equal. When the west's Golden Gloves heroes advance on Madison Square Garden March 30, Wisconsin will be well represented if these battles are a sound basis for prediction.

The Golden Gloves battles tonight deserved places on any man's fight card. Bruce Ferro of Milwaukee, a battering flyweight with a kick hidden in his six ounce gloves, stopped Conrad Karshen of the Ace Boxing club in the third round. Karshen got away to a flying start, taking the first round easily, but Ferro's greater experience and a dynamite punch weakened the Ace club boy in the later fighting. Karshen went down for a nine count in the second round, and was pummeled to the floor again in the third round before the bout was stopped by Referee Ted Jameson.

Floyd Loses to Kaczynski.

Harold Floyd, Racine bantamweight, lost a close decision to Ed Kaczynski of Milwaukee. Floyd has had more than 225 amateur bouts and he was the favorite when the lads took the ring. But Kaczynski kept after his rival, pumping in short right to the body, which brought official approval from Judge Fred Andrews and James O'Keefe.

Max Maker, outstanding puncher in his division, the 114 pounders, used that power to advantage in three rounds of slugging with Andy Ciszewski, Ace Boxing club. This match had the fans in an uproar and sur-

See Chicagoland's Champions Fight!

The time for the Tournament of Champions draws nearer! The best young fighters in Chicago and the central states will bring their skill and courage to the Coliseum ring next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights.

You can see these youthful champions—120 of them from fifteen cities throughout Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin and 48 from the north, west, and south sides of Chicago—battle for Golden Gloves if you act now. Tickets for the Coliseum bouts are $1, $1.50, or $2.

And you can watch the winners of the Coliseum tournament fight at the Chicago Stadium March 11 for places on the team which will meet New York's champions. You can see this great show—boxing's biggest for $1, $2, or $3.

Tickets are on sale at The Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, or you can mail in your order together with a certified check or money order. Address it to the Ticket Manager, Golden Gloves Tournament, The Tribune Chicago.

PURPLE HOST AT QUADRANGULAR MEET TONIGHT

Expect Spirited Battles in Relays.

Teams from Indiana, Northwestern, Minnesota and Purdue will compete in a quadrangular track and field meet at Patten gymnasium tonight. Preliminarly heats in the sprints will start at 7 o'clock.

As an added attraction Betty Robinson, women's Olympic sprint champion and holder of the world's indoor 100 yard record for women, will race 220 yards against time.

Hoosiers Hold Edge.

Indiana's strong team, which recently upset Ohio in a dual meet, holds a decided edge over the other three competitors. The Hoosiers have been improving in track for the last several years and this season finds Coach E. C. Hayes with one of the strongest Indiana track teams in years.

The Hoosiers are especially well fortified in the distance runs and are expected to score heavily in the sprints as well. With the preponderance of strength on the track Indiana can afford to sacrifice points in the field events where it is not expected to count so heavily.

Tommy Warne, in the pole vault, and Zack Ford, in the sprints, constitute Northwestern's best bets for first places. Warne is hampered by an injured ankle, but probably will be capable of besting the opposition in tonight's meet. Ford placed second in the sprints at the quadrangular meet last Saturday. Tonight he will go up against another group of stars, the outstanding of whom are Hass of Minnesota and Gordon of Indiana.

Favor Gopher Shot Putter.

Clarence Munn, captain-elect of Minnesota's football team, is favored to win in the shot put. He has been tossing the iron ball about 46 feet this winter, which is much better than any opposition he will run up against tonight. Yunevich of Purdue and Engebritsen of Northwestern are expected to place in the point column in this event.

Two relays are on the program, the mile relay and a sprint relay. Northwestern and Indiana are expected to fight it out for first place in these events, although Minnesota must be considered in the sprint relay if Coach Finger decides to run Hass as anchor man on the Gopher team.

Milwaukee Begins Golden Gloves Bouts

Ray Stachowiak fooled the crowd when he took a three round decision from Ray Manske, also of Milwaukee. Manske apparently had an early lead, but when the votes were in Stachowiak was the winner.

Stachowiak is not an outstanding featherweight by Milwaukee standards, but if he is the 126 pound champion, Milwaukee believes he's better than most of Chicago's boys. This will be well tested by Dick Mastro, Joey Kieko, Don Gonzales, to consider only three of the featherweights in Chicago's sectional trials.

Webster Beats Madison Boy.

Chief Webster, an Indian whose real first name is William, got by his bout with George Schiro from Madison, Wis., in an unusual manner. Schiro was staggered by a barrage of blows in the first round and went to the floor. He was not injured, and half rose to his feet, then again went down without being hit, for which he was disqualified.

The lightweight battles were crammed with action, a splendid conclusion to an excellent card. Ernie Kratochvil, bobbing and weaving, with a left hook which seldom failed to find a mark, went along coolly to receive a three round decision.

Siren Loses to Romans.

John Romans was victor in the other 135 pound fight. He defeated Walter Siren of the Ace Boxing club. Siren was game; despite the beating he received about the face in two rounds, he came back and had Romans backing up, but could not land conclusive punches.

Such was the first night of Golden Gloves in Wisconsin, the beginning which now finds Wisconsin sharing the responsibility of the central states in the 1931 intercity fights in Madison Square Garden.

112 POUND CLASS.

Joie Kratochvil, Racine, unattached, drew a bye.

118 POUND CLASS.

126 POUND CLASS.

Chief Bill Webster, Milwaukee, Ace Boxing club, stopped George Schiro, Madison, unattached (1).

135 POUND CLASS.

Ernie Kratochvil, Racine, unattached, beat Tony New, Milwaukee, Ace Boxing club (3).

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Summaries published yesterday of the final round bouts of the south sectional Golden Gloves tournament at White City on Wednesday night erroneously listed Joseph Susta of the Summit A. C. as one of the heavyweight qualifiers. Joseph Summers of Kid Howard's gymnasium stopped Susta in one round in the final bout and was one of the two qualifiers in the heavyweight class.

Canadiens Win Over Detroit Falcons, 5-0

Hockey Scores

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Canadiens, 5; Detroit Falcons, 0.
Rangers, 4; Toronto, 1.
Ottawa, 4; Americans, 2.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Buffalo, 3; Tulsa, 1.
Duluth, 5; Minneapolis, 0.
Kansas City, 3; St. Louis, 0.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens defeated the Detroit Falcons, 5 to 0, in a National Hockey league game here tonight.

Lepine scored two goals for the Canadiens and assisted in another; Larochelle scored one goal and assisted in another, and Joliat was credited with two assists. Detroit held the Canadian division leaders scoreless through most of the first period but Sylvio Mantha broke the spell after 14:35 and two more goals followed within less than four minutes.

RANGERS 4; MAPLE LEAFS, 1.

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The New York Rangers brought about a big improvement of their chances of getting into the National Hockey league playoffs when they trounced the Toronto Maple Leafs, 4 to 1, tonight. The victory, coupled by Detroit's defeat, gave the Rangers a three point margin in the struggle for third place in the American division.

Toronto's penalties proved costly. Three of the Ranger goals were made when their opponents had men in the penalty box.

Bill Cook, ranger wingman, scored three goals and passed to Frank Boucher for another. Boucher was also credited with two assists and Bun Cook, third of the Ranger stars, with two.

SENATORS, 4; AMERICANS, 2.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Ottawa Senators beat the New York Americans, 4 to 2, in a National Hockey league game here tonight.

Forgetting about their position in the cellar of the Canadian division, the Senators flashed a brilliant attack to score a pair of goals in each of the first and second periods and then coast in to victory. Cox was the star for the Senators, scoring one goal and assisting in two others.

INDIANA HOUSE PASSES RACING AND BOXING BILLS

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The bill to legalize gambling on horse racing in Indiana was passed by the Indiana house of representatives today, 57 to 35.

The bill creating a state athletic commission of three members to control boxing and wrestling was passed by the house, 62 to 20.

Announcement of the vote by which pari-mutuel betting machines would be permitted was greeted by cheers. When the bill was first handed down for third reading Wednesday it failed by a vote of 48 to 34.

The measure, introduced by Representative Charles J. Allardt of St. Joseph would authorize use of pari-mutuel machines at horse racing events. A license of $2,500 would be charged for races within 25 miles of a city of 100,000 population and the fee would be $1,500 for other tracks.

OPEN SEMI-FINAL ROUND TODAY IN PREP CAGE RACE

Roosevelt and Lane High schools, winners in the North section lightweight basketball race, will meet the champions of the west section in the opening games of the semi-final round of the City league this afternoon. Roosevelt will meet Tuley at the Von Steuben gymnasium, and Lane and Marshall will battle on Crane's court.

Bill Haarlow, one of the league's high scorers, will lead the Bowen heavyweights against Lindblom, Central division representative, tomorrow afternoon at White City. The Englewood lights and Parker also are scheduled to clash at White City.

NOTRE DAME OFF ON TWO GAME EASTERN TRIP

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's basketball squad left here this afternoon for New York, where it will meet Army, Saturday. The team will stay in New York until Monday when it will play Syracuse.

Notre Dame has a record of ten victories in 15 starts. Syracuse has the same team which went through last season with two defeats in 20 starts, and Army is one of the strongest teams in the east.

Ban Johnson's General Condition Is Unchanged

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Little change was noted late today in the condition of Ban Johnson, former baseball leader, who is seriously ill in a hospital here. Johnson was slightly weaker this morning, but his general condition remains unchanged from day to day. He is slightly delirious at times, his physician, L. Robert F. Hyland, said.

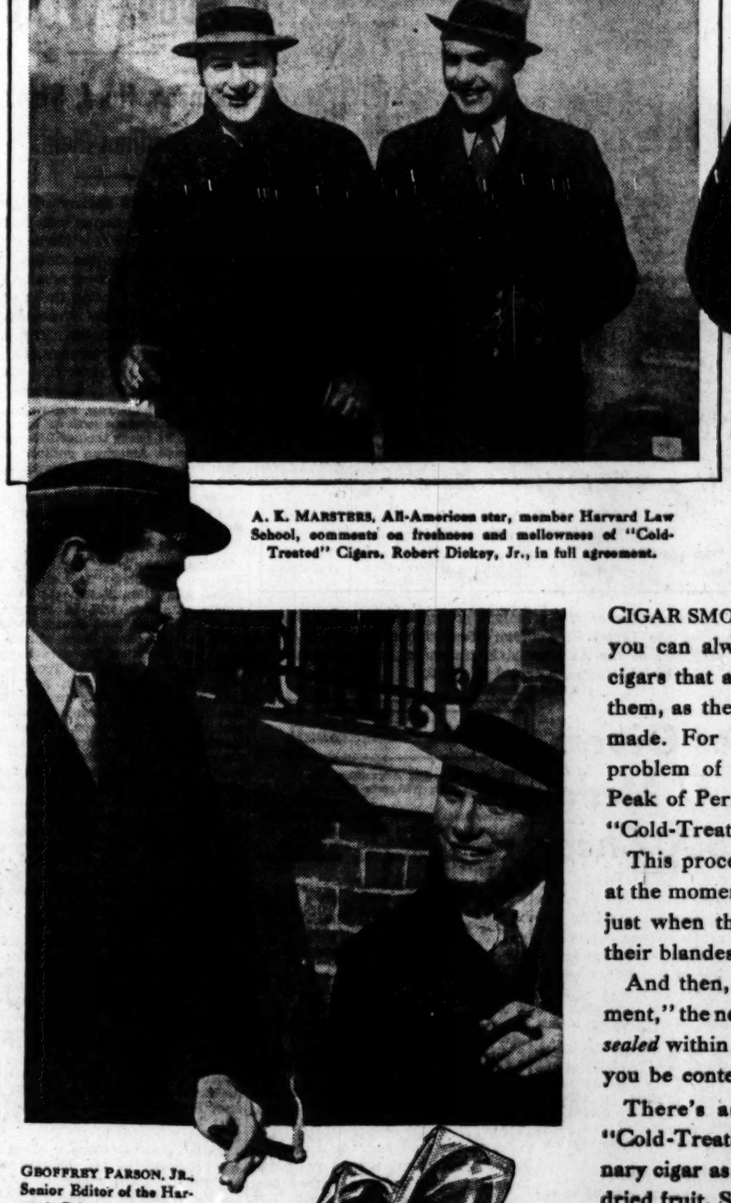
COLLEGE MEN HAIL "COLD-TREATMENT" PROCESS THAT SEALS FRAGRANCE AND FLAVOR IN CIGARS



A. K. MARSTERS, All-American star, member Harvard Law School, comments on freshness and mellowness of "Cold-Treated" Cigars. Robert Dickey, Jr., in full agreement.

"FRESH AND MELLOW," says Edwin Flanders, Harvard University, College, '32.

CIGAR SMOKERS, here is grand news. Now you can always have the thrill of smoking cigars that are as fresh the minute you light them, as they were at the minute they were made. For Dutch Masters has solved the problem of preserving in a cigar its fresh Peak of Perfection. The revolutionary new "Cold-Treatment" process does it!

This process takes a Dutch Masters cigar at the moment it comes from the machine—just when the fine, mellow tobaccos are at their blandest, freshest perfection . . .

And then, by the exclusive "Cold-Treatment," the new-made flavor and freshness are sealed within the cigar itself. No longer need you be content with ordinary "dry" cigars.

There's as much difference between a "Cold-Treated" Dutch Masters and an ordinary cigar as there is between fresh fruit and dried fruit. Smoke one, and see for yourself. Dutch Masters are manufactured by the Consolidated Cigar Corporation, New York, N.Y.

Tune in on the Dutch Masters, every Friday night, 8:30, Eastern Standard Time, over WABC, and Columbia Broadcasting System. 7:30 Central Standard Time.

ARE CUBS USING NEW BALL? THEY AREN'T CERTAIN

Yes or No, Wilson Hits Three Out of Sight.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 26.—The vital changes in the National league baseball were brought to the fore in an official debate which broke out today between Manager Rogers Hornsby of the Chicago Cubs and Robert Lewis, secretary of the same organization.

Interviewers have been after Rogers for an expression of opinion on the probable effect the new ball will have at hitting, and in each instance the new Cub boss has told his questioners that he was unable to express an opinion, inasmuch as he hadn't seen one of the new balls.

Veeck Starts Inquiry.

The circumstances was printed and eventually was read in Chicago by President William Veeck of the Cubs, who forthwith inquired by wire of Secretary Lewis what he had done with th. 80 dozen new balls which President Veeck had given to Secretary Lewis to give to Trainer Lotshaw to be used exclusively in spring training.

Fearing that Lotshaw had been autographing the new balls and using them in a frantic investigation, but discovered nothing.

At press time he was at Mr. Wrigley's laboratory, waiting for a report by experts who hoped, through microscopic study, to be able to determine whether the balls the Cubs have been using are the old or new type.

Wilson Loses Three Spheres.

A representative of the firm that reports to manufacture the National league ball came over from the mainland and pronounced the balls being used by the Cubs as the new fashioned article, but his voice quavered when he saw Hack Wilson knock three in a row out of the premises, and the whole matter was thrown up in the air again, causing Mr. Lewis to decide upon the laboratory tests.

While the debate over the new ball threw all for a time upset the training camp, the boys eventually were able to get settled down for some good hard practice. The infielders and outfielders were slowed down a little after their first workout yesterday, but there wasn't nearly so much muscle misery as had been anticipated after the rigorous opening day session.

Instead of one batting cage as formerly, Manager Hornsby today had two working, and thus was able to give the sluggers almost constant hitting practice instead of cooling them off between turns. The pitching was done by the first string fellows, the brunt of it by Malone, Root, Blake, Bush and Smith.

Pitchers Use Shin Guards.

Yesterday the batting practice pitchers were offered shin guards, but today after the sluggers got loosened up Manager Hornsby and Trainer Lotshaw specifically asked that all the pitchers use the guards while pitching.

The first of the intraclub games with players in their customary positions will be played Sunday afternoon. This will be a six inning game, in deference to the new arrivals. Some day next week the Hartnetts and the Malones will play the rubber game of their series and will go nine innings. Clarence Blair, who was hit in the face by a bouncing ball in Wednesday's practice, virtually had recovered from his bruises today, but was excused from practice until tomorrow.

POT POURRI.

BIG BILL TILDEN, according to his pro opponent, Karel Kozeluh, right now is at the top of his form, displaying a grade of performance equal to his best efforts of 1927. Since this statement was made to a small group in private conversation rather than for publication, it may carry greater weight, for Kozeluh, termed world pro champion, has not yet taken a match during the exhibition tour. Kozeluh added that he himself has not been able to reach the form which he hopes to attain before the tour ends.

Tilden's successive victories are not particularly conducive to attracting crowds and caused a growl or two from a member of the troupe who said Tilden was "stealing the show." We do not believe Big Bill will be inclined to "pull his strokes," as pugilists sometimes pull their punches. Again, we doubt whether Tilden victories lessen the crowds. Tilden has been a national tennis figure for a dozen years. Kozeluh, by comparison, is yet unknown in this country.

The big laugh of the tennis troupe's sojourn here was a luncheon Wednesday at which Tilden was to be guest of honor. The luncheon was a great success except that the guest of honor did not show up. He sent word that owing to travel and irregular hours he needed rest and sleep.

Rookie Radcliff and Fat Man Cissell Contribute to Sox Drill

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 26.—White Sox training affairs took a more interesting aspect today with Bill Cissell and that widely advertised rookie, Raymond Allen Radcliff, added to the party. Balmy weather, the first since the Chicagoans arrived, also tended to stimulate enthusiasm among the actual workers, who before completing their allotted one hour and a half of drill went through some stunts that for early training seemed a bit strenuous.

BILL CISSELL.

The unusual interest in Radcliff was due to the fact that he must hold down first base for the Sox provided no trade for an experienced man is consummated. Manager Bush was more than anxious to see the lad perform, so as soon as the newcomer, who henceforth will be known as Rip, had slipped into a uniform Bush gave him a large order of exercise picking up grounders around first base. Considering that it was his first workout and that he realized he was on the spot, Radcliff did well enough.

Smacks 'Em on the Nose.

The rookie, who has suddenly been promoted from a class B to a possible regular job in a major league, is a short, stocky lad, but he moves easily both as a runner and while fielding. During a batting practice which Bush permitted to satisfy the pitchers who love to hit, and that includes all of them, Radcliff whacked a few right on the nose. Jim Moore, first Sox hurler to get on the mound, was throwing at the time. Moore used the new ball with the raised seams, but didn't bear down, so he couldn't determine whether the change is going to help him. He's the fellow who pitched several good games after reporting to the Sox late last season.

Radcliff has served only three years in professional ball, so if he makes good it will be one of those happenings a major league owner loves to experience, but seldom does. Rip got his start as a semi-pro around his home town, Pittsburgh, Okla., and then signed with the Paris, Tex., team. From there he moved over to the Dallas club, which farmed him to Muskogee, Okla. Then Dallas yanked him back and sent him to Selma, Ala., for further experience. That's where he was last season when the Sox bought him. He has been the leading hitter in every league in which he has played, but, of course, that's too much to expect of him as a major.

Cissell Weighs 182 Pounds.

Interest in Cissell, who has been around so long that he's an old timer, was occasioned by the weight he was carrying. With 182 pounds to his credit he naturally looks slightly out of shape. A few years ago he was so scrawny the boys called him Spider. Now they are calling him Hack. However, a lot of excess poundage will disappear in a hurry if he has many workouts such as Bush gave him today. He was treated to almost an hour of picking up grounders at second base and topped it off with several jogs around the quarter mile cinder track.

In batting practice Bush was impressed by Frank Grube, stocky catcher who was purchased from Buffalo. The kid got hold of one of Moore's offerings and lifted it over the left field fence on top of which is a screen 38 feet high. Bush also has become suddenly smitten by the baseball manners of Johnny Intlekofer, a high hand pitcher who worked for George Stovall's independent club in Los Angeles. The only difficulty is that Bush can't remember the kid's last name. To be safe he calls him Johnny.

DE PAUL DEFEATS M'KENDREE, 33-25, FOR 12TH IN ROW

De Paul university's basketball team won its twelfth victory of the season last night when it defeated the McKendree college five, 33 to 25, at the North Side gymnasium. The Blue Demons led, 17 to 12, at the half and maintained the upper hand throughout with a fast passing game.

STADIUM SEEKS SCOZZA TO FIGHT BOZO MARCH 6

Lou Scozza, New York heavyweight, was the object of his search, but Lou seemed disposed to decline all offers.

Lewis would have Scozza meet Battling Bozo, the Alabama clown, who recently outpointed the light heavyweight champion, Maxie Rosenbloom. Scozza was matched with Larry Johnson in Boston tonight, but the fight was called off when Johnson hurt his hand. Scozza's last invasion of the west resulted in a knockout victory over Tait Littman. Of all the light heavyweights, he is regarded as the hardest hitter.

Unless Scozza can be induced to meet Bozo, it will be necessary for Lewis to swing to lightweights for a semi-windup, with the possibility that Barney Ross, Chicago contender, will meet another outstanding challenger.

HOPPE CONQUERS HAGENLACHER IN BALK LINE MEET

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Willie Hoppe of New York won his third game in four starts in the international 18.2 balkline billiard tournament tonight, defeating Eric Hagenlacher of Germany, 400 to 162, in eight innings.

Hoppe's victory enabled him to strengthen his hold on second place behind Welker Cochran of Hollywood, Cal. Cochran, who gave Hoppe his one defeat last night, hung up his fourth straight win this afternoon, conquering Kinrey Matsuyama, 400 to 303, in eight innings. Standing of the players:

	W.	L.	High run.	Average.
Hoppe	3	1	217	40 15-38
Matsuyama	1	3	159	19 42-62

Ill. Mother's Lucky Find

WHEN we find that some slight adjustment makes a marvelous improvement in a child we wonder why we hadn't thought before to give the child this help.

A good example is the experience of Mrs. C. R. Davis, 5657 Emerald Ave., Chicago. She says: "My little girl was doing fairly well but I noticed she didn't eat like she should and didn't seem to have much energy.

"I wanted to do something for her, and as my mother used California Fig Syrup, I gave Rosemary some. She improved so much I wonder why I didn't do something for her stomach and bowels before. It relieved her sluggishness, gave her a splendid appetite and plenty of energy."

To point up a child's appetite, increase energy and strength, assist digestion and assimilation, there's nothing more effective than pure vegetable California Fig Syrup. Doctors advise its use to open the bowels during colds and children's diseases, or whenever bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, listlessness, etc., warn of constipation.

The genuine always bears the name California. So look for that when buying. At all drugstores.

I. C. C. APPROVES U. S. BARGE LINE ON THE ILLINOIS

Orders Railroads to Make Joint Rates.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Over the protest of railroads, the interstate commerce commission today approved the plans of the government barge line for establishment of barge service on the Illinois river between Peoria and the Mississippi river.

An order was entered requiring the railroads to join with the government barge line in the publication of joint rates over through routes via railroads and the barge line.

The railroads had insisted that the barge service was not required in the public interest, as rail facilities were more than edaquate to handle all traffic offered, and that the barge service would take traffic away from the rail lines.

Held in Public Interest.

Under the Denison barge line act of 1928, the commission pointed out, congress decided that the operations of the government barge line were in the public interest, so that "the question of public convenience and necessity is plainly foreclosed. "It is sufficient to say, according to the commission, that the arguments advanced by the railroads in opposition to the granting of a certificate "are not within our province to consider so far as this particular application is concerned."

The commission further pointed out that under the Denison act, having issued a certificate to the government barge line, it was required "forthwith and without hearing to direct all common carriers by rail connecting with the barge line, together with their rail connections, to join with it in through routes and joint rates, with reasonable rules, regulations and practices."

Rates Will Be Reduced.

The joint rates, in accord with formulas prescribed by the commission, will reflect reductions under the all rail rates due to the fact that the barge rates are 20 per cent under the all rail rates.

The barge line will call at the ports of Joliet, La Salle, Peoria, Pekin, and Havana, Ill., where terminals for the handling of freight to and from shippers and railroads will be acquired and operated by the barge line.

DEBATE WATERWAY PLANS

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—A vigorous defense of the government's program for inland waterways development, together with charges that it represented "futile and unfair competition of government subsidized transportation with carriers by rail," was heard tonight by the New York group of the National Security Owners' association.

Seeking information as to the effect, if any, the inland waterways development may have on railroad securities, the association heard what was tantamount to a debate through the ad-

Loan Rise Indicates Return of Public to Stock Market

BY O. A. MATHER.

The exultant assertion of brokers that "the public is in the stock market again" received support yesterday with publication of the weekly report on brokers' loans by the federal reserve board. It showed an increase of $26,000,000, which was regarded as surprisingly small in view of the advance in stock prices. It also was regarded as indicating that both short covering and buying for cash have combined to help along the upturn.

It was the third consecutive week in which brokers' loans have increased and the total appreciation in that period has been $82,000,000. However, the current total of $1,798,000,000 is still $1,691,000,000 below the figure of a year ago. In other words, brokers' loans are now only a little more than half as large as a year ago.

New York Loans Expand.

Once more the increase in such loans is entirely attributable to additional credit extended by the New York banks, which increased their own loans by $38,000,000. On the other hand, the interior banks reduced their loans by $7,000,000 and nonbanking lenders, including corporations, withdrew $5,000,000.

The demand for credit for commercial purposes also appeared to have picked up a bit in the last week. The weekly statement of the federal reserve system shows that the member banks reduced their borrowings from the reserve banks by $9,976,000 to a total of $189,847,000. But the reserve banks more than offset this contraction in credit by purchasing an additional $12,322,000 of bankers' acceptances, while they made no appreciable change in their holdings of government securities. Deposits declined $11,981,000 and note circulation receded $1,340,000. Gold and total reserves declined $3,086,000 and $5,887,000 respectively, but the ratio of reserves to liabilities strengthened to 84.1 per cent, compared with 84 per cent last week.

Borrowings Decline.

The New York reserve bank made no change yesterday in its 2 per cent rediscount rate. Its report showed a drop of $12,734,000 in member bank borrowings, which now total $38,016,000. But the reserve bank added $10,893,000 of bankers' acceptances and made no change in its holdings of government securities. Deposits expanded $6,335,000. Reserves declined $9,090,000, and the reserve ratio sagged to 87 per cent, compared with 87.8 per cent a week ago.

The Chicago reserve bank reported a decline of $1,362,000 in member bank borrowings, which now stand at $17,725,000. The reserve bank sold $2,174,000 of bankers' acceptances, but made no change in its government securities. Deposits dropped $16,934,000. Reserves declined $10,002,000, but the reserve ratio rose to 84.8 per cent, compared with 84.4 per cent last week.

Furniture Industry Improves.

Improvement in the furniture industry is reported in the Chicago reserve bank's monthly review. The increase in orders booked in January was 64 per cent over December. Shipments last month, although only 11 per cent under those of December, totaled little more than half the total of new orders. Consequently, unfilled orders increased 112 per cent.

January production at slaughtering establishments was somewhat in excess of the average for the month, totaling 12 per cent heavier than in December and 5 per cent above a year ago.

SOME INDUSTRIES SHOW FAIR EARNING FIGURES FOR 1930

Evidence showing that 1930 was not a lean year in all lines of industrial activity was contained in the annual statements of several companies issued yesterday.

The International Salt company reported net of $679,480 for the year, equal to $3.23 per common share, and only 1 1-5 per cent under 1929. The report, however, showed nonrecurring expenses of $136,917 in connection with the acquisition of the Sterling Salt company and a change in capital structure.

M. B. Fuller, president, reported to stockholders: "While your officers cannot prophesy as to the future, they firmly believe, after careful analysis of our own situation and investigation of prospective conditions among our principal consumers, that net earnings for the year 1931 will appreciably exceed those of last year."

The Borden company reported 1930 net of $21,681,213, a small gain from its 1929 profit of $20,403,725. This was equal to $5.12 a share on 4,233,395 shares, against $5.50 per share on 3,706,724 shares i 1929.

Engineers Public Service company's 1930 net earnings were 7 per cent in excess of the total for the previous year. Consolidated earnings per share on the common stock were $2.62, compared with $2.38 in 1929. Net for 1930 was $22,732,000.

DISCUSS LISTING OF FIXED TRUSTS AS POPULARITY GROWS

Wall street heard yesterday that the question of listing fixed investment trusts on the New York Stock Exchange had been informally discussed by its stock list committee as a result of an inquiry from one of the trusts.

No comment was available at the exchange, but it was learned that the investment trust made no formal proposal, merely seeking information as to the feasibility of listing such shares as is now done on the Chicago Curb exchange and is now being considered by the New York Curb.

Many investors are turning to the fixed type of investment trust, Alfred C. Middlebrook, economist of Distributors Group, Inc., points out. Approximately $500,000,000 is now invested in fixed trust shares, it is pointed out.

The fixed investment trust has become a permanent and important part of the investment business of America, according to a survey just completed by Albert Frank & Co., national advertising agency.

Newspaper advertising is referred to as the most effective means of calling the attention of the public to the investment trust.

HOLT OPPOSES RUSSIA'S TRADE OFFER TO CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 26.—Sir Herbert Holt, regarded as the richest man in Canada, arrived here as a poor Irish immigrant and now has a fortune estimated at $200,000,000, today issued a forceful statement opposing the resumption of trade relations by Canada with Russia.

"No truck or trade with the reds," was the keynote of the statement of the 74 year old utility magnate and banker. His words were occasioned by announcements yesterday that Russia had made an offer to the dominion government to buy $10,000,000 worth of agricultural machinery from Canadian firms, Russia to pay one-third of the price in coal.

If Canada were to accept the Russian overtures and exchange her machinery for soviet coal and gold, she would, in Sir Herbert's opinion, simply be expediting her own economic ruin, since she would be supplying Russia with the means of becoming a more formidable competitor than ever. He also urged a world wide boycott of Russian products.

E. A. Nichols, Inc., Absorbs Talking Machine Company

Effective March 2 the distributing activities of the Chicago Talking Machine company and E. A. Nichols, Inc., will be combined with and will operate under the name of the latter organization. The firm will be the exclusive distributor of RCA Radiola, Victor instruments and Victor records in the Chicago territory. However, the Victor and Radiola lines will continue to be merchandised separately.

Thirty Railways Report 27.6% Decline of Income

The first thirty railroads to report January earnings had net operating income of $14,400,000, a decrease of 27.6 per cent from $19,955,000 reported by the same carriers in January, 1930. Their December net operating income aggregated $23,086,000.

Net operating income of roads reporting yesterday, with comparative figures for last year, included:

Heavy Wheat Sales Follow U. S. Grain Announcement

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Announcement that the Stabilization corporation would make an effort to sell 35,000,000 bu of its holdings of wheat to importing countries was construed by the trade as an almost complete change in the previously announced policy of the farm board and led to heavy liquidation yesterday by holders of future contracts in both the Chicago and Winnipeg markets.

For over a week the trade had had rumors to the effect that the farm board was offering hard winters to Europe on the basis of around 72c f. o. b. the gulf, but they lacked positive confirmation from government sources until yesterday. The action resulted in a selling movement that carried the new crop futures in Chicago off 2½c from Wednesday's finish to 64⅞c for the July, the lowest figure since Jan. 29, and to within 3¾c of the lowest figure of the season. Closing trades were at net losses of 1¾@2¼c, with July, 65⅝@65½c, and September, 66¼@66⅜c.

Longs Sell May Wheat.

Heavy selling developed in the May delivery on the Chicago Board of Trade and it declined ¾c to 81½c, the lowest figure since Feb. 3, the trade having a report that a liberal size of wheat bought for investment had been thrown overboard. However, the "pegged" price for the May was not endangered, and it closed at 81¾c, or ½c loss for the day, while the March was ¼c lower at 79c.

While the statement by the Stabilization corporation was regarded as indicating that there would be no cut throat competition with other exporting countries in order to dispose of the grain, the trade felt that on account of the good quality of the wheat it might restrict the demand for Manitobas which have been selling at abnormally large premiums abroad for some months.

Winnipeg reported liquidation of wheat by tired longs, and also pressure from houses with New York and continental connections, and futures closed 2⅛@2⅜c lower at the inside figures of the day, the July being 62c, or 3½c under Chicago.

Liverpool was ⅛@¼d lower for the day, closing before the statement that part of the American government holdings would be offered for sale was given out. July in the English market finished at equal to 66⅜c per bu. Buenos Aires lost 1@1¼c for the day, with the March delivery there quoted at 47¾c.

March Corn at New Low.

March corn sold down yesterday to 60⅜c, a new low on the crop, on scattered selling induced by the weakness in wheat, showing 1⅜c under Wednesday's finish, but rallied on short covering and closed at 61⅜c. Net losses for the day were ½@⅝c, with May, 64@64½c; July, 65⅞@66c, and September, 65¼c.

Trade in corn was fairly liberal at times, with support coming largely from holders of bids. A corn crop of around 400,000,000 bu this season is expected in Argentina, which would establish a new record and compare with a seven year average of 252,000,000 bu. Buenos Aires closed ⅝@⅞c lower.

Persistent selling of March oats was in evidence, with cash interests taking the nearby delivery and selling the May. Closing trades were unchanged to ⅝c lower, the former on the July, which finished at 33c, while March was 31½c and May 32¾c.

Rye was firm early, but weakened later in sympathy with wheat and closed at net losses of ⅝@1¼c, with March, 38¼c; May, 41½c, and July, 42¾c.

SOUTH SHORE RY. HAS $3,556,706 OPERATING NET

Despite adverse business conditions in 1930, the Chicago, South Shore, and South Bend railroad came through the year with a net operating income of $3,556,706, as compared with $3,691,578 in 1929, a decrease of 3.65 per cent, according to the annual report of the company. While the number of passengers carried fell off somewhat the volume of freight hauled was higher.

The net income after deducting operating expenses, taxes, interest on the funded debt and other charges was $306,740, as compared with $419,290 in 1929. The 1930 earnings were equal to $14.60 a share on 21,000 of 6.50 cumulative preferred class A stock. All the class B and common stock outstanding is owned by the Midland Utilities company.

Refunding Plan Near on 55 Million Fox Film Notes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 26.—Plans for the refunding of the $5,000,000 Fox Film company one year 6 per cent notes, due April 15 next, probably will be ready for announcement shortly, it is intimated by bankers who are to handle the refinancing. It is not yet settled whether the refunding issue will be a long or short term bond or note issue, the matter depending a good deal upon the market conditions which prevail when the time for the operation arrives. The company wishes a short term issue.

Missouri-Kansas Co. Files Answer to Complaint Bill

Attorneys for the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company yesterday filed an answer in the United States District court denying the mismanagement and other acts of fraud alleged in a bill of complaint filed several weeks ago seeking the appointment of a receiver for the concern. Federal Judge Woodward previously denied a motion for a receivership pending the filing of the answer. The complainants now have ten days to file a demurrer to the answer.

I. C. C. Orders Small Cut on Wool Rates from West

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Wool rates from the west to eastern manufacturing points were ordered revised by the interstate commerce commission today on a basis which will lead to a small decrease in present freight charges on the traffic.

Argentine Gov't Boosts Numerous Import Duties

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 26.—A ministerial decree of the Argentine government coming into force today increases the import duties on numerous articles. The full list and their increases will be obtainable at the department of commerce in New York tomorrow. The principal items include cotton, woolen textiles and yarns, dressed leathers, films, crude oil, typewriters, calculating machines, gloves, and bats. The increases are between ten and forty per cent on the tariff value.

J. C. Penney Co. Reduces Dividend Rate to $2.40

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—J. C. Penney & Co., directors today reduced the dividend rate on the common stock to $2.40 annually, from $3, by declaring a quarterly dividend of 60 cents, payable March 31 to stock of record March 20.

An extra dividend of 25 cents has been declared by directors of the Mapes Consolidated company on the common stock in addition to the regular payment of 75 cents. A similar special disbursement was made in the preceding quarter.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, Feb. 26.—Evidently satisfied one day's good selling was all the "adjustment" the stock market needed, traders returned to the fray on the buying side today and drove the list forward for the fresh gains of from fraction to 3 points or more. Something like 100 issues were bolstered to new highs for the movement and in at least one instance, that of the utilities, a new group average was recorded.

Outside of the fact that the calendar had brought adjournment of congress one day nearer, there wasn't a development of any kind or consequence in business finance agriculture or politics to warrant the display of enthusiasm. Brokers seem pretty generally agreed that it was a so called "strong arm effort" on the part of the speculative element which has been riding the advance so hard to the alarm of more conservative traders and brokers. For that reason the day's batch of market letters continued to sound a note of caution, some of them warning anew, as they have done many times before, that

CHICAGO STOCK TRADING RISES; PRICES IMPROVE

Majority of Issues at New 1931 Peaks.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Trading expanded beyond the 300,000 share mark as stocks continued to move upward on the Chicago exchange yesterday. The advance in prices was checked at intervals by realizing, but the final results showed a big majority of issues selling above previous levels and in some cases at the best prices since before the December slump.

The scene on the floor of the exchange resembled a day of trading during the bull market days of 1929. Shouts went up occasionally when some active issue went whirling above a former resistance point. When the New York tape flashed 45 for General Motors a spontaneous and noisy demonstration followed.

Signs of Bull Market Fever.

The atmosphere was the same in the brokerage houses throughout the financial district. There were unmistakable signs that the bull market fever is spreading. Cautious speculators who have thought that the market was off on another false start felt less sure of their convictions.

The broad upswing in utility stocks on the New York exchange inspired greater activity in those issues here. Insull Utility and Middle West, which have been comparatively quiet during the last few days, were turned over in heavy volume at rising prices. Motor accessory shares and radio stocks also came in for a share of the attention.

In this latter group it was Grigsby-Grunow which created the greatest interest. The issue sold up a point to 5⅝, the best price it has brought this year. Transactions in the stock exceeded 44,000 shares, the heaviest volume that the issue has experienced in months. Outlook for the company in the last month has improved materially. One of the results of the recent reorganization, it is said, has been effecting of substantial operating economies.

Moderate Advance.

Among the representative stocks which made net gains of a point or so were U. S. Gypsum, Allied Products, Borg Warner, Noblitt Sparks, Houdaille A, and Continental Chicago preferred. A score of stocks made moderate advances during the day which were reduced by profit taking.

The effect of the improvement in securities is reflected in the current price of exchange memberships. A seat has been purchased for $23,000, an increase of $3,000 over the last price, it was announced yesterday.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Chicago curb stocks were generally firm yesterday. Associated Gas common jumped 8 points and the A stock gained over a point higher. International Rustless Iron and De Forest reacted fractionally.

STOCK MARKET ABOUT-FACES AND SENDS PRICES UP

Participation of Public Is Seen Increasing.

Public Buying Increasing.

However, even the most skeptical admit that public participation in the market is increasing and that public sentiment is becoming more and more cheerful however lacking the picture may be at the moment in solid facts and figures to sustain it.

One particularly encouraging feature of today's advance was that sound and solid stocks kept well in the van of the market, United States Steel leading up 2½ points to a new high of 182½, and such big league favorites as General Electric, Eastman Kodak, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Gas, Johns Manville, Westinghouse and Western Union bettered their leading anywhere from 1 to 3 points.

U. S. Steel was particularly in the limelight. The common shares of this leading industrial are scheduled to receive dividend $1.75 at the opening now and with such a development as dividend checkers between the eyes. The dividend is payable to stockholders of record as of the close of business on Saturday, but it is a standing rule of the stock exchange that under such circumstances the stock goes ex dividend on Friday.

Keeps Bears Off.

This condition naturally tended to keep the bears at a distance and at the same time to dampen any enthusiasm for profit taking for the reason that if a trader went short on stock he would have to pay the dividend due tomorrow, while if long of it he sold the seller was giving up the equivalent of nearly 2 points during the dividend.

Trading again showed the greatest relative strength as they have with the monotonous regularity all through the current upswing. Internally, the recovery of the utilities has been the outstanding feature of the recovery so far, the group having gained a gain of some 37 per cent from their December lows on the average.

Mail Order Firms Down.

While mail order pair again went contrary to the popular trend, this time during the downward turn. Closing down heard Montgomery Ward off 2 points and Sears Roebuck 2¼ points on its Wednesday final. Strength which was due yesterday was due to reports of merger rumors but evidently some of those who got aboard on the theory were not quite so sure of their stock today.

Auburn Auto had another of its big days and shorts were taken down 6¾ to the tune of a 6 point gain on 6,900 shares.

Other issues which were in prominence on the day named stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange were Radio Corporation, which moved up 2¼ points to a new high of 27¾, and such big leaguers as Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Case J I (c), Anaconda Copper, Andes Copper, Kennecott Copper, Vanadium, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Texas Corporation, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil of Indiana, Atlantic Refining, Pure Oil, Phillips Petroleum, Barnsdall, Mid-Continent Petroleum, Skelly Oil, Sinclair Consolidated Oil, Simms Petroleum, Texas Pacific Coal & Oil, Amerada, Houston Oil, Tidewater Associated Oil, Continental Oil, Ohio Oil, Cosden Oil, Mexican Seaboard Oil, Mexican Eagle Oil, Freeport Texas, Gulf States Steel, Inland Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Republic Iron & Steel, Crucible Steel, Allegheny Steel, Colorado Fuel & Iron, Wheeling Steel, Ludlum Steel, Midvale Steel & Ordnance, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Textile, Celanese Corporation, Industrial Rayon, American Bosch Magneto, Auburn Automobile, Chrysler, Hudson Motor Car, Hupp Motor Car, Nash Motors, Packard Motor Car, Studebaker, Willys-Overland, Yellow Truck & Coach, General Motors, Mack Trucks

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 2,000; hogs, 25,000; sheep, 11,000.

Cattle and hog prices were pushed forward on light receipts yesterday, while an increase in the available supply of lambs forced the latter back to the lowest point of the month.

Top steers at $11.00 equaled the highest paid for cattle since middle of last week, but compared with $15.75 a year ago. Top hogs sold at $7.50, against $11.50 a year ago. Top lambs at $8.85 compared with $10.50 a year ago.

Medium and weighty butcher hogs made another decided move toward the top of the price list on yesterday's market. The spread between light and heavy hogs was narrowed again. Prime 200 lb averages topped the market at $7.50, while 270 lb butchers sold at $7.00 and 368 lb averages brought $6.55. Fancy 140 lb light stopped at $7.25.

Gains Are Scored.

Early last week 140 lb averages topped the list at $8.00, while 200 pounders sold at $7.90, 270 lb butchers at $6.70 and 350 lb averages at $6.35. Gains of 10@25c were scored yesterday, practically all butcher hogs costing 15@20c more than on Wednesday, while lightweights showed only 10@ 15c advance.

Hogs averaging 170@210 lbs for delivery today or next Monday, were bid $7.50 on the "to arrive" market yesterday. Hogs averaging 210@260 lbs were bid $7.00 for today. Four carloads of 260@310 lb averages for next Monday were offered at $7.15. Trading was slow in future months. April and May light were offered at $8.50 and bid $8.00@8.25. April mediums were offered at $8.00 and bid $7.50. Heavy hogs for April and May were bid $7.00.

Cattle Demand Light.

Shipping demand for cattle was rather light, but with receipts running below normal for the time of year, the available supply hardly equaled trade requirements. The bulk of sales at $7.00@9.50 compared with $7.00@ 9.25 Wednesday.

Prime 1,373 lb steers sold at $11.00 to eastern buyers. Some 1,550 lb cattle brought $10.00 and plain quality 1,000 lb averages ranged downwards to $6.75. Butcher stock showed more activity. Calves were slow, but about in line with the recent decline. Stockers and feeders remained quiet.

Mediums and weighty lambs showed most weakness on yesterday's 15@25c break, some of the extreme weights going at $7.50@7.75. Packers took most 92@95 lb averages at $8.35@8.50, while shippers and city butchers bought lightweights at $8.75@8.85. Lambs without fleece were in larger supply and sold at $7.50@7.75.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

Stewart Rose, president of the Loudon Packing company, in announcing the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, said yesterday that the company's business is on a highly satisfactory basis with volume on the increase. Earnings of the company for the fiscal year ending April 30 will show a substantial increase over the preceding year and will be greatly in excess of dividend requirements according to present indications, Mr. Rose said.

Dow, Jones & Co. says that sales of Sears-Roebuck & Co. in the second 28 day reporting period for 1931, will show about the same percentage of decline from 1930 as in the first period, when sales were 14.1 per cent lower.

Bethlehem Steel corporation is reported operating at 55 per cent of capacity, the highest rate attained since last September.

FINANCIAL NOTES

New bonds totaling $5,582,000 have been issued by the George M. Forman Realty trust. Exchanges of the remainder of the old Forman bonds already turned in to the trust by investors will proceed as fast as can be handled, according to William G. Lodwick, president.

Arrangements have just been consummated by Servel, Inc., under which dealers and distributors of Electrolux Servel Hermetic, and Servel commercial refrigeration units, can now finance their time payment sales through Bankers-Commercial Security company, Inc., of New York, Chicago, and Los Angeles.

DEPT. OF STATE DRAWS REBUKE FROM SENATE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—For its assumption of a right to pass judgment on foreign securities offered in the United States and to interfere with the "lawful powers" of the federal reserve board, the department of state received a twofold rebuke from the senate today.

At its night session the senate adopted the resolution offered by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], former secretary of the treasury under President Wilson, declaring it to be the sense of the senate that the state department has no legal sanction to approve or disapprove "investment securities offered for sale in the money markets of the United States by foreign governments, corporations, or individuals."

The resolution expressed further disapproval of the state department's announcement, two years ago, that it would not permit any officials of the federal reserve system "either to themselves serve or to select American representatives as members of the proposed international bank."

Paris Reports Plan for New International Bank

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, was said in well informed circles here today to have submitted to Gov. Moret of the Bank of France a plan for the creation of a new international financial institution. Other European bank heads were understood to have been consulted also in the project, which would be distinct from but operating with the Bank of International Settlements at Basel. It would have the object of facilitating long term credit operations.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders predict lower prices as a result of the farm board's announcement that they will sell 35,000,000 bu of wheat. Sharp fluctuations are expected from time to time as the market becomes overbought or oversold. There are predictions of new crop deliveries selling into the 50's, unless there is more speculative buying put into the market and foreigners take hold more freely.

A significant part of the Grain Stabilization corporation's statement which traders were inclined to overlook is the last paragraph which says "There is nothing in this export policy that will interfere with, or cause any change in, the domestic policy on the 1930 crop which has been in effect for some months past." A government official calls special attention to this statement as explaining its position.

A Board of Trade membership sold at $8,500, and advance of $500.

A late message from Winnipeg to J. E. Bennett & Co. said, "While export business over night has been small, nevertheless, there is a good interest shown with buying orders from exporters under the market fractionally on a scale down. The feature of this market is lack of offerings the minute Chicago firms cease selling."

STUDEBAKER

WE MAKE FRIENDS NOT PROFITS FROM USED CARS

We must handle used cars as an accommodation to purchasers of new Studebaker cars. We do not attempt to make PROFIT on them. But we do want each used car to make another FRIEND for this business. That's why all our used automobiles are sold at bargain prices and backed by the famous Studebaker Used Car Pledge that guarantees 5 days' free driving trial.
